Missouri Prisoner Escapes

JEFFERSON CITY AP -Larry Eugene Ditto, 25, slipped away from the Renz prison farm across the Missouri River from Jefferson City Thursday night.

He was serving nine years from Scott County for burglary and stealing.

Ditto has several previous convictions, according to the Scott county sheriff's office.

On May 11, 1960, he was arrested for burglary in Mississippi.

In September of 1961, he was arrested for burglary and stealing in Southeast Missouri and received a five-year prison sentence.

His last conviction was when he was arrested in April of 1964, for breaking in the D. C. Brown Tavern and Ann's Place, both in Scott City. He also stole a car.

He is reported to have relatives in the East Prairie and Matthews vacinities.

Poplar Bluff Soldier Dies

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. AP -- Army Spec 4 Dale Francis Hudson, 27, of Poplar Bluff was killed in action in Viet Nam Wednesday, the Defense Department told his brother Thursday.

His brother, Bob Hudson of Poplar Bluff, said Hudson was killed after his unit of the 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division had completed an assault mission.

Hudson, a former hospital orderly, was due to get out of the Army next month.

Services Will Honor Kennedy

NEW YORK AP -- Memorial observances will be held in many parts of America for President John F. Kennedy on Monday, the second anniversary of his assassination.

Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, the slain president's home state, proclaimed a John F. Kennedy Memorial Week starting Sunday.

In Dallas, where Kennedy was shot on Nov. 22, 1963, there were plans to mark the anniversary with a number of church services and the placing of wreaths at the assassination site.

Eight Compete For FFA Queen

LILBOURN -- Eight girls have been selected as candidates for 1965-66 FFA Sweetheart with final selection to be made Wednesday at the Future Farmers of America chapter's annual barnwarming.

They are seniors, Janice Atchley and Suzanne Caldwell; juniors, Jeanna Duncan and Patsy Ruth Mills; sophomores, Dianne Sandlin and Pat Thomason; freshmen, Maurica Schaffer and Sherry Fowler.

Two Negro Boys Killed As Fire Destroys Home

Two Negro boys, Odell Taylor, 17 months, and Edward Taylor, four, burned to death this morning in a fire that destroyed their frame home, 214 Young St.

Their sisters, Linda Spencer, three, and Cassandra Burnett, eight, were admitted to the Missouri Delta Community hospital for treatment of burns. Both are reported in good condition.

Their mother, Louise Taylor, and two other children escaped from the flames uninjured. The fire started in the kitchen.

"I was in the kitchen when the fire started and by the time I got to the living room it was too late to get to my babies," the mother said.

Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey said the fire was reported at 7:06 a.m. When firemen arrived the house was engulfed in flames.

Odell Taylor was burned while lying on a couch in the living room and Edward Taylor died in a bedroom bed.

The bodies were taken to the Dotson Funeral home.

Another fire was reported at 4 a.m. at 214 North West street, at the home of Elza Duncan, 75. The frame house was destroyed.

He was admitted to the hospital for burns on the back and head. His condition was not critical.

Ramsey said this fire also started in the kitchen.

Buffet Dinner Bolsters Faith In Santa Claus

Is there a Santa Claus?

For your answer, ask several hundred families.

Or still better, the testimonial buffet dinner given last night at the Country Club, in honor of Paul C. Meyer provides the answers.

There were 110 persons, who decided to surprise Meyers, for the many years of unselfish service he has bestowed on hundreds of children on Christmas Eve.

Bill Sikes was master of ceremonies.

The highlight was presentation of a radio, compliments of the many families in whose homes he has spread joy for many Christmas seasons.

Guests were Meyer's mother, Mrs. Mildred Meyer, and an aunt, Mrs. Ben Welter.

The exact number of years that Santa Claus has visited the homes is not known, but it started with the Charles Boyce family. Today the visits are being made to Boyce's grandchildren.

Yes, there is a Santa Claus, and the 1965 Christmas Eve will bear this out in the many homes visited by him.

Says Viet Cong Seeks Revenge

NEW YORK AP -- Rep. William Stanton, R-Ohio, says after a visit to world trouble spots that he believes the Viet Cong have been fighting back because of humiliating defeats.

Stanton said he found the morale of American troops in Viet Nam to be high.

Blowout, Doze Cause Mishaps

Two single car accidents were responsible for five injuries Thursday. One was due to a blowout. The second was caused by a driver dozing while driving.

Four men went to the Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff, when Donald Cato, 30, St. Louis, was driving a 1963 Ford, four miles south of Poplar Bluff on highway 67, at 11:40 p.m. Cato, according to the highway patrol, dozed. His car left the road and struck an oak tree.

Injured were, the driver, cuts on head and face, broken arm and leg and his passengers, John L. Payne, 25, Zalma, cuts and bruises; Virgil Groom, 22, St. Louis, cuts and bruises; and Ronald Payne, 29, House Springs, cuts and bruises and a possible back injury.

On route D, two miles east of Lilbourn at 5:05 p.m., a tire blew out on a 1963 Ford pickup, driven by John H. Wilson, 34, Portageville, while rounding a curve. The vehicle ran off the road and turned over.

Wilson was taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti, with scalp wounds and a possible back injury.

Air Guards To Fly To Viet Nam

WASHINGTON AP -- Hundreds of Air National Guardsmen - most of them weekend fliers-have a 10-day trip in their future. They're going to fly Christmas gifts to American soldiers in South Viet Nam.

Volunteer National Guard crews of nine men each will fly an estimated 75 missions to Viet Nam in the next month, carrying cookies, cakes, candy and mail.

Ship Fire Injures Mrs. Mathis' Niece

House Redistricting Plan Wins Approval

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he is considering Friday, Jan. 14 as the date of a special election on the legislative redistricting plan passed by the House and Senate Thursday.

He said the tight time table of legal requirements would make it almost impossible to hold the election any earlier.

The governor said he plans to make some television appearances in behalf of the proposed constitutional amendment before the special election.

The big problem, he said, is to educate the people on the fact that they will be voting on a method of reapportionment, not on whether the legislature should be redistricted. A federal court decided that issue last December.

Even many House members never did understand that point, the governor said.

The special session finished its work Thursday just one month to the day after it started.

Technical sessions will be held Monday afternoon for final cleanup chores but for all practical purposes the reapportionment problem now checks to the voters.

The Senate accepted the compromise reapportionment proposal, 25-4, and after a long argument the House followed suit --99-53- well over the 82 needed for House passage.

In its final form, the plan calls for the House to be redistricted by a bipartisan commission of 20, chosen by the governor from panels of 20 Republicans and 20 Democrats nominated by congressional district committees.

If the commission deadlocks and fails to act, redistricting would be done by the six bipartisan Supreme Court commissioners.

The House would remain at 163 members.

The 34 Senate districts would be drawn by a bipartisan commission of 10, selected by the governor from 10 Republicans and 10 Democrats nominated by the two state party committees.

If the commission fails, the six Supreme Court commissioners would get the Senate problem in their laps, too. Under the present constitution, senators would have to run at large in case of a deadlock.

Both houses also passed a bill increasing old age assistance and aid to the disabled maximums from $70 to $75 a month and aid to dependent children by $1 per child.

Also passed was a bill carrying $1,009,000 to finance the welfare increases for six months starting Jan. 1. It will be matched by more than $2 million in federal funds.

Because many of the new House districts will contain more than one county, the legislative also passed a bill calling for all House and Senate candidates to file with the secretary of state instead of with local election authorities.

Up to the very last, it was House redistricting that caused all the turmoil.

But efforts to send the issue back to a House-Senate conference committee were rejected, and after some bitter speeches by House members who knew they would not be back after redistricting, the proposal finally passed.

Kidnap Victim Aids Hunt

TACOMA, Wash.(AP)—Thirteen-year-old Charles Hyde III planned to help authorities piece together likenesses today of the two men who kidnaped him for $45,000 ransom.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde Jr., was abducted early Wednesday by two men and released unharmed after the father, head of a wholesale grocery company, paid the ransom.

After the boy was kidnaped while on the way to school, the father was notified by telephone to round up the money in $5, $10, $20, $100 and $1,000 bills.

Hyde drove to a supermarket parking lot as he was ordered, to wait for a call at a pay telephone booth, and while he was there the valise holding the bills was removed from his car.

Recalling the nine-hour nightmare, Charles said when his captors left him in the concrete waterfront building where he had been hidden, they told him they'd shoot him if he didn't stay at least 20 minutes.

Then he worked his hands loose from the tape which bound them and climbed about a half mile up a hill above the waterfront to the home of family friends.

Late Thursday at the sheriff's office, he and Pete Schultz, an officer who specializes in composing portraits of wanted men from a set of plastic pieces, tried to work out the visages of the two kidnapers. They planned to go on with their work today.

Freedom Declaration Approved

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council voted final approval today for a Roman Catholic declaration that all men must have religious liberty.

The council bishops accepted the document, a milestone in their Church's 2,000-year history, by a vote of 1,954-249.

The vote in St. Peter's basilica ended work on the declaration which sets a new tone for Catholic relations with other Christians and non-Christians. It recognizes the right of followers of non-Catholic faiths to worship according to their conscience.

Meanwhile, an effort by Archbishop Philip Hannan of New Orleans to amend the council's denunciation of nuclear weapons ended in failure.

Council spokesman announced that the bishops on Wednesday gave more than the required two-thirds majority vote to the assembly's declaration deploring nuclear stockpiling. Archbishop Hanna, former auxiliary bishop of Washington, D.C., had proposed changes that would have accepted such stockpiling under certain conditions as a defensive deterrent. The vote was 1,656-45, with 523 others voting approval "with reservations."

The acceptance vote on the religious liberty declaration cleared the way for its promulgation as a Church decree by Pope Paul VI in a public session the day before the council ends Dec. 8.

Search Spreads For Cong

Moving out from a position just outside the valley in the remote highlands near the Cambodian border, the bloodied but still battling Americans reported 21 of the enemy had been killed and one captured during the night and today.

The troops of the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division suffered light casualties, a U.S. spokesman reported. He said the latest enemy toll brought to 1,207 the number of North Vietnamese dead since the battle began in the Ia Drang Valley Sunday.

B52 bombers from Guam made two more raids on suspected North Vietnamese positions west of the 1st Cavalry forces.

During the night the North Vietnamese fired mortars and small arms into the three main American positions and stormed them in platoon to company strength. The Americans, entrenched in deep foxholes, fought them off.

Mortar fragments damaged a large, troop-carrying Chinook helicopter and a light spotter helicopter.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were engaged in a major buildup to reinforce the hard-pressed cavalrymen. A South Vietnamese force of regimental size was moved into the battle area about 35 miles south of Pleiku and 6 miles east of the Cambodian border.

The Pentagon said Thursday that 108 Americans were killed and 350 wounded in South Viet Nam during the week that ended Monday night. It was the largest U.S. casualty total for any one week in Viet Nam, and it included only part of the fighting in the Ia Drang Valley.

The previous high was for Nov. 7-13, when 86 were killed and 230 wounded. The new figures bring the total of U.S. servicemen killed in Viet Nam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 1,095 and the wounded to 5,661. The total of missing remained at 96.

A Washington compilation also showed a total of 3,542 Communist soldiers were killed in South Viet Nam during the four weeks that ended last Saturday.

Nine Boy Scouts Approved For Eagles

DEXTER -- Earl Jarvis, chairman of the Southeast Missouri council board of review, announced that nine Boy Scouts were approved Thursday night for Scoutings highest rank of Eagle.

They were Lloyd A. Hinkle, and Garry J. Seal, both of post 65, Piedmont; Jim Doggett, post 41, Sikeston; Mark Richardson, troop 264, Poplar Bluff, John Holifield, troop 72, Bloomfield; Bill Thompson and Tommy Ghee, both of troop 50, Lilbourn; Don Rice, of troop 4, Cape Girardeau and Craig Stubblefield, of troop 366 Poplar Bluff.

The candidates were guests of the Eagle board for dinner before the review.

Wallace Praised By Johnson

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — President Johnson led the tributes today to Henry A. Wallace, whose controversial views he said came from "a deep sense of social justice."

The former New Deal Cabinet member, vice president and third party candidate for president died Thursday of lateral sclerosis. He was 77.

From across the country national figures eulogized Wallace, whose sense of crusade and controversial ideas helped block him from the White House.

President Johnson said: "The death of Henry A. Wallace stills an original American voice. He always spoke his mind — and always from a deep sense of social justice. His views may not always have been popular, but they were always sincere.

"I consider him a good man and a good public servant. His country will miss him."

Former President Harry S. Truman said, "I'm sorry as I can be. Henry was an asset to the country."

Wallace had been President Franklin D. Roosevelt's vice president, but in 1944 his renomination was blocked by old-line Democratic chiefs, Southerners and others. Truman was nominated and, when Roosevelt died in 1945, he became president.

At the time of Roosevelt's death Wallace was secretary of commerce, but his ventures

Latins' Eye On More Aid

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — U.S. sources anticipated today that extension of aid to Latin America beyond the 10-year Alliance for Progress program will be one of the major economic themes in the special inter-American conference now under way here.

Under the program of large-scale aid for economic and social reforms, the United States has been contributing roughly $1 billion a year since 1961.

Proponents of the program say it has spurred aid-receiving countries to put up much larger sums of their own for their development, and a number of Latin-American states should be able to proceed without outside help by the end of the decade.

But it is generally expected, the U.S. sources said, that all pockets of poverty will not be wiped out by 1971. Hence the idea of extending the Alliance for Progress beyond the current "decade of development."

Actor Convicted Of Slaying Wife

INDIO, Calif. AP -- Former actor Tom Neal, onetime Hollywood hero in low-budget movies, has been convicted of involuntary manslaughter in the shooting of his young, pretty wife.

Neal's conviction carries a possible sentence of up to 10 years in prison. It is also possible he could serve a minimum sentence in Riverside County jail and be released in a year.

Copper Cozy LBJ Replay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just as he did in the aluminum price rollback, President Johnson is taking precautions to insulate himself from any political backlash from business on copper.

The President appeared belatedly Thursday in the government's release of 200,000 tons of copper from the strategic stockpile. It was necessary for him to make the declaration which would legalize the action announced previously by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

To a news conference held by press secretary Bill D. Moyers came Joseph Califano, a presidential assistant, to play down the idea that the government acted to counter rising copper prices.

This amounted almost to a replay of the decision to release 300,000 tons of aluminum from the national stockpile. While the White House said this had nothing to do with a price increase, the manufacturers got the message last week and rescinded the price advances they had posted.

Califano stressed there was a world scarcity of copper that threatened to get worse. He said producers were rationing their regular customers and that defense requirements for the metal would double in the next year because of the Viet Nam conflict.

In a statement, Johnson put himself in the position of accepting — rather than initiating — the decision to sell from the stockpile.

But there remained some doubt that all of the maneuvering would be entirely successful in sustaining the cozy political climate with business Johnson is striving to maintain.

McDonnell Plant Struck

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) —More than 17,000 machinists struck the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. at midnight Thursday stopping production on jet fighters used in Viet Nam and threatening to delay the launching of two Gemini flights from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

About 200 machinists set up a picket line at one of five gates at Cape Kennedy, where Geminis 6 and 7 are to be launched Dec. 4 and Dec. 13.

Another 17,000 machinists, almost half of the McDonnell employes, walked out at the huge aerospace plant in St. Louis, halting work on 50 Phantom jets, the type used by United States forces in Viet Nam.

Eugene Glover, vice president of District 9 of the International Association of Machinists, and company officials flew to Washington for a meeting today with federal mediators.

Spokesmen for the company and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said a prolonged strike could upset the Gemini launchings.

Falls Injure Three At School

Three students were admitted to the Missouri Delta Hospital emergency room Thursday for treatment of injuries in falls at the public schools.

They were Karen Murphy, ankle injury; Barbara Reavis, arm injury and Jerry Dement, knee injury.

Substance of Peace Probes Are Important

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic authorities believe recent disclosures of peace probes in the Vietnamese war focus too much attention on the number and form of the moves and not enough on their substance.

Depending on the fortunes of war, each side in the conflict has been probing the other's intentions for more than a year.

Each has been trying to find out whether the other was prepared to abandon the war.

How many peace probes have there been in recent months?

Some diplomatic sources say it is impossible to estimate — that peace probing is a continuing effort. Others estimate there have been at least two probes a month from one side or the other.

But in most cases there has been a considerable degree of uncertainty all around as to whether a probe was seriously intended or more or less casual or accidental.

And despite all of the probing, neither side has given any indication that it is prepared to abandon the war.

The current mission to Moscow by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield appears to be one of the most obvious of the peace initiatives on the part of the United States. It seems to be aimed at urging the Soviet leadership to press for a Vietnamese settlement and also at finding out whether that is a practical possibility.

The U.S. initiatives in this field go back to last April when President Johnson announced American readiness for "unconditional discussions" with the Communists on peaceful settlement. Up to that time the United States was in too weak a position in South Viet Nam to approach peace negotiations with any feeling of confidence that the talks would do more good than harm.

The major peace probes before the turning point in the conflict early this year seem, therefore, to have come from the Communist side. Until the United States began to build up its own power in the conflict last February, the Communists thought Washington would tire of the war and the main question for them was how soon that would come about.

The issue of peace talk maneuvers has attracted considerable attention recently because of disclosure that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant had played a very active middleman role more than a year ago in trying to arrange direct U.S.-North Vietnamese talks at Rangoon, Burma, and had suffered a rebuff at American hands.

In spite of this, Thant has been busy on various occasions since that time, according to diplomatic informants here, and apparently remained hopeful of providing the channels for peaceful contact whenever the war has reached that stage.

When you sit down to that big turkey dinner next Thursday, eat, drink and be merry. But don't let anyone sell you on dark meat with the argument that it's more nutritious than white.

Let your taste be your guide, say government nutritionists. The differences between the two are insignificant.

The nutritionists also give this food -- value inventory of the Thanksgiving Day menu:

Bread stuffing -- B vitamins, iron and protein. Seconds of that too?

Mashed potatoes and giblet gravy--The potatoes offer a fair source of Vitamin C, and made with milk, offer calcium. The giblets provide B vitamins and iron. There's no more room on your plate.

Cranberry sauce -- Not so high in food value as most fruits. Who cares?

Sweet potatoes -- Considerable vitamin A and some vitamin C. Better get two plates.

Mincemeat pie -- Not much vitamin A, but B vitamins and minerals.

That after-dinner brandy--Not much besides a lot of calories and a certain sense of well-being.

The meal as a whole -- Probably too many calories, say the nutritionists. But this is more the fault of the diner, than the dinner.

It's true. Even you, the women of the world, can repair your car's engine and save yourself delays and garage bills.

Read on and surprise your husband.

If you're trying the start the car and the engine turns over so fast you're sure it's about to start -- but it doesn't -- push the gas pedal to the floor. Hold it there. Don't pump it. Now, still pressing the pedal to the floor, try the starter again.

Don't get overexcited if the engine starts, as it probably will, for you've let enough air into your carburetor to dilute the gas that was flooding it.

Sometimes the starter will just grind away and the engine won't turn over faster, even though you pump the gas pedal. First, check your gas gauge. Maybe the gas tank is empty. If it's not, the carburetor isn't getting enough gas, so pump the gas pedal 10 or 15 times to squeeze gas into the carburetor, and then try to start the car again.

Eureka!

What can you do if nothing happens when you turn the key? Grab the jack handle from the trunk and bang the terminals of the battery. Really. It might help, for the trouble may be a loose connection and banging the terminal will tighten it. If you don't know what the battery is or where its terminals are, well . . .Ask somebody. And bang gently.

Now, if you get the engine started but it lumbers for a time as if it's sick, and then dies, tap the side of the carburetor gently --gently, now! -- with your trusty jack handle. The carburetor is the first engine part under the big, round air cleaner, which looks like a double-size giant skillet without a handle. It's the most prominent part of a car engine, and usually stands highest on the engine.

Let's say you've gotten the car started and shortly after you move out of the driveway you splash through a puddle. Half a block later there's a sputter, a cough and -- silence.

The thing to do is to wipe the water off the white ceramic part of each spark plug. This could very well enable you to start the car again. (We hope sincerely that you know where the spark plugs are.)

See how simple it is? Your husband may even be forced to admit that he's underestimated you.

Against this awesome array, the food business would seem to be in a helpless situation.

But such is not the case. Food manufacturers expect sales to increase six per cent in 1965.

True, individuals may be eating less in quantity. But a change in quality will result in greater profits and an increased sales volume.

The food processors are optimistic because they believe in research and advertising.

Ninety per cent of the American food manufacturers expect to introduce new products in 1965. For this purpose they are increasing budgets of their research departments by an average of six per cent.

The manufacturers predict that an increase in national advertising of ten per cent will be necessary to gain public acceptance of the new products.

"However, retailers at the point of sale stand to benefit, or lose, in relationship to their own advertising effort. We can win approval of a good product, but we can not guide a prospect to a particular grocer," a representative of national food company asserts.

"Grocers who handle better products, which can be sold more efficiently at higher unit cost, must expect to increase local advertising budgets. It is a necessary survival investment," he said.

Ralph T. Moore writes in the Oregon Voter: ". . .beware of the man who campaigns on the grounds that he is of the masses and is ardently sympathetic to their needs. His vision is much too apt to embrace only votes, and to be too narrow to encompass solutions to vexing problems. We desperately need men who have, by their own efforts, risen superior to the restriction of environment and circumstance, to become outstanding in their particular field. And note carefully that such men are never ordinary but extraordinary. They, only, have the true objectivity essential to the public service, the objectivity that enables them to be the representative of all the people in their district or under their jurisdiction, not merely the representative of the clique or class from which they come."

TRAVEL NOW,
SEE LATER.

Well, the 1966 automobiles are hitting the highways (and anything else that gets in their way) and it is obvious that the big break-through in modern motoring has practically been achieved.

It is now possible to drive almost anywhere without seeing anything or doing anything but sit perfectly still and try to keep awake.

You can now enjoy television in the rear seat of your car and thus avoid the bordeom of looking out the window at the scenery.

You can, of course, have air conditioning and escape contamination from what used to be known as fresh air.

You can have power steering, power brakes, power windows, power antenna, power trunk opening. And side mirrors which can be adjusted from inside the car, thus saving the exertion of stretching out the arm -- a hardship once borne by hardy pioneers.

You can have stereo radio with AM and FM, and you can tune it in by merely pushing a button. You can also have a stereo tape recorder.

All this lovely sound can, depending on which school of thought you accept, help keep you awake or help put you to sleep.

There is also cruise control, which saves the physical labor of keeping your foot on the accelerator and the mental strain of thinking about speed limits.

You can have an electric eye which automatically equips you with inborn courtesy by dimming your headlights when another car approaches. (So far, though, the stupid thing can't tell the difference between a headlight and a neon beer sign.)

You can have venetian blinds to shut out the sun and a rear window defogger to let it in.

You can have tires which never go flat, and there is hope they may devise similar protection for your pocketbook.

If affluence which enables you to have these simple creature comforts has also added to your waistline, a tilt steering wheel is available. And if you have acquired such conveniences without sufficient prosperity to absorb them, beautiful, convenient terms can be arranged.

You can, in short, now go from coast to coast and hardly realize you have left home. Providing, of course, that along with all these accessories you have acquired enough judgment to drive sensibly.

This, alas, is something the driver must still manage himself.

Tough, eh?

YOU CAN HELP THE GUARD

Formulate responsible military leave policies. Because it is meaningful to your business to help keep the Guard "citizen-soldier" concept alive and vigorous, you should consider a military service policey that: Facilitates participation in drills by National Guardsmen on your payroll without prejudice to vacation time, pay or advancement. Maintains and encourages the status and promotion possibility for Guardsmen called to active duty. Encourages Guardsmen to continue their citizen-soldier service by providing: (a) Two week's military leave in addition to regular vacation, with full pay or (b) Two weeks' military leave in addition to regular vacation, paying differential between regular wage and Guard pay, or (c) Two weeks' military leave in addition to regular vacation.

I have discovered a new way to avoid fisticuffs. I calmly say to my assailant: "Would you hit a man wearing contact lenses?" The other day I met someone who would -- and did. He was also wearing contact lenses, but I didn't find out how well this guy could really fight until he hit me with his hearing aid!

A press agent arranged for an audition with a well-known TV producer for his client: a talking dog. The skeptical producer warmed up as the dog started with a joke or two, then went into an amusing political satire. The press agent pointed out that his client really wanted to be a singer. After several songs, the producer was convinced that this was a goldmine. Just then, a huge, ugly dog burst into the audition room, grabbed the little dog by the neck, and bounded out of the room. The producer wildly turned to the press agent, who was slowly putting on his coat, for an explanation.

"That's his mother,' he said dejectedly. "She wants him to be a doctor."

ARE IMPORTANT

It was an explosive situation in space for our Gemini V astronauts - literally.

In and about their capsule were some 85 explosive components designed to perform a variety of tasks, such as explosive bolts that separated the capsule from its booster rocket, or tiny squibs that actuated valves.

Explosive systems, which have proved faster, safer and more reliable than springs and other devices, are finding increasing use in spacecraft and satellites, doing everything from pulling pins to deploying solar panels.

The LEM - the Lunar Excursion Module which will carry two men to the surface of the moon and back again to an orbiting Apollo capsule sometime near the end of the decade -- will have built into it no less than 350 little things that go bang.

Anger and pride are not objectionable if they are truly justified. Even fear may sometimes aid in survival. But envy is a ruthless and a relentless destroyer, both of the person envied and of the man who envies.

The constructive reaction to desiring for oneself the wealth or the happiness, or both, that another has attained is to go out and seek it on one's own. The destructive reaction is envy, the resentment of wealth or happiness is another merely because someone else has it and you don't.

Among primitive, uncivilized people, those who envy another often simply band together and attack him, looting his property. Where personal jealousies are involved, physical assault occurs more often than we like to think even in our highly civilized society. Still it is not so dangerous among us because physical assault, whatever its motive, is a crime and police can deal with it.

The real danger of envy in our society is much more subtle and sophisticated. It is the use and the deliberate stimulation of envy of the successful to line up support for measures concentrating more power in big government. Government has a legal monopoly on the use of force. Through government, the envious can strike back at the object of their envy and help deprive him of what he has earned.

When success is penalized, every man who hopes to succeed by his own efforts suffers. The success - seekers, not the envious, should be out guides. HLH

NEW YORK (AP)—Taking a winter vacation has become a form of social upmanship. The fellow who goes on one feels vastly superior to the rest of us paycheck prisoners who, because of family reasons, can only get away during the mobbed months of June, July and August.

But going on a vacation during the cold months isn't necessarily a sign of wealth. Many people live on bean soup the rest of the year so they can afford to splurge on one.

Weeks before the event he tours the office showing glamorous travel folders. He actually is trying to make everyone else envious, but he pretends to be seeking advice.

"Where do you think I should go?" he asks.

You have a definite idea, but you're too polite to make the suggestion.

Those who go to snowy places suffer from a lifelong trauma as a result of having seen the film "Nanook of the North" during their childhood. They trudge out of the office wearing heavy boots and carrying a pair of rented skis across their shoulders.

A week or two later they return on crutches with a foot swathed in bandages and their eyes hidden behind a pair of dark, dark sunglasses.

"Broke my ankle doing a slalom down the most dangerous slope," a typical victim explains. "The ski surgeon says it's the worst break he's seen in 30 years."

You give a few sympathetic clucks, and then make the mistake of inquiring, "Why the sunglasses?" That gives him just the opening he has been looking for.

"Just a touch of snow blindness," he remarks with casual heroism. "I had to lie there untended all day before they found me. Then it took four men all that night and the next day to carry me down the mountain during a raging blizzard."

Actually, you know in your heart that the liar probably never even got out in the snow, and probably broke his ankle and got a black eye falling off a bar stool back in the ski lodge. But how can you prove it?

That doesn't stop him. He tells you how he ate at the captain's table every night, how he calmed the other passengers as the ship wallowed through the howlingest storm ever known at sea, how during a stop at the Island of Yama Yama he became the first white man ever to attend a native Voodoo rite.

Long after the first robin of spring has come, he is still babbling to you about all the fun he had while you were busy in the office doing his job as well as your own.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The chief of the Army Visitors Bureau in Hawaii, Lt. Col. Robert F. Blume, has a tough time now that Congress is out of session. About half the congressional junkets stop off in Hawaii, and he has to meet the planes, arrange hotel reservations, answer questions about night clubs and bathing beaches, then see the visitors off again on the right plane.

No less than 28 representatives and senators are listed to travel across the Pacific, stopping at Honolulu, during the month of November alone.

The efficient army has carefully prepared a list of each visiting solon with the time of arrival, time of departure, hotel and the primary purpose behind the junket. Most of the congressmen have listed as their primary interest "cinpac," which, translated leterally, means commander-in-chief, Pacific, and covers the entire Pacific. But one group of congressmen, representing the House Labor and Education committee, listed as their interest "PACAF", the abbreviation for the air force in the Pacific.

Here is the official list of "distinguished personnel" distributed November 4 by the Army's Pacific Visitors Bureau so its personnel can make congressional junketeers feel at home.

Listed for arrival Nov. 7 at 10:30 a.m. on Pan American airways flight 2 were Senators Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., and Joe Tydings, D-Md., members of the Senate Judiciary committee.

Listed for Nov. 9 at 5:15 p.m. on an air force C-121 jet were the following members of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics: Olin Teague, Tex., Bob Casey, Tex., Emilio Daddario, and Robert Giaimo, both Conn., Edward Boland, Mass., and Torbert MacDonald, Mass., all Democrats. They are listed by the army as billeted at the Hawaiian Village Hotel, one of the plushest hostelries in the Pacific, to remain there till Nov. 11 at 4 p.m., thus giving them two days of sunshine on Waikiki.

Listed to arrive Nov. 11 at 6:30 a.m. were the following members of the House Education and Labor committee on special air mission transportation: John Dent, Pa., Gus Hawkins, Calif., William Ford, Mich., Patsy Mink, Hawaii, all Democrats, and William Ayres, Ohio, Republican. They too were billeted at the Hawaiian Village hotel and scheduled to leave Nov. 14, thus giving them three days to enjoy the balmy air of Honolulu.

BEACHHEAD OPERATION

Listed for arrival in Honolulu on Nov. 12, coming from Manila on Philippine flight 100, were two Democratic members of the House Judiciary committee: Robert Ashmore, S. C., and George F. Senner, Jr., Ariz. They were scheduled to remain in Honolulu until Nov. 14 at 2 p.m., thus giving them a little over two days of Hawaiian sunshine.

Scheduled for arrival on Nov. 14 at 3:55 p.m. on SAM flight 7885, were the following members of the Armed Services subcommittee: Otis Pike, N. Y., Alton Lennon, N. C., Charles Gubser, N. C., all Democrats; and Alexander Pirnie, N. Y., with William Bates, Mass., both Republicans. They were scheduled to enjoy two days of Hawaiian sunshine, though the army had not been able to find the right hotel rooms for them when the November schedule of visitors was published.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., was scheduled to arrive Nov. 16 by Commercial airline and remain in Honolulu six long days until Nov. 22, billeted at the bargain - rate bachelors quarters at the Hickam Air Force base. McClory is a member of the House Judiciary committee and the exact nature of his junket is not known. His primary interest appeared to be Hawaiian sunshine.

Scheduled to arrive in Honolulu Nov. 20 on air force jet VC-137 are the following members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee: William Fulbright, Ark., John Sparkman, Ala., Frank Moss, Utah, Democrats; with Burt Hickenlooper, Iowa, and Tom Kuchel, Calif., both Republicans. Their schedule calls for a two-day rest at the Royal Hawaiian hotel.

Scheduled to arrive in Honolulu Nov. 21 on the Australian Airline Qantas flight 586, are Reps. Ken Heckler, W. Va., and J. Edward Roush, Ind., both Democrats, of the Science and Astronautics committee. But they will touch down only for a few minutes in Honolulu before flying on.

In addition, the Army Visitors Bureau lists some notable brass hats for entertainment during the month of November. Most interesting is Gen. Al Wedemeyer, retired, who has been such a severe critic of American foreign policy and a staunch proponent of the extreme right wing. Wedemeyer, though retired, is listed as traveling on "official business," with his primary interest "CINPAC". The army listed him as billeted in "Princess 'K'," the ritzy Princes Kaiulani hotel.

The colonel in charge of laying out the red carpet for VIPs, Robert F. Blume, is an infantry officer. Sometimes he wishes he were back in the infantry instead of fighting the battle of the visitors in Honolulu.

SAVING GETTYSBURG

A unique ceremony takes place on the Gettysburg battlefield today (Nov. 19). It won't make history as did Abraham Lincoln's tribute to the brave men who gave their lives there, but will be another kind of a tribute--to 13,000 schools across the country and the children who raised $140,000 to save 140 acres of the historic battlefield from becoming a housing project.

Martin Brill and the Gettysburg Battlefield Preservation Association have now saved a total of 250 acres of land where the heroes of the north and south gave their lives in the bloodiest battle of American history. And today it will be turned over to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall in a ceremony illustrating what the American people can do to save their heritage when they are given leadership.

However, the hotdog stands, the motels, the gas stations, are encroaching on other parts of the battlefield. Signs are up advertising parts of the battlefield for sale. The House and Senate Appropriations committees refuse to do anything about saving this historic land from the developers, and the schools of the country may have to step into the breach again.

Communists' Global Labor Apparatus Sets Dec. 20 As Deadline for Slowing U. S. War Supply Lines

WASHINGTON, D. C.: -- A global campaign is being launched by the Soviets' labor strategists to cut the production and paralyze the transportation and slash the supply of war material to allied troops in South Viet Nam.

Deadline for action has been set for December 20.

What the Soviet's "labor desk" in the Central Committee of the Communist Party USSR hopes for are mass action movements in the free nations of the world. This is a drive targeted at inspiring wide defections of foreign crews aboard freighters shuttling war cargo to South Vietnamese ports from American harbors, from Indian and Chinese oceanic islands as well as from the key supply centers in Japan and the Philippines.

To parallel this effort at waterfront disruption, the Soviet global labor apparatus will attempt to stir mass street demonstrations, as well as disruption in "factories, workshops and offices."

Just how much disruption, if any, can be wrought by the Soviets' labor front, the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU), will be measurable only on and in the weeks after that deadline.

But no one needs a man in the Kremlin to document the orders for such an ambitious worldwide attack upon the supply lines to U. S. troops on the jungle and rice paddy fronts.

It is being directed by a brilliant, disciplined Muscovite Communist of French origin, Louis Saillant. His headquarters are in Czechoslovakia at Prague 1, Nam. Curieovych 1, telephone 67-856, where the Soviets have gathered a considerable number of American specialists. His instructions were dispatched to thousands of unions, Communist and anti-Communist, in many lands including the United States.

The Communist labor forces behind the Iron Curtain are expected to run mass demonstrations against "American Imperialism." The U. S. is to be denounced and charged with using poison gas against civilians as well as for allegedly preparing to unleash bacteriological and chemical warfare against women, children and cattle.

On this side of the Iron Curtain, Mr. Saillant, WFTU General Secretary, hopes to stir action even amongst non-Communist unions.

The most vigorous and immediate reaction sprang from Joe Curran, leader of the National Maritime Union (NMU). He acted swiftly on an international as well as national front. After examining the Saillant letter and document of instruction sent from Prague on Oct. 29, Curran notified all crews on all ships to be on the alert for Communist action in ports across the world.

Curran also plans to call on his colleagues inside labor throughout the U. S. to funnel information into the NMU headquarters if anything develops on the rails or airports or in any communication and transport centers.

He communicated with the anti-Communist world coalition known as the International Transportworkers' Federation in London urging it, in turn, to alert its many affiliates.

"We have to fight as hard for our side," said Joe Curran, "as they are fighting for theirs. This is the kind of thing we should have been doing to them on the Cuban run and to the ships which carry supplies to the North Vietnamese ports.

"Let's make certain that Defense Secretary McNamara knows what the other side is up to. Now perhaps he will put more American freighters on the high seas and stop chartering foreign flag ships, whose crews keep deserting just when we need to rush equipment into key Viet Nam ports."

What especially aroused Curran in the long document which Saillant rushed to thousands of unions on all continents was the following Communist call for sabotage:

"The Congress (of the WFTU) appeals to the workers and trade union organizations of all countries, and especially to the transport workers and trade unions, those in other branches in connection with the production, transport and supply of war material for the United States' war of aggression in Viet Nam, to make all efforts and adopt suitable forms and methods of struggle in order to boycott and prevent production and transport or supply for the American imperialists in their war of aggression in Viet Nam."

This mass movement on the labor front has been skillfully built for two years now. It began with the convening in Hanoi of the Conferences of the International Trade Union Committee for Solidarity with the Workers and People of Viet Nam against the American Imperialist Aggressors in Oct. 1963. Another such meeting was held early last June. There the action program was planned. Final touches were added in Warsaw last month.

Finally the Soviet - controlled global labor apparatus set Dec. 20 as its own labor action day.

Soon we'll know if this "apparat" is a paper tiger or whether they can chew up some of our supply lines.

The Modern Christian

Does Jesus Chirst teach that some people will go to Hell?

The word Hell is mostly used to signify the place of the damned, corresponding to the biblical terms of Gehenna and Tartarus.

In the New Testament the place of all the dead, whether good or wicked, is called Hades. (Matthew 11.23; Luke 10.15; etc.) However, the place of punishment for wicked is generally called Gehenna.

"And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul; rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body in hell." (Matthew 10.28) There are many such New Testament passages where Christ directly refers to hell. (Matthew 5, 13, 18, 23; Luke 12; Mark 9)

In Luke hell is viewed as a place of torture where sinners go immediately after death. However, it is more often viewed in future aspect, where wicked men are cast with the fallen angels at the end of the world. (Matthew 25.41; Revelation 19.20; 20.10; 21.18)

In the book of Revelation, the present abode of Satan is described as a prison. Here hell is called an abyss in the darkness of the earth in which its inmates are held till the last judgment, when they will be cast into a pool of everlasting fire.

From scriptural passages, the characteristics of hell are fire, gnashing of teeth, darkness, and the ever-gnawing worm. I would doubt that these traits would have to be taken as literal fact. Rather, they are used to communicate to man that hell is the last place any sane person would want to live his eternal destiny.

Hell is simply the eternal loss or absence of God. In closing I do not think that we should place hell as specifically out in the beyond. Hell is the lack of one's presence and love, and not an enclosure.

Debbie Has Plush Room

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It all started with that long walk that Debbie Reynolds took in the rain. It has ended with a splendiferous dressing- room trailer that threatens to cause major discontent among her fellow stars.

Between scenes of "The Singing Nun," Miss Reynolds repairs to the most elegant trailer for a star since Marion Davies dwelt in a colonial mansion on wheels. It is lush, plush and glittering, and the former cheerleader from Burbank (Calif.) High School enjoys it unashamedly.

"And why shouldn't I?" she argues. "I spend almost as much time in this dressing room as I do in my own home. If you're going to be a star, you should live like a star."

It was different during her 14 years of servitude at MGM. Then her between-scenes time was spent in a series of shanties. When she was back on the lot for her first film there as a free-lancer, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," she cracked.

"The day that it happened, the rain was coming down like mad," she recalled. "I had to walk four blocks to the bathroom (actors' dressing rooms traditionally have no plumbing), then four blocks back.

"I was out for a week with a cold. That meant $30,000 a day loss to the studio, which seems like a ridiculous thing to have happen because there was no bathroom nearby."

Debbie decided to splurge on a trailer for herself, since the studio wasn't about to do it for her. She ordered a 34-footer and had it especially designed, inside and out. The trailer is divided into three sections: A sitting area with cushiony chairs and couch; the dressing-makeup section, surrounded by full-length mirrors; storage and bath.

"I wanted it done with utter elegance," she explained." "This is what the public expects of movie stars: White mink rugs and champagne."

I noted that the rug was in reality red fox. But the champagne was in the refrigerator.

Debbie reported rather gleefully that her dressing room is stirring up trouble between her fellow stars and their studios.

"When Glenn Ford saw my trailer, he had to have one of his own like it," she said. "He got it, too."

ANN LANDERS Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old boy who works after school and on weekends. Please print this letter and make life a lot easier for all of us who are in this line of work.

A customer comes in and says, "I want an ice cream cone." Then I have to ask him, "What kind of ice cream do you want?" The customer says, "What kind do you have?" I have to rattle off the whole list. Our shop has the biggest selection in town --28 flavors. After I go through the list, the customer looks at me and says, "Haven't you got kumquat or loganberry?" When I say "No," he gets a real sad expression on his face and says, "I'll take vanilla."

I get so mad I want to jump over the counter and hit him in the mouth. Can you think of a snappy answer for these clowns?--TOMMY

Dear Tommy: Customers don't come in for snappy answers. They come in for ice cream.

A shop that features 28 flavors should have a sign listing them. In the meantime, remember that the customer may not always be right, but he is always the customer.

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago our three-year-old son came down with hives all over his body. We called the doctor and he had us bring the boy in for tests.

After the tests were completed the doctor said the boy's hives are caused by an emotional problem. He recommended that we take him to a specialist who deals with disturbed children.

My wife didn't say anything till we got home. Then she really blew her stack. She said, "That doctor is crazy. What can a three-year-old child be disturbed about? He doesn't know about the bomb or Red China. When doctors can't find out what's wrong they always blame an emotional problem."

Now that I think about it, what she said makes sense. We'd like your opinion. -- A AND C

Dear A and C: Very few people get hives because of Red China. What really disturbs people are close-to-home problems -- like a domineering husband, a cold mother, a brutal father, a sneaky brother or a ruthless boss. And there's no age limit. It can happen to anybody, anytime. I hope your wife will take the doctor's advice.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is one of the sweetest people who ever lived -- after 11:00 a.m. But when he gets up in the morning, he is grouchy and sullen.

We've been married five years and it's been like this from the beginning. I make a special effort to see that his breakfast is exactly the way he wants it. The paper is folded according to his instructions, at the left of his plate. Sometimes he can't find his glasses, so I always have an extra pair on the table.

I force myself to be cheerful and pleasant even when I feel rotten. Nothing helps. Maybe if I understood why he's like this I could accept it. For obvious reasons I can't ask my friends if their husbands behave this way. I'd hate for them to know I have the problem. Thanks for your help.--A.M. BLUES

Dear A. M.: Some people don't have the physical machinery to generate energy until noon, so don't be so critical.

Nothing can be more annoying to a morning sourpuss than a chirping mate. So cut it, chickadee.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex--Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THANKSGIVING TRADITIONS

The last Thursday in November has been Thanksgiving Day to most of us, as far back as we can remember. But it wasn't always that way.

After the first Thanksgiving was proclaimed in 1621 by Governor Bradford of the Plymouth Colony, selection of this day for giving thanks was left to the governor in each colony. Later, the President issued proclamations declaring a different date each year.

Finally, in 1863, President Lincoln set the last Thursday in November as the regular date, and each state voluntarily joined to make it a national holiday. It has remained that way ever since, except when President Roosevelt shattered precedent, and proclaimed the third Thursday in November, 1939, as Thanksgiving.

One Thanksgiving tradition which has endured throughout our history is what to serve on that festive day. Turkey with all the trimmings remains the most popular Thanksgiving custom.

And this year should be no different, for there are plentiful supplies of plump young turkeys awaiting your selection at Midwest food stores, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. You'll find a turkey to fit every family and budget size.

Whether you're having a big reunion or a dinner for two, select a turkey to fit your plans, and follow custom on Thanksgiving Day 1965.

If you notice that a buttonhole on certain types of cloth is beginning to get too large and out of shape, remedy it by stitching a heavy piece of cloth on the wrong side of the cloth and reworking the buttonhole.

Mary Dodd Reid Invited To Scout Weekend

Miss Mary Dodd Reid, senior Girl Scout, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Reid, was recently invited by the Greater St. Louis Girl Scout Council to attend a senior Girl Scout weekend which was held at the Girl Scout Camp Cederledge near Pevely. Approximately 400 senior and freshman Cadette Girl Scouts were present for this event.

Program for this event consisted of "Getting to Know You", included was a hootenanny, cookouts, flag ceremonies, campfire, Scouts' Own Highlights consisted of a program given by the ten St. Louis National Roundup Patrols plus two Girl Scouts from Tennessee who had been invited as special guests. These two senior Girl Scouts attended a special back packing trip this past summer and presented a program on this event.

Miss Reid received this special invitation because of acquaintances she made with the St. Louis Scouts this past summer in route to and from the 1965 Nationals Senior Girl Scout roundup held in Idaho, July 13-30.

Sikeston Men Really Bring In The Deer

11,985 Whitetail Killed

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri hunters have killed 11,985 whitetail deer during the first four days of the gun season. The figure is down more than 5,000 from the same period last year.

Conservation Commission agents pointed out the gun season started at the beginning of the work week this season, whereas it started on Friday last year.

The weather has been generally good.

Benton County continued to lead in deer kills with a four-day total of 690. Texas County was a close second with 649 and Ozark County was third with 529.

One deer brought down in Texas County Thursday was shot by Rodley Mickel, Springfield, Ill., with a flint-lock rifle, a replica of a Revolutionary War gun. It was Mickel's second deer killed with the ancient weapon. He is a corporal in the Illinois Highway Patrol.

Big 8 Football

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's Kansas-Missouri time at Lawrence and cellar-escaping time at Stillwater in Big Eight football. Missouri is strongly favored to win and take a 7-2-1 record to the Sugar Bowl while unbeaten Nebraska marks time until its Thanksgiving date with Oklahoma.

Oklahoma State, 0-5 in league play, is favored over Kansas State, 0-6, at Stillwater. The winner likely will escape the cellar.

Big Eight teams will go outside the league Saturday for a pair of attractive games. Iowa State, 5-3-1, plays at New Mexico, 2-6, and Colorado, 5-2-2, is at Air Force, 3-5-1. Colorado already is assured of its best season since 1961.

Jack Mitchell is suffering through his first losing season at Kansas since 1958 and the Jayhawks at 2-7 have their worst record since 1954. But upsets are common in the series, filled with last-minute decisions.

Dan Devine, Missouri coach, is worried that the distractions of planning for New Orleans and the added incentive the bowl selection gives Kansas in the 74th game of the traditional series, the nation's fifth oldest.

But Missouri is loaded with size, talent and experience. Kansas will have its oft-injured quarterback, Bob Skahan, for part-time duty.

Phil Cutchin, OSU coach, is concerned about a letdown after his team's great effort in a 21-17 last-minute loss to Nebraska. A year ago, OSU also gave the Huskers a big fight. The next week, K-State beat OSU.

The two best passers in Iowa State history will be on opposite sides at Albuquerque—Tim Van Galder, current Cyclone quarterback, and Bill Weeks, the the New Mexico coach. A 6-3-1 finish would be Iowa State's best since 1960.

Kansas worked on its kicking and goal-line defense, as befits the underdog, in winding up its preparations for Saturday's annual battle with Missouri.

Both camps were preoccupied with drawing the line between the fit and the feeble.

Russell Washington, Missouri's giant defensive end, was counted out because of a knee injury which has hobbled him for two weeks.

Coach Devine indicated four players who have been in the hospital with the flu will be ready for the Jayhawks — Jim Willsey, Mike Eader and Gary Frieders at guard and Dick Kistner at center.

At Lawrence, Coach Mitchell tabbed Rich Pratt to start at guard and Bob Hudspeth at tackle despite the leg injuries they've been nursing. Fullback Mike Johnson, Steve Heck, a guard on offense, and Ward Coleman, a defensive back, are expected to see some action, but injuries will keep them from starting.

Kansas State will send twenty-one seniors to Stillwater, but three — Willie Jones, Doug Nutter and Jim Perry—are injured and probably will not play.

Oklahoma State and Oklahoma play the final game of the Big Eight season on Dec. 4 at Norman.

The Sooners had only a light workout Thursday, and the coaching staff said they will buckle down today for the Thanksgiving Day game with Nebraska at Lincoln.

The unbeaten Cornhuskers, ranked No. 3 nationally and bound for the Orange Bowl, will see today if their pint-sized fullback, Frank Solich, has a chance of getting well in time for the Oklahoma game. He bruised a knee returning a kickoff last week.

Bullets Move To Within 3rd Place Of St. Louis

BALTIMORE AP -- The Baltimore Bullets moved to within two games of the third-place St. Louis Hawks in the Western Division Thursday night by trouncing New York 120-104 in a National Basketball Association game.

The loss was the 10th for the Knicks in their last 15 starts and was the only action in the NBA Thursday night.

An American on a walking tour of Ireland met an old farmer who told him the next town was only five miles away when, in fact, it was 15. When he met the man again, the American complained of the deception.

"I only did it," said the farmer, "to spur you on. Every minute you'd think you were nearly there."

"The English wouldn't fool a man like that," the visitor said.

"That's the truth," the farmer agreed. "They don't think enough of a man to lie to him."

No More Wet Grounds At Bush Stadium

ST. LOUIS AP -- The announcement "game called because of wet grounds" will never be necessary at the new riverfront stadium in St. Louis.

Through the marvels of electronics, Bush Memorial Stadium will have a playing field that will eliminate snow and mud and suck up cloudbursts in minutes.

An electric soil warming system will be installed, melting snow and keeping the field from freezing in winter.

Agronomists also have come up with a new kind of rootzone material composed of sand, calcined clay, peat and soil which will baby grass on the field. They also have designed a special draining system that will absorb rain water so fast a game need never be called for wet grounds.

Missouri Headed For Sugar Bowl

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Eighth-ranked Missouri is headed for the Sugar Bowl and this is added incentive for down-trodden Kansas, but Missouri remains a strong favorite in the 74th renewal of their rivalry Saturday.

Kansas stands 2-7, its worst record in 11 years, but has enough talent to give the Tigers some problems. Missouri hopes to head for New Orleans with a 7-2-1 record, however, no matter what the Jayhawks throw at them.

A capacity crowd of about 45,000 is expected for the regionally televised battle. It's the nation's fifth oldest college football rivalry and oldest west of the Mississippi.

"If Russia had a football team, maybe I'd rather beat them than Missouri," said Don Fambrough, Kansas assistant. "But they're the only ones. This ball game has something about it that's different from anything else."

The return of Bob Skahan, lefthanded passing quarterback, may help Kansas chances, although he still can't run strongly on his sore legs. Bill Fenton, a smart 150-pound gamecock, will start at quarterback.

Missouri boasts two prime All America candidates, 246-pound tackle Francis Peay on offense and 207-pound back Johnny Roland on defense. Roland also has 20 points and 648 yards on 60 offensive plays.

Gary Lane, a hard, fast runner at quarterback and master of the quarterback option, is only 12 short of 3,000 yards in career total offense. Charlie Brown, a darting halfback, leads the Big Eight with 779 yards rushing.

Missouri leads the series 34-30-9 and their victory last year cost Kansas a share of the Big Eight championship with Nebraska.

The last Kansas victory was in 1960, 23-7, when the league title and Missouri's no. 1 national ranking were on the line. Kansas forfeited that one two weeks later in the Bert Coan case.

SIX MEMORABLE HOLIDAYS
BY THOMAS J. FLEMING

Back had come Miles Standish and ten others from a September trip to Massachusetts Bay. Their boat was loaded with rich beaver skins, and they talked of nothing but the magnificent harbor they had seen. The news swirled swiftly through the little colony of Plymouth, and soon more than one man was wondering aloud if they had not made a wrong choice. Already they knew that Plymouth's shallow harbor would never permit them to become a major port. Should they move? Stake out a hurried claim on this northern coast, and dream of a golden future?

They might have made this fatal blunder but for the wisdom of one man. Governor William Bradford was only 31 years old, but he was already one of those rare leaders who perfectly blended realism and vision. No one knew better the terrible sacrifices that had created Plymouth. In a little notebook he had grimly listed, one by one, the deaths of the first dreadful winter. His young wife, Dorothy, had been among them.

By the time the "general sickness" was over, more than 50 of the 101 pioneers who braved the Atlantic on the Mayflower lay in shallow graves, unmarked lest the Indians note their dwindling numbers. It was hardly surprising that people who had suffered so much should hunger for an uncommon reward. But to abandon Plymouth, to undergo the terrific labor of building more houses, the risk of war with strange Indians, when able-bodied men were a mere handful, was madness.

There was, Bradford swiftly decided, only one thing to do. He must somehow make them realize how much there was at Plymouth for which they could justly be grateful.

As the son of English farmers, Bradford had participated in more than one "harvest home" festival in his native village of Austerfield. During his 11 years of exile in Leyden, he had also grown used to celebrating with the Dutch an annual Thanksgiving Day in memory of the city's deliverance from besieging Spaniards in 1574.

It was harvest time in Plymouth. Their fields of golden yellow Indian corn promised a starvation-free winter. Why not combine an old-fashioned English harvest festival with a Dutch thanksgiving for their deliverance from Atlantic storms, hostile Indians and rampaging plague?

The idea was an instant success. Nothing more was heard about moving to Massachusetts Bay. Everyone agreed with Bradford's words: "The Lord, who assignes to all men the bounds of their habitations, had apoynted it for an other use." Looking around them at their ripe fields, the woods thick with game, the rivers and sea teeming with fish, feeling, after a peaceful plenteous summer, the glow of new health in their bodies, the men and women of Plymouth realized that there was indeed much for which to give thanks.

Edward Winslow, Bradford's close friend, tells how the Governor "sent foure men on fowling that so we might after a more speciall manner rejoice together, after we had gathered the fruit of our labours; they foure in one day killed as much fowle, as with little helpe beside served the Company almost a weeke." Among the "fowle," Bradford noted in his history of Plymouth, were "great store of wild Turkies." From the waters they gathered lobsters and clams, cod and bass. The little gardens surrounding each Plymouth house contributed a variety of "sallets" as greens were then known. From the wild fruits of summer they had gathered gooseberries, strawberries, plums and cherries, which they no doubt dried, Indian fashion. They did not bring enough sugar with them on the Mayflower to make jams or jellies. Of pumpkins, grown by the Indians among their corn, no mention is made. It was several years before the white men learned what to do with this formidable vegetable. The same was probably true of cranberries though bogs were plentiful nearby.

They were almost ready for the feast. But Bradford, underscoring his theme of gratitude, paused to invite their Indian neighbors to join them. Without the Indians' knowledge of how to plant and fertilize the precious corn, they would have faced certain starvation. If the great chief Massasoit had chosen to be hostile, he could easily have wiped them out. Instead he had agreed to a treaty of peace and mutual assistance which remains a model even today.

Massassoit gladly accepted Bradford's invitation. Many tribes on the east coast celebrated the harvest with a similar feast. He not only came --he brought along his entire tribe--90 hungry braves.

For a moment it looked like disaster. Ninety braves could devour Plymouth's entire winter larder. But chief Massasoit quickly sent hunters into the forest, who came back with five fat deer. So they sat down, white man and red, side by side, and began the feast. Miles Standish paraded his amateur soldiers, and they fired off muskets and their cannon on "Fort Hill." Indians and Pilgrims joined in foot races, wrestling contests, and the white man's favorite game, "stool ball"--a sort of croquet-on-the-run in which a ball was batted through numerous wickets.

They ate and drank and exercised for no less than three full days. Wine from the wild grapes of the forest, a bit green, but tasty enough, was bolstered by "strong waters" which they had brought from England and Holland in abundance. The Indians were fascinated by its magical effects. They in turn produced a few tricks of their own: They took corn and heated it over the fire in earthen jars. The Pilgrim children squealed with delight as it burst into puffy whiteness. Then came a generous dollop of maple syrup -- and there were popcorn balls!

Backing up this marathon feasting were a mere five Pilgrim women, assisted by a few teen-age girls. Fortunately, however, there was no dishes to wash. The fork had yet to come into general use. A few knives to cut the meat, and some wooden stirring spoons, served the whole company.

At last it was over. Indians and pioneers settled down to face the long winter with a new sense of trust and well-being. Edward Winslow echoed Plymouth's contentment in a letter to England: "And although it be not alwayes so plentifull, as it was at this time with us, yet by the goodnesse of God, we are so farre from want that we often wish you partakers of our plentie."

McDonnell Strike Looms

ST. LOUIS, Mo. AP -- Machinists at McDonnell Aircraft Corp. are preparing for a strike at midnight that would halt production of Phantom jet fighter planes used in Viet Nam and could delay two Gemini space shots.

Some 11,000 members of District 9 of the International Association of Machinists jammed a downtown auditorium Wednesday and overwhelmingly rejected a company contract offer. The rejection is tantamount of a strike vote. The McDonnell plant has 35,000 employes, 17,000 of them machinists.

That which refines character at the same time humbles, exalts, and commands a man, and obedience gives him courage, devotion, and attainment.

Beatification Of Two Popes Asked

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today ordered the start of the beatification process for his two predecessors, John XXIII and Pius XII. His action was a first step toward their possible cannonization as saints.

Pope Paul made his surprise announcement in a discourse at a public ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica for the promulgation of two new decrees of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Speaking of the renewal of Roman Catholicism started by the council, which was first convened by Pope John, Pope Paul said his two predecessors should be piously remembered. He said the church and the world owed much to them.

"We are arranging," he said, "that to this end there be canonically begun the processes of beatification of these holy and eminent supreme pontiffs who are so dear to us."

Pope Paul said many persons had sought such action for the two Popes.

Beatification declares that someone is worthy of public veneration because of exceptional holiness during his life. It is a step toward canonization, which declares that the beatified may be called a saint.

In his speech, Pope Paul also announced:

—That the long - awaited reform of the Vatican Curia is progressing and that he will soon announce a new statute for the Vatican's Holy Office, the Curia's most powerful unit and its most controversial.

—That the period from the end of the Ecumenical Council, Dec. 8, to Pentecost Sunday, May 29, will be a special jubilee period for the world's Roman Catholics to promote the council's decisions.

—That he hopes to convene his new Synod of Bishops for the first time next year or, if not feasible then, in 1967.

The two decrees of the Ecumenical Council promulgated today were on the apostolate of the laity and on divine revelation.

During the council session, the prelates took a final vote on the two documents. The divine revelation decree was approved by a vote of 2,344-6, the laity decree by 2,305-2.

Pope Paul then promulgated the two decrees.

Ask Baptists To Contribute College Cash

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia Baptists have been asked to increase their donations to keep the denomination's six colleges operating as accredited institutions without the help of federal grants.

The state convention's 1,500 delegates unanimously adopted an education commission report which said: "Georgia Baptists are strongly committed to religious liberty and to the principle of separation of church and state."

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —A high school pacifist group has offered to place a manual for conscientious objectors in the guidance libraries of area high schools.

James Havelin, 17, president of Area Students for the Peace and Internationalism Required for Existence — ASPIRE — said his group also will ask that graduate counselors be permitted to give information on conscientious objectors. The manual outlining Selective Service requirements for draft exemption, would be purchased by Citizens against the Viet Nam War, an adult peace group.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The commander of America's training program for Viet Nam helicopter pilots, Maj. Gen. John J. Tolson III, commander of the Army aviation center at Ft. Rucker, told the Tennessee Valley chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army that combat helicopter flying is not as dangerous as it might appear.

He said that from December 1961 through August 1965, helicopters were hit by ground fire only once in every 347 combat flights; they were shot down only once in every 8,129 flights, and were lost and not recovered at the rate of one in every 15,341 flights. He did not list the casualty rate of the crews.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor-elect John V. Lindsay, emphasizing that a New York City transit strike cannot be permitted, has called for a complete overhaul of the city's labor bargaining procedures.

A possible solution, he said, might lie in the city's universities. "Professors with tenure and no ax to grind would be a better form of mediation," he said.

The Transport Workers Union, AFL-CIO, has threatened to call a strike of 33,000 subway and bus workers when its contract expires Dec. 31.

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Marvin Nodland has drawn a $50 fine and a 10-day city jail sentence because of smoking in bed.

City Judge Joseph Christoff imposed the sentence on Nodland, a tavern owner, after firemen were called to his apartment for the third time to put out a blaze that began after he fell asleep while smoking.

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Millions of sea worms rose to the surface off islands in the Fiji group this week. One observer reported they were so thick in some places that they could almost be walked on.

The worms, called balolo by the Fijians, rise once a year — usually when the sun and moon are in certain positions — to breed.

Mrs. Hearnes to Fulton Game

FULTON, Mo. AP -- Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes has accepted an invitation to attend the Fulton High School football banquet Tuesday.

She will substitute for her husband, Missouri's governor.

The attractive mother of three daughters wrote the Fulton Boosters Club, that she would not be able to tell the football players much about the game but "maybe I can tell them how to block a pass?"

hearnes accepts 2-18 mi

HARRISONVILLE, Mo. AP-- The Missouri Christmas Tree Producers Association announced that Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes are accepting three Christmas trees from the organization to decorate the executive mansion.

Oscar G. Urquhart, the president, said Mrs. Hearnes plans to use a seven-foot Scotch pine in the sitting room, a tree from the plantation near here. He said 11-foot trees had been selected for the Gold Room and the entrance hall, one being selected from the Clements' plantation near Buckner and one from Gwinner's plantation in Warren county.

A BUNDLE OF JOY ARRIVES

Excitement fills the air as these needy Filipinos gather around to see the latest bundle of joy. It is not the proverbial bundle of joy—but it brings life in another way—in the form of life-giving supplies such as food, clothing and medicine. Here, clothing is being distributed by a social worker from Catholic Relief Services, overseas aid agency of American bishops, which operates relief and welfare programs for the needy, regardless of race, creed or color, in more than 70 countries. You, too, can bring joy to those in need by donating your serviceable used clothing, shoes and bed linen to the annual Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign. Bring or send a bundle to the nearest Catholic church during November.

Clerks Strike Santa Fe

CHICAGO (AP) — The 9,000-member Brotherhood of Railway Clerks today struck the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co. in a dispute involving demands for changes in works rules, pay scale adjustments and fringe benefit adjustments.

C. L. Dennis, union president, in addition to authorizing the strike of the union's members, telegraphed 22 other union heads asking that their organizations honor the clerks' picket lines.

The strike began at 6 a.m. CST. The railroad announced that four hours earlier it had requested the National Mediation Board to assume jurisdiction in the strike which had been threatened.

In a prepared statement, Dennis said the union seeks "a bona fide sick leave, a wage inequity adjustment fund and a broader application of the work rules agreement to cover new modes of transportation."

In Topeka, Kan., a Santa Fe spokesman said the strike involves three unresolved demands.

He listed them as:

—Demand for sick pay regardless whether work is kept up by employes or whether the company finds it nece ry to hire additional help to o the work up to date. Also lved was a request to pay e oyes while they were atten funerals of relatives.

—A 90-cent hourly wage increase.

—A demand, also before 13 other railroads and docketed by the mediation board, for the sole right to handle piggy-back loading and unloading. At the present time this work is done by various groups, such as clerks, carmen, shippers and contractors.

Luci Silent About Diamond

WASHINGTON AP -- A new gold and diamond ring sparkled on Luci Johnson's third finger, left hand, as she danced cheek-to-cheek with boyfriend Pat Nugent at a White House party.

The ring drew new speculation that the President's daughter, 18, is engaged to marry Nugent, 23. But the White House again would make no comment and Luci, herself, couldn't be reached.

Hemispheric Change Noted

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Foreign ministers of the Western Hemisphere set up working groups today following a strong call by Brazil's president for them to update inter-American machinery to combat infiltration and subversion.

"It is urgent that we, the members of the inter-American system, rethink our concepts and preconceptions in the light of the new realities," President Humberto Castello Branco declared in formally opening the special inter-American conference Wednesday night.

The Brazilian chief chided past hemisphere parleys for "academically mulling over principles and provisions that, when a dispute comes up, we do not show any inclination to obey."

Stoutly defending the intervention in the Dominican Republic, Castello Branco said the hemisphere defense system was devised in the early postwar years to protect against direct armed aggression. Now aggression threatens more subtly "through infiltration and subversion" and "it is therefore imperative that we take a new look at the concepts of aggression and intervention," he said.

His keynote rang harmoniously with a theme sounded by President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk after Washington ordered troops into Santo Domingo to save lives and prevent a Communist takeover. Of the five Latin-American nations which sent troops to join the Americans in the peace force formed by the Organization of American States, Brazil sent the biggest number.

Kennett Man Heads Realtors

Other officers are Bill Bowling of Campbell, vice chairman; Bob McAllister of Portageville, secretary; and Bill Shaeffer of Caruthersville, new board member.

The use of advertising in the communist press has increased steadily and perceptibly within the last few years. At present, there may be observed not only more advertisements in newspapers, but also posters, billboards, and handbills containing commercial messages. Radio and TV also carry commercials.

How to Prevent Power Blackouts Is Big Order

NEW YORK (AP) — History's worst power failure apparently began in a piece of equipment the size of a household electric meter. But the larger question is what's to prevent it from happening again — accidentally or on purpose?

It is troubling defense planners, government officials, and power company executives, and has caused at least the 30 million persons whose utter dependence on electricity became dramatically clear Nov. 9-10 to wonder about the very nature of a power grid, the distribution system which enabled the failure to zip across the Northeast like a run in a stocking.

Power grids are interlocking networks of utility company lines which now extend to the Rockies and in a few years are expected to link 48 contiguous states in one big party line.

"The theory is good," said electrical engineer Lawrence J. Hollander. "There is nothing wrong with the theory."

Hollander is assistant to the dean of New York University's School of Engineering and Science, and is one of a few academic men in the United States whose scholarly field is power generation, transmission, and distribution. When the lights went out last week Hollander was in the middle of a lecture on the effects of lightning striking transmission lines.

The power grid theory, in broad terms, involves companies with power to spare sending it quickly on interconnecting lines to companies with temporary shortages.

Years ago, each company operated independently. Each had to have what was called spinning reserve — spare generators rotating but not producing electricity, against the possibility of a working generator failing.

It made sense, then, for two companies to agree to keep a single spinning reserve to satisfy both. The more companies making such cooperative agreements, the better. In the Northeastern United States, 42 companies are thus interconnected. Among them are more than 400 generators, all linked together.

Another advantage of such a network is that electricity can be delivered to customers more economically.

Old generators tend to be inefficient, producing electricity at costs as high as 8.5 cents a kilowatt hour. Newer ones can do it for as low as three-tenths of a cent. A kilowatt hour is the amount of electricity it takes to light ten 100-watt bulbs for an hour.

Many times it's cheaper for a company to buy extra electricity for demanding customers from another company, which has efficient generators operating than to produce its own with only tired old machines on hand. Electricity can't be stored; it must be produced the instant demanded.

These networks have been formed throughout the country, and all of them are connected with neighboring networks. But at present the internetwork connections are generally weak. Thus trouble in one network usually doesn't spread to another. They're much like big water systems connected only with garden hoses. The eventual plan is to replace the weak connections with strong ones, thus expanding the company buddy system between networks.

And thus also expanding the area vulnerable to a house-of-cards power failure?

"Not necessarily," said engineer Hollander. "Time zones and seasonal differences can save us."

But how vulnerable is a network to — dare anyone mention it — sabotage?

"If I wanted to knock out the entire Northeastern United States, just as happened Nov. 9," said Hollander, "I would pick a Thursday or Friday night just before Christmas. That would be a time of enormous loads-lots of lights, stores open for shoppers, cold weather. That would be the time to do it. And I would simply cause some damage to the backbone line."

The backbone line is the extra high voltage — EHV — wire running from the big plants at Niagara Falls through Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany and Poughkeepsie to New York City. At some points along the route, but not all, there are double lines, providing a backup system.

All the systems in the entire eight-state network are linked eventually to the backbone.

And, most significant, all the generators in the network are in precise synchronization, each turning as though on a single axle. They have to be, Hollander explained, so that the entire system will throb simultaneously at 60 cycles a second.

Should a generator accidentally get out of synchronization it must correct itself quickly — or get off the system. Automatic equipment is supposed to see that it does one or the other.

If a big bird should fly between the high-powered transmission lines, for example, or a tree limb fall and disturb the flow, a device called a relay detects it and causes a circuit breaker to open momentarily — for 1.5 to 3 cycles, the barest fraction of a 60-cycle second — then close again.

If the trouble hasn't passed, the process repeats itself. If after a third time it still hasn't fixed itself automatically, a repairman has to go out in a truck.

"That's what the automatic equipment is supposed to do," Hollander said. "Sometimes the equipment may not perform as expected. Perhaps the answer is more backup systems, more redundancy."

Hollander said when the backbone line is heavily loaded the generators are extremely sensitive, subject to the slighest disturbance.

That was exactly the situation the evening of the big blackout.

Something caused a disturbance -- nobody seems to know what — and the little relay box signaled a circuit breaker to open near the giant plant at Queenston, Ont., four miles north of Niagara Falls.

Instead of isolating the troubled line, the breaker sent its current to other lines, already loaded. They couldn't handle the excess.

The current flowing to New York reversed itself and, like air in a punctured tire, rushed to the point of least resistance, draining the power from the city.

At a different time of day, under a lesser load, generators throughout the system might have met the sudden demand.

But generators, like donkeys, will do only as much as they are capable and no more. When they sensed electronically that they couldn't meet the demand they cut themselves off to protect their own wiring, click, click, click, click, and 80,000 square miles went dark.

Yes, Hollander said, it could happen again. But in his view expanding the grid system would do more to reduce that chance than increase it.

$51,950 Suit Filed After Cars Collide

KENNETT -- Andrew Barnett, 18, of Poplar Bluff, through his next friend, Attorney Ted M. Henson, Jr., also of Poplar Bluff, filed a $51,950 damage suit in the office of Dunklin County Circuit Clerk Brydon Ross against Nina Morriseau of DeSoto.

In the first count, he sued for $50,000 for personal injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred Oct. 10.

He contends that the car, a 1965 Ford, struck the 1963 Buick he was driving on Highway 53 at the intersection of the highway and Route J in Dunklin County.

Barnett claims he suffered head and face injuries, a concussion of the brain, shock and multiple body bruises and abrasions which necessitated time spent in a hospital and the care of a doctor.

On this count he seeks $50,000 for personal injuries and medical costs.

In count two, he asks for $1,950 in payment for his 1963 Buick which, he claims in the suit, was made worthless and useless as a result of the collision.

To Match Funds for Cairo Lab

CAIRO -- The science department of Cairo high school will receive matching funds to supplement the recent $30,000 donation it received from a citizen, the Cairo board of education has learned.

State officials have assured the school district that the $30,000 donation made to the school's science department by Mrs. Berta Smith Bonfanti will be matched by state funds. This makes about $60,000 available to convert the school's science department into one of the most modern in the state.

The board of education instructed City Supt. of Schools Harold Mescher to proceed at once with planning the new science department. The initial step will be to engage a professional consultant to determine the needs of the department and to hire an architect to plan the new science room.

The board Tuesday night by a 4-3 vote agreed to accept Title I funds under the Federal aid to education program. An estimated $250,000 will be available to the Cairo district under this title for expanding present school programs and buying needed equipment for the expansion.

Mescher told the board that 20 per cent of this amount would be available Dec. 1, if the district chose to enter the program.

The board agreed to participate in the program solely on a "pay in advance" basis and on the condition that no control over the school system would be exercised by federal officials.

Board members were apprehensive about accepting the program after recent statements by a state school official indicated some "strings" might be attached.

Wallace Was Naive But Earnest Man

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — "He was a good man." That was the epitaph from President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey when they heard Thursday that Henry A. Wallace had died at 77.

Long ago Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt praised his integrity, too, but she called him an "inept politician." Between those phrases hung the life and story of an earnest, busy, optimistic and naive man.

He was probably never more honest than in admitting how naive he was. He said he was grossly wrong in misreading Russia's intentions after the war.

In a speech, he had denounced this country's stern post-war policy with the Soviets -- although Russia had grabbed Eastern Europe as a vast satellite. Because of tte denunciation, President Harry S. Truman fired him as secretary of commerce.

Truman didn't look too good in this. Both the New York Times and the Washington Post reported Truman had approved the speech before Wallace delivered it.

Later in his memoirs Truman denied he had ever read the speech. Wallace denied that, saying he had gone over it page by page with Truman. But in this episode Wallace didn't look too good, either.

In the prepared text of his speech he had a number of criticisms of Russia. But when he mentioned the first one and was jeered in New York's Madison Square Garden he omitted all the others.

He explained later he did this to save time because he was on radio. But it was a sensational speech, besides criticizing Truman's foreign policy. In it Wallace called for an end to segregation in all spheres of American life and suggested the world be divided into two spheres of influence, one dominated by Russia, the other by the West.

In New Deal days reporters called him the worst-dressed man in Washington. For many, he was a nightmare to interview for he could be vague and had a habit of suddenly going silent in the middle of a sentence.

He dabbled in astrology, and in middle-age as vice president threw boomerangs and liked to wrestle. But his real field, from which he started and to which he returned, was agriculture. He made important contributions to plant genetics and was among the developers of hybrid strains of corn.

He was President Franklin D. Roosevelt's agriculture secretary from 1933 to 1941 and his vice president from 1941 to 1945. But the politicians had no use for him and in 1944 persuaded Roosevelt not to insist on keeping him for another term. They picked Truman and Wallace became secretary of commerce, but a critic in that job of American foreign policy.

It was no doubt fortunate for the country that Truman, not Wallace, succeeded to the presidency in 1945. From what Wallace admitted later — his failure to understand Russian communism — it's hard to imagine what might have happened if he had become president.

In 1948 he ran for the presidency himself on the left-wing Progressive party ticket, lost badly and quit the party two years later when the leaders of it wouldn't back him in supporting Truman's stand on Korea.

In 1952, he said the Russians had misled him into believing they "really wanted and needed peace." He said he had finally come to look upon Soviet communism as "utterly evil."

He mixed goodness with optimism and as early as 1942 began calling for a new kind of peaceful and prosperous world society after the war. He described this as the century of the common man.

By 1958 some of his optimism must have drained away for then he was saying he had "no illusions about the common man" and believed this "century can be one of cruelty and the most extreme violence and suffering."

He made mistakes, some colossal ones of judgment, but he was expressing his hopes and his conscience and in the course of it he pricked the conscience of America and made some people, if only a few, think. And for any man this is a great achievement and contribution.

Oil Tanks Above Ground Banned

KENNETT -- The Kennett city council Wednesday approved an ordinance prohibiting the construction of tanks above ground for the storage of all oils, gasoline, diesel fuels and other inflammable materials within the city limits.

The new order became effective Wednesday.

In conjunction with the new ordinance, the council voted to revoke a building permit issued Nov. 9 to the DX Sunray Oil Co., of Tulsa, Okla., and refund the company's money it paid for the permit.

The permit reportedly was obtained for the construction of eight storage tanks (four 15,000 gallon tanks and four 13,000 gallon tanks) and a 60x24 feet metal building on the property near the corner of Hudson and George streets in Cook Addition. The tanks would be constructed above ground and would be used for bulk storage.

Residents from Cook Addition appeared before the council and protested the construction of the tanks in the community. Such construction would be prohibited in a residential area under the terms of a proposed new zoning ordinance now under study by the council, but the ordinance has not been passed.

The city council and city planning commission will hold a joint informal meeting Tuesday at the Bank of Kennett community room to study the zoning ordinance. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Hospital Goal of $480,000 Sight Is In

DEXTER -- Workers pushing the Dexter Memorial Hospital fund drive have set a 'hats off' goal for Monday. By that time they will have reached the $480,000 mark in the drive.

Forty workers attended a breakfast Friday to hear a report that the total pledged to date is now $381,000. The report was made by Jim Smyth, general chairman of the fund raising drive. Workers voted to keep hospital headquarters open from 8:00 a.m. until 10:00 p.m. on Thanksgiving day for convenience of those who wish to make last minute pledges.

It isn't hard to spot hospital fund workers, for most of them wear bright plaid hats. International Hat Company, at Dexter, made up twenty-two dozen of the hats to be worn till the goal of $480,000 is reached. At that time, a 'hats off' ceremony will be held.

Homer Morgan, big gifts chairman, in addressing the breakfast meeting said, "When we started out we had five miles to go on the drive, at $100,000 a mile. Now we are on that last mile."

Hospital campaign officials have designated Monday, as "Hats Off -- Gone to Hospital Site Day." Between 10 and 11 a.m. Monday a special ceremony will be conducted on the proposed hospital site which is located between Highways 114 and 60 and near the junction of Highway 60 and One Mile Road. At that time, campaign officials will receive the third transmittal from the campaign headquarters which is expected to release that the minimum goal of $480,000 has been reached. The amount needed thus-far as recorded at the campaign headquarters early Thursday morning was $60,972.

Mayor Melvin Gainer issued a formal request to all merchants, shops, stores and offices to close their doors in Dexter Monday between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. and for everyone to "visit the hospital site" for the announcement of the new figures in the fund campaign.

Mayor Gainer said that he was also inviting the mayors and city officials of neighboring communities to be at the site at that time.

A caravan is being formed in all the communities and they are scheduled to arrive at the site by 9:45 a.m.

Signs will be posted on the cars in the caravan stating "We're Going To The Dexter Memorial Hospital." Ambulances in the county will make their "first official emergency runs" to the hospital and will have their sirens on full blast. The local city police and the highway patrol will handle the traffic and parking problems.

At 11 minutes after ten, the Dexter fire department and civil defense sirens and other sirens in the area will blow announcing the big event.

All in all, Monday promises to be a big day for area citizens, with the remainder of this week being quite busy for everyone as contacts must be made to secure the needed $60,972.

APPLES AND EVE

Throughout man's verbal and written history, apples have been used as a symbol of beauty and of deed.

The Tree of Enlightenment was an apple tree in the Bible. It was located in the paradise of Adam and Eve. The Devil, disguised as a serpent, took an apple from the tree and initiated Eve into the world of knowledge, which was characterized by the apple's sweet, tender taste. Eve then gave the lovely, red apple to Adam, and mankind was given its first taste of wisdom in the form of a sweet apple. This story, in similar form, is related in the Moslem Koran.

Later in Greek mythology, it was told that the Goddess of Discord chose a gold apple as an enticing treat to confuse the feminine guests at the festivities at the marriage of Peleus and Thetis. On the apple, an inscription said: "To the fairest -- guaranteed TO BRING DISCORD AMONG THE LOVELY GUESTS." The legend continues to tell that Paris caught the apple and then awarded it to Aphrodite who had promised him Helen, the wife of Menelaus, King of Sparta. This award by Paris resulted in the ten year Trojan War in which the Greeks won Helen back for Menelaus, costing thousands of lives.

Mentions of apples continue to be recorded in the annals of man. Apples have been cultivated in most temperate areas of the world. There are about 2000 named varities throughout the world, but only 8 are of commercial importance in the United States. These varieties are: Delicious, McIntosh, Golden Delicious, Rome Beauty, Jonathan, Winesap, and York Imperial.

Right now, you'll find apples in plentiful supply, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, for the many apple dishes that go so well during these crisp fall days.

Here's a recipe for APPLE CRISP dessert, sure to please the entire family:

Place 4 cups of sliced apples in a greased casserole. Sprinkle with ¼ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Blend ¼ cup margarine, 1-3 cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup sifted flour and 1-3 cup quick-cooking oats. Spread this topping over the apples. Bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes or until apples are tender. Serve with plain, whipped, or ice cream. Serves 4 to 6.

Burglars Came $1,000 Damage To Get $59 $500

POPLAR BLUFF-- Burglars pried open the records vault Tuesday night at the Ozark Border Electric Cooperative building and took nearly $500 from change funds kept in the vault.

Manager C. B. Danner said damage to the fire-proof vault-door and a night depository box in the lobby would total more than $1,000.

The depository box was torn out of a wall. It contained a check and a small amount of money which the burglars overlooked.

A soft drink machine located in a room adjacent to the vault was damaged and a small amount of change stolen from it. Desks in some of the offices were ransacked, but nothing appeared to be missing, Danner said.

Entrance to the building, located a half-mile south of the city limits on highway 67, was gained by opening a door on the north side of the warehouse.

The loss and the damage to the building is covered by insurance, Danner said.

More than $1,400 in change was obtained last summer in a similar burglary of the vault. Damage in that incident was estimated at $1,100. Danner said the concrete-lined fire door on the vault costs about $900.

The night depository box itself is valued at more than $200, Danner said. It was damaged beyond repair.

The walk-in records vault, located off the lobby of the building, is designed to be fireproof. Records appeared to be in good shape this morning, Danner said.

The burglars apparently entered the premises by climbing an 8-foot steel fence topped with strands of barbed wire.

Clark Urges More Bomb Attacks On North Viet Nam

CHICAGO AP -- Retired Gen. Mark W. Clark has urged bombing attacks on all military targets in North Viet Nam to force the Communists to seek a peace settlement.

Clark, who was commander in chief of U. S. fighting forces during part of the Korean War, also said at a news conference Wednesday that this country "shouldn't fight it out on a manpower basis" against the Reds in Viet Nam.

"They have more men than we have and they don't care how many they lose, while we do," he said.

NEW YORK AP -- Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada said Wednesday night that "we can share blackouts" but Canada has no desire to lose its national identity.

A "friendly cooperation" is essential, he said, but too much is undesirable for both of us."

The Canadian leader spoke at a dinner at which he received the third award of the Society of the Family of Man.

Mrs. MacRae and a number of show business friends were at the bar early Wednesday when she discovered her coat missing. She called police and her husband, Gordon, who was in Chicago.

But in the afternoon she got a telephone call from model Brigitte Ingberg, who said, "I'm so sorry," and went on to explain she had picked up the wrong coat.

Now the police are looking for Miss Ingberg's $15,000 sable coat.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

The truly first Thanksgiving for the Pilgrims in this country was the very moment they landed. We are told that they paused and gave thanks to God in gratitude for having made the long and hazardous voyage and having landed safely in the new world—free from religious persecution.

Thanksgiving Day is not only to commemorate the Pilgrims' Thanksgiving after their first harvest but to remind us that thanksgiving is a constant and continuous process each day of the year. Not only in song and verse, but our giving of thanks can best be expressed of the year. Our giving of thanks can best be expressed not only in song and verse but in actions which are a witness to our power of faith.

"So we thy people and sheep of thy pasture will give thee thanks forever: we will shew forth thy praise to all generations."

Malden Fund To $3,448

MALDEN -- The United Fund Drive reached $3,448.32 this week as contributions for the six-day period totaled $324.50. This was a gain of slightly more than $150 over the previous week.

The Fund is now short $5,962 of the total goal of $9,410, with only a few weeks remaining to complete the 1965 drive.

The names of new contributors listed for the week were: Roehm's Barber Shop, Kraft's Motor Inn Service Station, Local 112, Local 539, Jean Davidson, Joe Gardner, Frank Clayton, Malden Press-Merit, Lillian Johnson, Dick Beall Jr., Jerry Moore, Billy Elder, Bill Smithson, Bob Hix, Luttrell's IGA, Everett McCarver, Mr. and Mrs. Billy G. Northington, Dr. S. W. Caston, Mrs. Claude Launius, Rhoda Launius, Dr. Harold Prentice, Dr. J. E. Lange and Malden Furniture Co.

Bernie Tax Bills Paid at Discount

BERNIE -- Floy Nichols, city clerk, announced that tax bills on street paving projects in Bernie may be paid Friday and Saturday at a discount.

Nichols said that a 5 per cent discount will be allowed and no interest will be charged if the bills are paid in those two days. After Saturday all tax bills on the paving projects will be at the State Bank of Bernie subject to regular interest rates.

Prayer brings the blessing of God upon the laborers who are sent into the field. St. Paul believed that the humblest of the saints could be the means of anointing his lips with grace and power. How many ministers would preach better if they were being constantly upheld by the prayers of those who sit in the church pews!

It is my sincere conviction that if ministers and church people would cooperate in prayer as it is their privilege to do, every church would become a dynamo of spiritual power.

Our failures would become successes, and our defeats would be changed into thrilling victories. Then, and only then, everyone with an eye to see would be constrained to say of us, "You have, because you pray." Arthur C. Fulbright

#4 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area

Rev. C. D. Butler

Saluting:

Murray Lane Baptist Church

Sikeston, Mo.

The Murray Lane Baptist Church is an outgrowth of the missionary concern of the First Baptist Church of Sikeston. One of the newest churches in the city, it was long a cherished dream of some leaders in the First Baptist Church. From the beginning of development of Southwest Sikeston these people felt that persons living in this area needed a church near their homes. In 1958 the church purchased three acres of land on Murray Lane for such a mission. A building was built in 1959 and the first services were conducted January 3, 1960.

C. D. Butler is the only pastor the church has ever had. He moved to Sikeston Dec. 1, 1959 for final preparation and opening of the new mission. Early committee members included Dr. E. D. Owen, Rev. Paul Higgins, Mrs. Jewell Allen, Chas. H. Butler, A. J. Day, Mrs. Herschel Deal, Bill Hayden, Gail Harrison, Dolan Rogers, Philip Sadler, Howard McGill and Mrs. Nelson Wheeler. The mission was organized into a separate church on Sept. 16, 1962.

Even while it was a mission Murray Lane Church has been concerned about other missions. Presently it contributes 20% of all undesignated receipts to missions beyond the local church field. For five years the church has operated a kindergarten. Total receipts last year were in excess of $40,000.

France Expels Nationalist Chinese Man

PARIS (AP) — A Nationalist Chinese newsman, Francis Ting, was expelled from France today. Informed sources said the Interior Ministry ordered him to leave because France had established diplomatic relations with Peking.

Ting, a correspondent for the weekly Free China Review, had been in France for 10 years. His newspaper will continue to be represented by his assistant, Shih-Chien Chao.

TOKYO (AP) — The Defense Agency's research institute today postponed the test of a Japanese-made ground-to-ground missile because of opposition from residents near the testing range.

The tests were to have been held Nov. 25-26 at a firing range at the foothills of Mt. Fuji, the same range where local residents last month forced the indefinite postponement of rocket-firing practice by U.S. forces.

An institute official said no new date had been set.

LONDON (AP)—By a 12-vote margin, the House of Commons defeated a Conservative motion Wednesday night to censure Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government for its economic policies.

The vote was 280-268, and the 10 Liberal party members abstained. Wilson officially has a two-seat majority in the 630-seat House.

Freedom To Think Stressed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Inherit The Wind" is a play based on the celebrated clash between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow 40 years ago in the historic Scopes trial. As a television drama Thursday night it was played out in a courtroom but emerged more as a preachment on freedom of thought and of expression.

The 90-minute version of the play by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee on NBC started with a street scene in a small town on the eve of the trial of a young teacher charged with breaking a state law. He had taught his classes something of Charles Darwin's controversial theory of evolution. The angry townsfolk were primarily fundamentalists who believed implicitly in the Bible and considered any theory of man's origin except the one set down in Genesis to be heresy.

The prosecutor in the case was called Matthew Brady, an old man at the end of a career that included running for president unsuccessfully three times. The defense lawyer was called Drummond, another old man who had spent a lifetime defending unpopular causes.

The climax of the play came when Drummond, played by Melvyn Douglas, put his opponent on the witness stand as a Bible expert and proceeded to examine him furiously on his philosphy and beliefs until he contradicted himself.

The point of the play was an uncomplicated restatement of the thesis that in a free society man must be free to think for himself and to express himself and that all ideas must have a chance to be heard.

Ed Begley as the ailing and disappointed orator and office seeker, gave an impressive performance, by turns pompous, ridiculous and pathetic.

The play moved along slowly and heavily, however, and at times was so static and talky that it seemed to be more of a two man argument than a dramatic show. But when a theater-length play is chopped down to fit into television's rigid time schedules, drastic cuts must be made. And because there was no time to establish the backgrounds of the two men, the devastating examination scene failed to come off with the same electricity it had on the stage.

HOW DOES YOUR GARDEN GROW?

Two beatniks met on a street corner. "Like they say, dad, how have things been going?" asked the first beat one.

"Terrible, man, terrible!" was the dejected reply.

"Like what, dad?"

"Sample. I bought an artificial flower the other day. And it died."

FARM

This farm is known as the H. R. Campbell Farm. This 40 acre farm is one of the best small farms for sale that we know of in Southeast Missouri. It is a high productive farm. Every foot of it can be cultivated. The improvements consist of a very well built 3 bedroom home, large living room, large kitchen, kitchen cabinets and kitchenette. It has a large concrete basement, concrete foundation, built-on garage, hardwood floors, has deep well, running water, hot and cold, glassed-in porch, concrete patio and many other nice features. Farm has a large stock barn with grain storage, large hay loft, concrete floor, concrete water and feed troughs, running water in barn. Has one grainery with side sheds and concrete floors, one tool shed with storage space for grain and other farm products. This farm has excellent fencing, good cross fences. All land is sowed in fine permanent pasture and it also has several nice ponds stocked with fish, one pond stocked with channel cat fish. This farm is only 11 miles from Wappapello Lake and only 10 miles from the Mingo Wild Life Reserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebert Morrow and little daughter moved to Cape Girardeau Saturday of last week, where they expect to be located.

Marion Thrower was killed and Clem Marshall, jr., was injured when a blow out caused Thrower's model A Ford coupe to turn over several times at the foot of the Sikeston ridge, west of town Saturday night.

A daughter was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Ray White of near Sikeston.

With only two minutes to play, the Bulldogs added a fifth victory to their season's record by slipping through the Kennett Indians for a touchdown. The score was 6 to 0.

PRAYER For Today From The Upper Room

To this end we toil and strive, because we have our hope set on the living God, who is the Savoir of all men, especially of those who believe. (I Timothy, 4:10, RSV)

PRAYER: Eternal Father, let us not stay childish in our faith, but help us to grow strong and to stand firm and faithful in Thee. Teach us, Lord, to live so close to Thee, as did Jesus, that we may look at the tests of faith no longer as sufferings but as blessings. Take our lives and make them Thine. In Jesus' name we ask. Amen.

Two Lilbourn Juniors to Take Part in Contest

LILBOURN -- Two Lilbourn high school juniors, Paula Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warner of Lilbourn, and Joanna Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Duncan, also of Lilbourn, were chosen to represent their class. They will enter competition with the school's speech class to determine who will carry the LHS banner in the county's American Legion oratorical contest to be held early in December.

Paula and Joanna won out over more than 60 juniors, all of whom delivered speeches of from five to six minutes on a phase of the constitution.

Paula spoke on "Our Constitution, Bed Rock of Democracy." Joanna's speech was "Our Constitution, Worth Having, Worth Defending."

A man went to his doctor for a checkup and got this advice: "You have to give up wine and women -- you may sing as much as you want to."

No Feed GrainSurplus

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri Farmers Association, said today "we no longer have a surplus of feed grains."

"The grain surplus has been solved," he said. "Our problem is to keep it solved."

Heinkel one of the authors of the government's feed grain program, said farmers are harvesting the largest crop of soybeans and corn they have ever grown "and trade channels have evidenced little concern. Cash grain prices in Missouri are higher than the loan in most instances."

"Government take-over of grain has been negligible the past few years," he added. "In Missouri the Commodity Credit Corporation has disposed of approximately 3½ million bushels of grain storage the past 18 months and the remaining government storage is filled to less than 30 per cent of capacity."

Heinkel said credit for solving the grain surplus problem "must be given to the success of the government feed grain program; an increase in exports and the high level of prosperity in this country."

Storm Hovers Over Northeast

A storm hovered over the Northeastern United States today, packing strong winds, snow and cold.

The storm struck the Lake Huron area Tuesday before it swung over the coast of Maine Wednesday night.

Southern California, after a brief respite from four of the area's rainiest days on record, waited for another expected two-day deluge.

Rain fell from the Pacific Coast inland to the Rocky Mountains, and bitter cold gripped the Midwest.

But the brunt of the attack today was in the Northeast.

Meadville, in western Pennsylvania, reported 9½ inches of snow on the ground. A 62-year-old woman was killed when her car slid across a slushy highway and hit a tree.

High winds toppled a 20-foot cinder-block structure in northeastern Pennsylvania, killing a construction worker.

Gale warnings were up along the Atlantic Coast from Maine to Cape Hatteras, N.C. Heavy-snow warnings were in effect in sections of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

In the early-morning hours, 9 inches of snow covered the ground at Newport, Vt. Seven inches of it fell within six hours. Berlin, N.H., reported a 4-inch fall within the six-hour period, and up to 5 inches whitened the shores of Lake Ontario in New York State.

Behind the storm, a vast pool of cold air settled across the nation's midsection and forced its way deep into the South.

Richmond, Va., residents shivered in an overnight low of 29 degrees and it was 31 in Atlanta.

New Bathing Suits Barer Than Ever

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Bathing suits for next year emerge barer than ever in the California designers' preview, so bare, in fact, that they're covered by everything from carpenters' aprons to Tahitian trousers.

There was little left to the imagination in the barely-there bikinis and clinging and cut-out bathing suits displayed at the California fashion creators' showing of resort and spring wear Wednesday.

Catalina showed a denim carpenter's apron over a brief matching bikini. A cable knit overblouse topped a matching swim suit.

But most popular of all were the knee-length, ruffled trousers variously called long jammies and surf britches.

The trousers, sometimes covering bikini trunks, at other times paired only with brief bikini bras, were patterned from the surfer trousers which first became popular in Tahiti, a Catalina spokesman said.

They turned up in the Cole of California collection as well. They date back, a Catalina spokesman said, to the roomy bathing trunks male surfers used for comfort in riding the Pacific Ocean waves.

They come striped, flowered, and polka-dotted.

The results: Windbreaker jackets in everything from waterproof fabric to cotton prints; laced trunks and cotton-knit surfer shirts for both beach and campus wear.

The bare look, spurred by the topless swim suit nearly two years ago, inspired a few daring numbers in last year's swim suit collection. This year, however, a suit which was merely lacking straps, midriff or sides, is sans all three.

Seek Flu Protection Early, Heart Association Advises

When winter comes, can flu be far behind? Not his year, according to the nation's medical forecasters.

The prediction is for a heavy outbreak of influenza this year, based on the two-to-three year cycle typical of the disease. The last major outbreaks in the United States generally were in 1962-63, and, on the West Coast, in 1963-64.

Because people with a heart or circulatory problem are likely to be more seriously affected than others if they develop flu, the Missouri Heart Association recommends that they check with the doctor on the advisability of vaccination. Immunization with flu vaccine has been recommended by public health authorities for a number of high risk groups. These groups include:

Persons of all ages suffering from chronic diseases, such as rheumatic heart disease, other heart and circulatory problems, respiratory ailments such as asthma and emphysema, and diabetes.

Persons in older age groups. Influenza deaths are disproportionately higher among those past 45, and much higher in the over-65 bracket.

Pregnant women.

Patients in nursing homes and chronic disease hospitals.

The vaccine developed for use this season offers protection against five different types of virus, all capable of causing influenza. While it will not ensure complete immunity, vaccination has in past years produced a marked degree of protection for a large majority of those who received it.

Flu vaccine is administered in two doses: the first in the fall, the second about two months later. However, the interval can be reduced if an epidemic threatens. Those vaccinated within the past two years need only one booster dose this fall.

Whether you have a heart problem or not, the Missouri Heart Association suggests:

Ask your doctor about influenza protection for you and your family.

The jet stream is a high-speed, westerly wind, which is notable for being concentrated in a narrow current. It occurs in the middle latitudes at altitudes ranging from 20,000 to 40,000 feet. Winds at the center of the stream can exceed 200 m.p.h. Airplanes often take advantage of jet stream to increase their speed.

Former Bootheel Dentist Dies

KENNETT -- Services for Dr. Marion L. Fuller, 62, of Memphis, Tenn., formerly of Kennett, were Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the Memphis Funeral Home on Union Avenue. Burial will be in Memphis.

Dr. Fuller died Wednesday following a heart attack. He was a native of Alabama.

Dr. Fuller, a former Dunklin County dentist, started practicing denistry in Cardwell in 1926, and later came to Kennett, where he practiced for a number of years.

In 1948, he moved to Memphis, where he was a teacher in the University of Tennessee Dental School. At the time of his death he was registrar at the University of Tennessee.

Dr. Fuller is a past president of Southeast Missouri Dental Society. He was a member of the First Methodist Church.

A—There are no roads beside it and, for all its 158-mile length, just three bridges.

George Ellsworth Of Malden Dies

MALDEN -- George Ephriam Ellsworth, 79, died Nov. 13, at his home. He was a retired farmer, and had been a resident of this area for 26 years.

He was born Jan. 17, 1886 at Dexter, son of Ephriam and Mary Dowdy Ellsworth. He was married to Pearl Wilson, who preceded him in death.

Two children survive the marriage. In 1929 he married, Opal Gidcumb, who survives.

Services were conducted Monday at the Landess Funeral Chapel with Rev. W. C. Hill officiating. Burial was in Memorial Park cemetery with Landess arrangements.

He is survived by three daughters, Evelyn Erickson of Malden, Bonnie Green of Chicago and Floy Landquist of Oakland, Calif.; six sons, Lloyd and George D. of St. Louis, Edmond, Buford and Robert of Chicago, and Morris of Malden; 11 grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Resident of Stoddard Dies

DEXTER--John Willie Moore. 80, lifelong resident of Stoddard County, died in the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston Thursday.

Moore was born on Feb. 4, 1885, near Bell City.

He married Rhoda E. Steward, July 3, 1910. She died in 1959. On Jan. 23, 1961, he married Ida May Aldridge, who died on April 9, 1964.

Moore is survived by five children, Mrs. Dorothy Metz and Mrs. Mildred Phillips, both of Fisk; Mrs. Jewel Mayberry, Wappapello; Mrs. May Mayberry, Bloomfield, and Fred Moore, Route 2, Essex; 22 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

into foreign policy led to a clash with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. Truman backed Byrnes and fired Wallace.

Later Wallace changed his mind about Soviet communism and warned of the danger of Red China to both the United States and the Soviet Union.

In the 1948 election Wallace ran for president as the Progressive party candidate in hopes of assuring the defeat of Truman by the Republican nominee, Thomas E. Dewey. He got 1,156,103 votes but Truman was elected.

Afterwards, Wallace retired to Farvue, a 115-acre hilltop farm at South Salem, N.Y., where he worked to improve the egg-yield of chickens, to grow better strawberries and develop gladiola with a stronger resistance to cold.

Wallace, born Oct. 7, 1888, on a farm in Adair County, Iowa, had made his first mark as a plant expert and the developer of hybrid corn. His father had been secretary of agriculture in the Harding and Coolidge administrations and it was in this post that the son joined the Cabinet of President Roosevelt in 1933. He later changed his registration from Republican to Democrat.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church at Ridgefield, Conn., Cremation will be at Mountain Grove Cemetery, Bridgeport, Conn., and the ashes will be interred Monday at Woodland Cemetery in Des Moines, Iowa.

Try To Spot Bold Burglar

Scott county authorities have taken Patrolman Isiah Dunn to Farmington in an attempt to identify a man suspected of robbing the Progressive Loan Company Wednesday night of $2,250.

As Dunn checked doors the night of the burglary, he saw a man come out of the loan company office.

He asked him what he was doing there and the man told him that he was an employe of the firm.

Authorities are investigating on the assumption that the man was the burglar.

Gosh, if college professors only knew as much as they thought they did when in high school!

Retires From Factory Job

Miss Maudie L. Walker, 328 Greer, retired from the International Shoe Company, effective Nov. 2, according to Supt. F. L. Rudd.

She joined the company's fitting department on Feb. 10, 1930, and has worked in the skive shoe department.

Miss Walker is a native of Hardin county, Ky., and since moving to Sikeston has been active in the Church of the Nazarene.

Her immediate plans were to rest for awhile after which she will visit a brother in Oregon.

Storm Swirls Over Coast

Winds up to 60 miles per hour lashed Cape Blanco on the southwestern Oregon coast as one-half inch of rain fell in a six-hour period.

The storm sent showers and strong winds to the north and central Pacific Coast. Snows extended inland to the northern Rockies.

The heavy rains which have swamped Southern California for five days tapered off.

Los Angeles has recorded 5.25 inches of rain, and up to 15 inches has fallen in the mountains since Saturday night. Thousands of homes have been flooded, isolated or threatened by mud slides. Many roads remained closed.

More than 3,000 miles away in the Northeastern United States, residents took a breather after a day of battering winds and snow.

Mrs. Kennedy Guest Of Royalty

NEW YORK AP -- Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband received Mrs. John F. Kennedy as their first guest Thursday night after arriving here on the last leg of a whirlwind U. S. tour to sightsee "in the most vibrant city there is."

"This is not the end of a glorious visit," said the princess, "but the beginning." Her six-day itinerary includes a ball, dinner parties, country outings, shopping and enough tourist hopping to stagger a hiker.

Freights Roll On Santa Fe

CHICAGO (AP) — Freight trains are rolling again over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co.'s 13,000-mile system after a short-livd strke.

Less than six hours after the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks called the walkout Thursday, union officials ordered the 9,000 members back to work.

The president of the clerk's union, C.L. Dennis, said the strike was temporarily suspended after the National (Railway) Mediation Board in Washington asked both parties to postpone action pending settlement efforts by a federal mediator.

Bertrand News

By Mrs. Florence Fenimore

Maude Rushing visited her son A. J. Rushing and family in Kirkwood Mo., over weekend.

I've breakfasted ready to attend church of my choice Bertrand M E church.

Bobby Zook brot paper Sun. Post dispatch. He's such a nice looking black eyed boy. He's freshman at Charleston high school. Said he work at Billy McCubbins Grocery store. Billy McCubbins married Coleen Cunningham a pretty red head. She was the daughter of Maggie and John Cunningham sold coal and had a barber shop in Bertrand, Mo.

I remember his father the late Bill McCubbins he drove a black team of mules thro Bertrand in a spring wagon. He and his wife and Billy Cunningham and wife Agnes is operating cafe where the beauty parlor was. Emma Burke was out here Sat. night with a broken ankle to see her father. She teaches Charleston years ago when our Bertrand public school. It went to 12th grade now to 8th grade.

Emma Burke and Mr. J. L. Young taught in our public school system. I see we are out of debt. Have they found out who tore up Bill Laugh house Cecil Bethunes' house shot a hole thro Albert Peters car who tore up Bert Rowe's farm house.

Everything remains a mistery. Must write to Doc Handy Smith.

I went to school with Lillian Applegate in Lexington, Mo. Handy said he dident hurt him so badly to pull a tooth as it did to ask old man Applegate for pretty black eyed Lillian Applegate's hand in marriage. I remember my late husband Geo. Fenimore said he corner my father the late Judge J. R. Bush for my hand in marriage. I say yes.

I attended WSCS Wed at Bertrand M E. Church Parlors. Those seated around banquet table Bob Burke, Cordia Farmer, Blanche Miller, Pres. Bertha Collier, Ruth and Clara Patrick, Helen Bagby, Alma Schwab, Clara Peters, Lacy Young and Florence Fenimore. After a sumptious meal Elva Gaty took such a delicious pie of Blackberry and boison berry.

We had business meeting. Alma Schwab, leader, paid our dues.

We sent $15.00 to Kingdom house St. Louis. I've been there to view it. They care for mothers children while she works. What about the mysterious magician has been visiting in South East Mo.

He has a stick can detect nature of earth he found oil in Big Oak Park. He has dug up Indian moument sent it on to museum. Thats our Indian mound north Charleston. I have played on that mound when I was a child I attended home Ec.

I had lunch two big platers fried chicken. I was at Betty Wagners home west of Diehlstadt Mo. Those present, Betty Wagner, hostess, Maude Shauley, Francis Welch, Mrs. Wagner's black eyed daughter and Betty Granson, Florence Fenimore and Mattie Hutcherson. A business meeting was had dues paid we said club collect pledged allegiance to flag. Willie Elkins treasurer was there.

Nancy Tasuey had to take her daughter to Cairo, Ill., to entrain for Florida. He is on the Air base down there. We arrive home in time for supper. Belle Greens good looking daughter took her riding Sat. afternoon. Bruce Lewis Sikeston was here Sat. afternoon. Aunt Kate Gullions daughters were here Fri. night.

I didn't get to go to funeral and Mrs. Geo. Roberts had no way.

Mrs. Simmons has lots fine looking folks come to see her often. She's a bed patient. We are rejoicing over Cowboy Smith. He went to hospital, Columbia, Mo., got two good legs now he's walking good.

LABOR FAMILIES DEMAND HOMES WITH MORE BATHROOMS

Every seven seconds -- in hospitals, ambulances, taxis, automobiles and private homes throughout the country -- a new baby comes into the world.

Since families today are getting larger, those that plan ahead for adequate bathroom facilities will be the happiest, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. Friction over use of the bathroom is one of the most common problems in one-bath-room families, the Bureau says, and more and more families are demanding at least a bath-and-a-half when shopping for a new home.

1. Almost three out of every four new homes built in 1963 (the last year for which statistics are available) had more than one bathroom.

2. More two-bath homes were built in that year than 1-bath.

3. About one in every 25 homes had three bathrooms or more.

For families of three or four, a minimum of two bathrooms is considered essential, although 2 1/2 is the ideal. Families with four members or more should have at least three bathrooms.

One - bath homes already are getting harder to sell at attractive prices. Thus the young couple who plans for enough bathrooms to provide for a growing family will eliminate the "rush hour" waiting line as children grow up. And they'll also find that additional bathrooms will enhance the resale value of their homes, should they ever decide to put it on the housing market.

AN OPEN LETTER
To The Residents Of Sikeston

YOUR HELP IS URGENTLY NEEDED!

The 1965 goal of the United Fund of Sikeston is $38,900.00. This will go to help the Eight United Fund organizations that serve our area: Boy Scouts, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Girl Scouts, Red Cross, Salvation Army, City Welfare, USO & Civil Air Patrol.

Only one of the many services the Red Cross provides in our area is the verification of requests for emergency leave from our many servicemen. In the past years, the local Red Cross Chapter handled almost 400 of these requests. If they do not receive adequate funds for their purposes, this and many others of their fine services will have to be curtailed.

The Salvation Army daily serves a need not met by any other organization in this city. Its work is both spiritual and material. Moreover, the Salvation Army will guarantee that a minimum of twenty percent (20%) of their budget will be spent right here in Sikeston.

In Sikeston there are over 800 boys who are members of Boy Scouts, learning to be better future citizens. Money is needed to expand and improve the Scouting program.

The Girl Scouts have approximately 532 girls currently active in Sikeston. Our contribution to the Girl Scouts through the United Fund plays a vital part in the continuance of their program.

In the five years from 1959 thru 1964, the Missouri Delta Community Hospital has provided over $157,000.00 worth of free hospital care, an average of over $31,500.00 per year for the five year period. The money the hospital receives from the United Fund helps defray the costs of this indigent hospital care.

The City Welfare takes care of our local welfare needs, and in addition, the director acts as executive secretary and co-ordinator of each years United Fund Drive.

The Civil Air Patrol mission activities include: a national program of aerospace education for adults and youth, participation in disaster emergency services-nationally and locally, and in cooperation with and support of Civil Defense and the American Red Cross disaster relief programs.

To reach their total goal, the United Fund has urged each citizen of Sikeston to contribute one day's pay.

To reach their total goal, the United Fund has urged each citizen of Sikeston to contribute one day's pay. Most employers in Sikeston have agreed that they would be willing to accept an employee's contribution through a payroll deduction plan.

If solicited separately, you would give something to the hospital, something to the Red Cross, something to the Salvation Army, something to the Boy Scouts, something to the Girl Scouts, something to City Welfare, and something to the USO and Civil Air Patrol. How much? Think it over and then contribute the total in one gift to United Fund of Sikeston.

THE MORE U GIVE
THE MORE HELP
UNITED FUND OF SIKESTON

The 1965 campaign opened officially October 5 and it is planned to close it, successfully, on December 1. With that same generosity that has typified Sikeston citizens in the past, we can reach our goal easily within the time set. Be generous. We have a community-wide responsibility that we must meet community-wide.

Missouri Prisoner Escapes

He was serving nine years from Scott County for burglary and stealing.

Ditto has several previous convictions, according to the Scott county sheriff's office.

On May 11, 1960, he was arrested for burglary in Mississippi.

In September of 1961, he was arrested for burglary and stealing in Southeast Missouri and received a five-year prison sentence.

His last conviction was when he was arrested in April of 1964, for breaking in the D. C. Brown Tavern and Ann's Place, both in Scott City. He also stole a car.

He is reported to have relatives in the East Prairie and Matthews vacinities.

Poplar Bluff Soldier Dies

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. AP -- Army Spec 4 Dale Francis Hudson, 27, of Poplar Bluff was killed in action in Viet Nam Wednesday, the Defense Department told his brother Thursday.

His brother, Bob Hudson of Poplar Bluff, said Hudson was killed after his unit of the 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division had completed an assault mission.

Hudson, a former hospital orderly, was due to get out of the Army next month.

Services Will Honor Kennedy

NEW YORK AP -- Memorial observances will be held in many parts of America for President John F. Kennedy on Monday, the second anniversary of his assassination.

Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, the slain president's home state, proclaimed a John F. Kennedy Memorial Week starting Sunday.

In Dallas, where Kennedy was shot on Nov. 22, 1963, there were plans to mark the anniversary with a number of church services and the placing of wreaths at the assassination site.

THE BODY of Edward Taylor, four, is carried from his fire ravaged house by Scott County Coroner Clyde Poe and Alvin Dotson.

Two Negro Boys Killed As Fire Destroys Home

Two Negro boys, Odell Taylor, 17 months, and Edward Taylor, four, burned to death this morning in a fire that destroyed their frame home, 214 Young St.

Their sisters, Linda Spencer, three, and Cassandra Burnett, eight, were admitted to the Missouri Delta Community hospital for treatment of burns. Both are reported in good condition.

Their mother, Louise Taylor, and two other children escaped from the flames uninjured. The fire started in the kitchen.

"I was in the kitchen when the fire started and by the time I got to the living room it was too late to get to my babies," the mother said.

Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey said the fire was reported at 7:06 a.m. When firemen arrived the house was engulfed in flames.

Odell Taylor was burned while lying on a couch in the living room and Edward Taylor died in a bedroom bed.

The bodies were taken to the Dotson Funeral home.

Another fire was reported at 4 a.m. at 214 North West street, at the home of Elza Duncan, 75. The frame house was destroyed.

He was admitted to the hospital for burns on the back and head. His condition was not critical.

Ramsey said this fire also started in the kitchen.

House Redistricting Plan Wins Approval

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he is considering Friday, Jan. 14 as the date of a special election on the legislative redistricting plan passed by the House and Senate Thursday.

He said the tight time table of legal requirements would make it almost impossible to hold the election any earlier.

The governor said he plans to make some television appearances in behalf of the proposed constitutional amendment before the special election.

The big problem, he said, is to educate the people on the fact that they will be voting on a method of reapportionment, not on whether the legislature should be redistricted. A federal court decided that issue last December.

Even many House members never did understand that point, the governor said.

The special session finished its work Thursday just one month to the day after it started.

Technical sessions will be held Monday afternoon for final cleanup chores but for all practical purposes the reapportionment problem now checks to the voters.

The Senate accepted the compromise reapportionment proposal, 25-4, and after a long argument the House followed suit --99-53- well over the 82 needed for House passage.

In its final form, the plan calls for the House to be redistricted by a bipartisan commission of 20, chosen by the governor from panels of 20 Republicans and 20 Democrats nominated by congressional district committees.

If the commission deadlocks and fails to act, redistricting would be done by the six bipartisan Supreme Court commissioners.

The House would remain at 163 members.

The 34 Senate districts would be drawn by a bipartisan commission of 10, selected by the governor from 10 Republicans and 10 Democrats nominated by the two state party committees.

If the commission fails, the six Supreme Court commissioners would get the Senate problem in their laps, too. Under the present constitution, senators would have to run at large in case of a deadlock.

Both houses also passed a bill increasing old age assistance and aid to the disabled maximums from $70 to $75 a month and aid to dependent children by $1 per child.

Also passed was a bill carrying $1,009,000 to finance the welfare increases for six months starting Jan. 1. It will be matched by more than $2 million in federal funds.

Because many of the new House districts will contain more than one county, the legislative also passed a bill calling for all House and Senate candidates to file with the secretary of state instead of with local election authorities.

Up to the very last, it was House redistricting that caused all the turmoil.

But efforts to send the issue back to a House-Senate conference committee were rejected, and after some bitter speeches by House members who knew they would not be back after redistricting, the proposal finally passed.

Kidnap Victim Aids Hunt

TACOMA, Wash.(AP)—Thirteen-year-old Charles Hyde III planned to help authorities piece together likenesses today of the two men who kidnaped him for $45,000 ransom.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde Jr., was abducted early Wednesday by two men and released unharmed after the father, head of a wholesale grocery company, paid the ransom.

After the boy was kidnaped while on the way to school, the father was notified by telephone to round up the money in $5, $10, $20, $100 and $1,000 bills.

Hyde drove to a supermarket parking lot as he was ordered, to wait for a call at a pay telephone booth, and while he was there the valise holding the bills was removed from his car.

Recalling the nine-hour nightmare, Charles said when his captors left him in the concrete waterfront building where he had been hidden, they told him they'd shoot him if he didn't stay at least 20 minutes.

Then he worked his hands loose from the tape which bound them and climbed about a half mile up a hill above the waterfront to the home of family friends.

Late Thursday at the sheriff's office, he and Pete Schultz, an officer who specializes in composing portraits of wanted men from a set of plastic pieces, tried to work out the visages of the two kidnapers. They planned to go on with their work today.

Freedom Declaration Approved

VATICAN CITY (AP) -- The Vatican Ecumenical Council voted final approval today for a Roman Catholic declaration that all men must have religious liberty.

The council bishops accepted the document, a milestone in their Church's 2,000-year history, by a vote of 1,954-249.

The vote in St. Peter's basilica ended work on the declaration which sets a new tone for Catholic relations with other Christians and non-Christians. It recognizes the right of followers of non-Catholic faiths to worship according to their conscience.

Meanwhile, an effort by Archbishop Philip Hannan of New Orleans to amend the council's denunciation of nuclear weapons ended in failure.

Council spokesman announced that the bishops on Wednesday gave more than the required two-thirds majority vote to the assembly's declaration deploring nuclear stockpiling. Archbishop Hanna, former auxiliary bishop of Washington, D.C., had proposed changes that would have accepted such stockpiling under certain conditions as a defensive deterrent. The vote was 1,656-45, with 523 others voting approval "with reservations."

The acceptance vote on the religious liberty declaration cleared the way for its promulgation as a Church decree by Pope Paul VI in a public session the day before the council ends Dec. 8.

Search Spreads For Cong

Moving out from a position just outside the valley in the remote highlands near the Cambodian border, the bloodied but still battling Americans reported 21 of the enemy had been killed and one captured during the night and today.

The troops of the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division suffered light casualties, a U.S. spokesman reported. He said the latest enemy toll brought to 1,207 the number of North Vietnamese dead since the battle began in the Ia Drang Valley Sunday.

B52 bombers from Guam made two more raids on suspected North Vietnamese positions west of the 1st Cavalry forces.

During the night the North Vietnamese fired mortars and small arms into the three main American positions and stormed them in platoon to company strength. The Americans, entrenched in deep foxholes, fought them off.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were engaged in a major buildup to reinforce the hard-pressed cavalrymen. A South Vietnamese force of regimental size was moved into the battle area about 35 miles south of Pleiku and 6 miles east of the Cambodian border.

The Pentagon said Thursday that 108 Americans were killed and 350 wounded in South Viet Nam during the week that ended Monday night. It was the largest U.S. casualty total for any one week in Viet Nam, and it included only part of the fighting in the Ia Drang Valley.

The previous high was for Nov. 7-13, when 86 were killed and 230 wounded. The new figures bring the total of U.S. servicemen killed in Viet Nam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 1,095 and the wounded to 5,661. The total of missing remained at 96.

A Washington compilation also showed a total of 3,542 Communist soldiers were killed in South Viet Nam during the four weeks that ended last Saturday.

Buffet Dinner Bolsters Faith In Santa Claus

Is there a Santa Claus?

For your answer, ask several hundred families.

Or still better, the testimonial buffet dinner given last night at the Country Club, in honor of Paul C. Meyer provides the answers.

There were 110 persons, who decided to surprise Meyers, for the many years of unselfish service he has bestowed on hundreds of children on Christmas Eve.

Bill Sikes was master of ceremonies.

The highlight was presentation of a radio, compliments of the many families in whose homes he has spread joy for many Christmas seasons.

The exact number of years that Santa Claus has visited the homes is not known, but it started with the Charles Boyce family. Today the visits are being made to Boyce's grandchildren.

Yes, there is a Santa Claus, and the 1965 Christmas Eve will bear this out in the many homes visited by him.

Says Viet Cong Seeks Revenge

NEW YORK AP -- Rep. William Stanton, R-Ohio, says after a visit to world trouble spots that he believes the Viet Cong have been fighting back because of humiliating defeats.

Stanton said he found the morale of American troops in Viet Nam to be high.

Blowout, Doze Cause Mishaps

Two single car accidents were responsible for five injuries Thursday. One was due to a blowout. The second was caused by a driver dozing while driving.

Four men went to the Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff, when Donald Cato, 30, St. Louis, was driving a 1963 Ford, four miles south of Poplar Bluff on highway 67, at 11:40 p.m. Cato, according to the highway patrol, dozed. His car left the road and struck an oak tree.

Injured were, the driver, cuts on head and face, broken arm and leg and his passengers, John L. Payne, 25, Zalma, cuts and bruises; Virgil Groom, 22, St. Louis, cuts and bruises; and Ronald Payne, 29, House Springs, cuts and bruises and a possible back injury.

On route D, two miles east of Lilbourn at 5:05 p.m., a tire blew out on a 1963 Ford pickup, driven by John H. Wilson, 34, Portageville, while rounding a curve. The vehicle ran off the road and turned over.

Wilson was taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti, with scalp wounds and a possible back injury.

Air Guards To Fly To Viet Nam

WASHINGTON AP -- Hundreds of Air National Guardsmen - most of them weekend fliers-have a 10-day trip in their future. They're going to fly Christmas gifts to American soldiers in South Viet Nam.

Volunteer National Guard crews of nine men each will fly an estimated 75 missions to Viet Nam in the next month, carrying cookies, cakes, candy and mail.

Nine Boy Scouts Approved For Eagles

DEXTER -- Earl Jarvis, chairman of the Southeast Missouri council board of review, announced that nine Boy Scouts were approved Thursday night for Scoutings highest rank of Eagle.

They were Lloyd A. Hinkle, and Garry J. Seal, both of post 65, Piedmont; Jim Doggett, post 41, Sikeston; Mark Richardson, troop 264, Poplar Bluff, John Holifield, troop 72, Bloomfield; Bill Thompson and Tommy Ghee, both of troop 50, Lilbourn; Don Rice, of troop 4, Cape Girardeau and Craig Stubblefield, of troop 366 Poplar Bluff.

The candidates were guests of the Eagle board for dinner before the review.

Wallace Praised By Johnson

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — President Johnson led the tributes today to Henry A. Wallace, whose controversial views he said came from "a deep sense of social justice."

The former New Deal Cabinet member, vice president and third party candidate for president died Thursday of lateral sclerosis. He was 77.

From across the country national figures eulogized Wallace, whose sense of crusade and controversial ideas helped block him from the White House.

President Johnson said: "The death of Henry A. Wallace stills an original American voice. He always spoke his mind — and always from a deep sense of social justice. His views may not always have been popular, but they were always sincere.

"I consider him a good man and a good public servant. His country will miss him."

Former President Harry S. Truman said, "I'm sorry as I can be. Henry was an asset to the country."

Wallace had been President Franklin D. Roosevelt's vice president, but in 1944 his renomination was blocked by old-line Democratic chiefs, Southerners and others. Truman was nominated and, when Roosevelt died in 1945, he became president.

At the time of Roosevelt's death Wallace was secretary of commerce, but his ventures

Latins' Eye On More Aid

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — U.S. sources anticipated today that extension of aid to Latin America beyond the 10-year Alliance for Progress program will be one of the major economic themes in the special inter-American conference now under way here.

Under the program of large-scale aid for economic and social reforms, the United States has been contributing roughly $1 billion a year since 1961.

Proponents of the program say it has spurred aid-receiving countries to put up much larger sums of their own for their development, and a number of Latin-American states should be able to proceed without outside help by the end of the decade.

But it is generally expected, the U.S. sources said, that all pockets of poverty will not be wiped out by 1971. Hence the idea of extending the Alliance for Progress beyond the current "decade of development."

Actor Convicted Of Slaying Wife

INDIO, Calif. AP -- Former actor Tom Neal, onetime Hollywood hero in low-budget movies, has been convicted of involuntary manslaughter in the shooting of his young, pretty wife.

Neal's conviction carries a possible sentence of up to 10 years in prison. It is also possible he could serve a minimum sentence in Riverside County jail and be released in a year.

Copper Cozy LBJ Replay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just as he did in the aluminum price rollback, President Johnson is taking precautions to insulate himself from any political backlash from business on copper.

The President appeared belatedly Thursday in the government's release of 200,000 tons of copper from the strategic stockpile. It was necessary for him to make the declaration which would legalize the action announced previously by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

To a news conference held by press secretary Bill D. Moyers came Joseph Califano, a presidential assistant, to play down the idea that the government acted to counter rising copper prices.

This amounted almost to a replay of the decision to release 300,000 tons of aluminum from the national stockpile. While the White House said this had nothing to do with a price increase, the manufacturers got the message last week and rescinded the price advances they had posted.

Califano stressed there was a world scarcity of copper that threatened to get worse. He said producers were rationing their regular customers and that defense requirements for the metal would double in the next year because of the Viet Nam conflict.

In a statement, Johnson put himself in the position of accepting — rather than initiating — the decision to sell from the stockpile.

But there remained some doubt that all of the maneuvering would be entirely successful in sustaining the cozy political climate with business Johnson is striving to maintain.

McDonnell Plant Struck

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) —More than 17,000 machinists struck the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. at midnight Thursday stopping production on jet fighters used in Viet Nam and threatening to delay the launching of two Gemini flights from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

About 200 machinists set up a picket line at one of five gates at Cape Kennedy, where Geminis 6 and 7 are to be launched Dec. 4 and Dec. 13.

Another 17,000 machinists, almost half of the McDonnell employes, walked out at the huge aerospace plant in St. Louis, halting work on 50 Phantom jets, the type used by United States forces in Viet Nam.

Eugene Glover, vice president of District 9 of the International Association of Machinists, and company officials flew to Washington for a meeting today with federal mediators.

Spokesmen for the company and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said a prolonged strike could upset the Gemini launchings.

Substance of Peace Probes Are Important

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic authorities believe recent disclosures of peace probes in the Vietnamese war focus too much attention on the number and form of the moves and not enough on their substance.

Depending on the fortunes of war, each side in the conflict has been probing the other's intentions for more than a year.

Each has been trying to find out whether the other was prepared to abandon the war.

How many peace probes have there been in recent months?

Some diplomatic sources say it is impossible to estimate — that peace probing is a continuing effort. Others estimate there have been at least two probes a month from one side or the other.

But in most cases there has been a considerable degree of uncertainty all around as to whether a probe was seriously intended or more or less casual or accidental.

And despite all of the probing, neither side has given any indication that it is prepared to abandon the war.

The current mission to Moscow by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield appears to be one of the most obvious of the peace initiatives on the part of the United States. It seems to be aimed at urging the Soviet leadership to press for a Vietnamese settlement and also at finding out whether that is a practical possibility.

The U.S. initiatives in this field go back to last April when President Johnson announced American readiness for "unconditional discussions" with the Communists on peaceful settlement. Up to that time the United States was in too weak a position in South Viet Nam to approach peace negotiations with any feeling of confidence that the talks would do more good than harm.

The major peace probes before the turning point in the conflict early this year seem, therefore, to have come from the Communist side. Until the United States began to build up its own power in the conflict last February, the Communists thought Washington would tire of the war and the main question for them was how soon that would come about.

The issue of peace talk maneuvers has attracted considerable attention recently because of disclosure that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant had played a very active middleman role more than a year ago in trying to arrange direct U.S.-North Vietnamese talks at Rangoon, Burma, and had suffered a rebuff at American hands.

In spite of this, Thant has been busy on various occasions since that time, according to diplomatic informants here, and apparently remained hopeful of providing the channels for peaceful contact whenever the war has reached that stage.

When you sit down to that big turkey dinner next Thursday, eat, drink and be merry. But don't let anyone sell you on dark meat with the argument that it's more nutritious than white.

Let your taste be your guide, say government nutritionists. The differences between the two are insignificant.

The nutritionists also give this food -- value inventory of the Thanksgiving Day menu:

Bread stuffing -- B vitamins, iron and protein. Seconds of that too?

Mashed potatoes and giblet gravy--The potatoes offer a fair source of Vitamin C, and made with milk, offer calcium. The giblets provide B vitamins and iron. There's no more room on your plate.

Cranberry sauce -- Not so high in food value as most fruits. Who cares?

Sweet potatoes -- Considerable vitamin A and some vitamin C. Better get two plates.

Mincemeat pie -- Not much vitamin A, but B vitamins and minerals.

That after-dinner brandy--Not much besides a lot of calories and a certain sense of well-being.

The meal as a whole -- Probably too many calories, say the nutritionists. But this is more the fault of the diner, than the dinner.

It's true. Even you, the women of the world, can repair your car's engine and save yourself delays and garage bills.

Read on and surprise your husband.

If you're trying the start the car and the engine turns over so fast you're sure it's about to start -- but it doesn't -- push the gas pedal to the floor. Hold it there. Don't pump it. Now, still pressing the pedal to the floor, try the starter again.

Don't get overexcited if the engine starts, as it probably will, for you've let enough air into your carburetor to dilute the gas that was flooding it.

Sometimes the starter will just grind away and the engine won't turn over faster, even though you pump the gas pedal. First, check your gas gauge. Maybe the gas tank is empty. If it's not, the carburetor isn't getting enough gas, so pump the gas pedal 10 or 15 times to squeeze gas into the carburetor, and then try to start the car again.

Eureka!

What can you do if nothing happens when you turn the key? Grab the jack handle from the trunk and bang the terminals of the battery. Really. It might help, for the trouble may be a loose connection and banging the terminal will tighten it. If you don't know what the battery is or where its terminals are, well . . .Ask somebody. And bang gently.

Now, if you get the engine started but it lumbers for a time as if it's sick, and then dies, tap the side of the carburetor gently --gently, now! -- with your trusty jack handle. The carburetor is the first engine part under the big, round air cleaner, which looks like a double-size giant skillet without a handle. It's the most prominent part of a car engine, and usually stands highest on the engine.

Let's say you've gotten the car started and shortly after you move out of the driveway you splash through a puddle. Half a block later there's a sputter, a cough and -- silence.

The thing to do is to wipe the water off the white ceramic part of each spark plug. This could very well enable you to start the car again. (We hope sincerely that you know where the spark plugs are.)

See how simple it is? Your husband may even be forced to admit that he's underestimated you.

Against this awesome array, the food business would seem to be in a helpless situation.

But such is not the case. Food manufacturers expect sales to increase six per cent in 1965.

True, individuals may be eating less in quantity. But a change in quality will result in greater profits and an increased sales volume.

The food processors are optimistic because they believe in research and advertising.

Ninety per cent of the American food manufacturers expect to introduce new products in 1965. For this purpose they are increasing budgets of their research departments by an average of six per cent.

The manufacturers predict that an increase in national advertising of ten per cent will be necessary to gain public acceptance of the new products.

"However, retailers at the point of sale stand to benefit, or lose, in relationship to their own advertising effort. We can win approval of a good product, but we can not guide a prospect to a particular grocer," a rep-representative of national food company asserts.

"Grocers who handle better products, which can be sold more efficiently at higher unit cost, must expect to increase local advertising budgets. It is a necessary survival investment," he said.

Ralph T. Moore writes in the Oregon Voter: ". . .beware of the man who campaigns on the grounds that he is of the masses and is ardently sympathetic to their needs. His vision is much too apt to embrace only votes, and to be too narrow to encompass solutions to vexing problems. We desperately need men who have, by their own efforts, risen superior to the restriction of environment and circumstance, to become outstanding in their particular field. And note carefully that such men are never ordinary but extraordinary. They, only, have the true objectivity essential to the public service, the objectivity that enables them to be the representative of all the people in their district or under their jurisdiction, not merely the representative of the clique or class from which they come."

TRAVEL NOW,
SEE LATER.

Well, the 1966 automobiles are hitting the highways (and anything else that gets in their way) and it is obvious that the big break-through in modern motoring has practically been achieved.

It is now possible to drive almost anywhere without seeing anything or doing anything but sit perfectly still and try to keep awake.

You can now enjoy television in the rear seat of your car and thus avoid the bordeom of looking out the window at the scenery.

You can, of course, have air conditioning and escape contamination from what used to be known as fresh air.

You can have power steering, power brakes, power windows, power antenna, power trunk opening. And side mirrors which can be adjusted from inside the car, thus saving the exertion of stretching out the arm -- a hardship once borne by hardy pioneers.

You can have stereo radio with AM and FM, and you can tune it in by merely pushing a button. You can also have a stereo tape recorder.

All this lovely sound can, depending on which school of thought you accept, help keep you awake or help put you to sleep.

There is also cruise control, which saves the physical labor of keeping your foot on the accelerator and the mental strain of thinking about speed limits.

You can have an electric eye which automatically equips you with inborn courtesy by dimming your headlights when another car approaches. (So far, though, the stupid thing can't tell the difference between a headlight and a neon beer sign.)

You can have venetian blinds to shut out the sun and a rear window defogger to let it in.

You can have tires which never go flat, and there is hope they may devise similar protection for your pocketbook.

If affluence which enables you to have these simple creature comforts has also added to your waistline, a tilt steering wheel is available. And if you have acquired such conveniences without sufficient prosperity to absorb them, beautiful, convenient terms can be arranged.

You can, in short, now go from coast to coast and hardly realize you have left home. Providing, of course, that along with all these accessories you have acquired enough judgment to drive sensibly.

This, alas, is something the driver must still manage himself.

Tough, eh?

BANGS THAT ARE IMPORTANT

It was an explosive situation in space for our Gemini V astronauts - literally.

In and about their capsule were some 85 explosive components designed to perform a variety of tasks, such as explosive bolts that separated the capsule from its booster rocket, or tiny squibs that actuated valves.

Explosive systems, which have proved faster, safer and more reliable than springs and other devices, are finding increasing use in spacecraft and satellites, doing everything from pulling pins to deploying solar panels.

The LEM - the Lunar Excursion Module which will carry two men to the surface of the moon and back again to an orbiting Apollo capsule sometime near the end of the decade -- will have built into it no less than 350 little things that go bang.

Anger and pride are not objectionable if they are truly justified. Even fear may sometimes aid in survival. But envy is a ruthless and a relentless destroyer, both of the person envied and of the man who envies.

The constructive reaction to desiring for oneself the wealth or the happiness, or both, that another has attained is to go out and seek it on one's own. The destructive reaction is envy, the resentment of wealth or happiness is another merely because someone else has it and you don't.

Among primitive, uncivilized people, those who envy another often simply band together and attack him, looting his property. Where personal jealousies are involved, physical assault occurs more often than we like to think even in our highly civilized society. Still it is not so dangerous among us because physical assault, whatever its motive, is a crime and police can deal with it.

The real danger of envy in our society is much more subtle and sophisticated. It is the use and the deliberate stimulation of envy of the successful to line up support for measures concentrating more power in big government. Government has a legal monopoly on the use of force. Through government, the envious can strike back at the object of their envy and help deprive him of what he has earned.

When success is penalized, every man who hopes to succeed by his own efforts suffers. The success - seekers, not the envious, should be out guides.

NEW YORK (AP)—Taking a winter vacation has become a form of social upmanship. The fellow who goes on one feels vastly superior to the rest of us paycheck prisoners who, because of family reasons, can only get away during the mobbed months of June, July and August.

But going on a vacation during the cold months isn't necessarily a sign of wealth. Many people live on bean soup the rest of the year so they can afford to splurge on one.

Weeks before the event he tours the office showing glamorous travel folders. He actually is trying to make everyone else envious, but he pretends to be seeking advice.

"Where do you think I should go?" he asks.

You have a definite idea, but you're too polite to make the suggestion.

Those who go to snowy places suffer from a lifelong trauma as a result of having seen the film "Nanook of the North" during their childhood. They trudge out of the office wearing heavy boots and carrying a pair of rented skis across their shoulders.

A week or two later they return on crutches with a foot swathed in bandages and their eyes hidden behind a pair of dark, dark sunglasses.

"Broke my ankle doing a slalom down the most dangerous slope," a typical victim explains. "The ski surgeon says it's the worst break he's seen in 30 years."

You give a few sympathetic clucks, and then make the mistake of inquiring, "Why the sunglasses?" That gives him just the opening he has been looking for.

"Just a touch of snow blindness," he remarks with casual heroism. "I had to lie there unattended all day before they found me. Then it took four men all that night and the next day to carry me down the mountain during a raging blizzard."

Actually, you know in your heart that the liar probably never even got out in the snow, and probably broke his ankle and got a black eye falling off a bar stool back in the ski lodge. But how can you prove it?

That doesn't stop him. He tells you how he ate at the captain's table every night, how he calmed the other passengers as the ship wallowed through the howlingest storm ever known at sea, how during a stop at the Island of Yama Yama he became the first white man ever to attend a native Voodoo rite.

Long after the first robin of spring has come, he is still babbling to you about all the fun he had while you were busy in the office doing his job as well as your own.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The chief of the Army Visitors Bureau in Hawaii, Lt. Col. Robert F. Blume, has a tough time now that Congress is out of session. About half the congressional junkets stop off in Hawaii, and he has to meet the planes, arrange hotel reservations, answer questions about night clubs and bathing beaches, then see the visitors off again on the right plane.

No less than 28 representatives and senators are listed to travel across the Pacific, stopping at Honolulu, during the month of November alone.

The efficient army has carefully prepared a list of each visiting solon with the time of arrival, time of departure, hotel and the primary purpose behind the junket. Most of the congressmen have listed as their primary interest "cinpac," which, translated leterally, means commander-in-chief, Pacific, and covers the entire Pacific. But one group of congressmen, representing the House Labor and Education committee, listed as their interest "PACAF", the abbreviation for the air force in the Pacific.

Here is the official list of "distinguished personnel" distributed November 4 by the Army's Pacific Visitors Bureau so its personnel can make congressional junketeers feel at home.

Listed for arrival Nov. 7 at 10:30 a.m. on Pan American airways flight 2 were Senators Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., and Joe Tydings, D-Md., members of the Senate Judiciary committee.

Listed for Nov. 9 at 5:15 p.m. on an air force C-121 jet were the following members of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics: Olin Teague, Tex., Bob Casey, Tex., Emilio Daddario, and Robert Giaimo, both Conn., Edward Boland, Mass., and Torbert MacDonald, Mass., all Democrats. They are listed by the army as billeted at the Hawaiian Village Hotel, one of the plushest hosteleries in the Pacific, to remain there till Nov. 11 at 4 p.m., thus giving them two days of sunshine on Waikiki.

Listed to arrive Nov. 11 at 6:30 a.m. were the following members of the House Education and Labor committee on special air mission transportation: John Dent, Pa., Gus Hawkins, Calif., William Ford, Mich., Patsy Mink, Hawaii, all Democrats, and William Ayres, Ohio, Republican. They too were billeted at the Hawaiian Village hotel and scheduled to leave Nov. 14, thus giving them three days to enjoy the balmy air of Honolulu.

BEACHHEAD OPERATION

Listed for arrival in Honolulu on Nov. 12, coming from Manila on Philippine flight 100, were two Democratic members of the House Judiciary committee: Robert Ashmore, S. C., and George F. Senner, Jr., Ariz. They were scheduled to remain in Honolulu until Nov. 14 at 2 p.m., thus giving them a little over two days of Hawaiian sunshine.

Scheduled for arrival on Nov. 14 at 3:55 p.m. on SAM flight 7885, were the following members of the Armed Services subcommittee: Otis Pike, N. Y., Alton Lennon, N. C., Charles Gubser, N. C., all Democrats; and Alexander Pirnie, N. Y., with William Bates, Mass., both Republicans. They were scheduled to enjoy two days of Hawaiian sunshine, though the army had not been able to find the right hotel rooms for them when the November schedule of visitors was published.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., was scheduled to arrive Nov. 16 by Commercial airline and remain in Honolulu six long days until Nov. 22, billeted at the bargain - rate bachelors quarters at the Hickam Air Force base. McClory is a member of the House Judiciary committee and the exact nature of his junket is not known. His primary interest appeared to be Hawaiian sunshine.

Scheduled to arrive in Honolulu Nov. 20 on air force jet VC-137 are the following members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee: William Fulbright, Ark., John Sparkman, Ala., Frank Moss, Utah, Democrats; with Burt Hickenlooper, Iowa, and Tom Kuchel, Calif., both Republicans. Their schedule calls for a two-day rest at the Royal Hawaiian hotel.

Scheduled to arrive in Honolulu Nov. 21 on the Australian Airline Qantas flight 586, are Reps. Ken Heckler, W. Va., and J. Edward Roush, Ind., both Democrats, of the Science and Astronautics committee. But they will touch down only for a few minutes in Honolulu before flying on.

In addition, the Army Visitors Bureau lists some notable brass hats for entertainment during the month of November. Most interesting is Gen. Al Wedemeyer, retired, who has been such a severe critic of American foreign policy and a staunch proponent of the extreme right wing. Wedemeyer, though retired, is listed as traveling on "official business," with his primary interest "CINPAC". The army listed him as billeted in "Princess 'K'," the ritzy Princes Kaiulani hotel.

The colonel in charge of laying out the red carpet for VIPs, Robert F. Blume, is an infantry officer. Sometimes he wishes he were back in the infantry instead of fighting the battle of the visitors in Honolulu.

SAVING GETTYSBURG

A unique ceremony takes place on the Gettysburg battlefield today (Nov. 19). It won't make history as did Abraham Lincoln's tribute to the brave men who gave their lives there, but will be another kind of a tribute--to 13,000 schools across the country and the children who raised $140,000 to save 140 acres of the historic battlefield from becoming a housing project.

Martin Brill and the Gettysburg Battlefield Preservation Association have now saved a total of 250 acres of land where the heroes of the north and south gave their lives in the bloodiest battle of American history. And today it will be turned over to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall in a ceremony illustrating what the American people can do to save their heritage when they are given leadership.

However, the hotdog stands, the motels, the gas stations, are encroaching on other parts of the battlefield. Signs are up advertising parts of the battlefield for sale. The House and Senate Appropriations committees refuse to do anything about saving this historic land from the developers, and the schools of the country may have to step into the breach again.

WASHINGTON, D. C.: -- A global campaign is being launched by the Soviets' labor strategists to cut the production and paralyze the transportation and slash the supply of war material to allied troops in South Viet Nam.

Deadline for action has been set for December 20.

What the Soviet's "labor desk" in the Central Committee of the Communist Party USSR hopes for are mass action movements in the free nations of the world. This is a drive targeted at inspiring wide defections of foreign crews aboard freighters shuttling war cargo to South Vietnamese ports from American harbors, from Indian and Chinese oceanic islands as well as from the key supply centers in Japan and the Philippines.

To parallel this effort at waterfront disruption, the Soviet global labor apparatus will attempt to stir mass street demonstrations, as well as disruption in "factories, workshops and offices."

Just how much disruption, if any, can be wrought by the Soviets' labor front, the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU), will be measurable only on and in the weeks after that deadline.

But no one needs a man in the Kremlin to document the orders for such an ambitious worldwide attack upon the supply lines to U. S. troops on the jungle and rice paddy fronts.

It is being directed by a brilliant, disciplined Muscovite Communist of French origin, Louis Saillant. His headquarters are in Czechoslovakia at Prague 1, Nam. Curieovych 1, telephone 67-856, where the Soviets have gathered a considerable number of American specialists. His instructions were dispatched to thousands of unions, Communist and anti-Communist, in many lands including the United States.

The Communist labor forces behind the Iron Curtain are expected to run mass demonstrations against "American Imperialism." The U. S. is to be denounced and charged with using poison gas against civilians as well as for allegedly preparing to unleash bacteriological and chemical warfare against women, children and cattle.

On this side of the Iron Curtain, Mr. Saillant, WFTU General Secretary, hopes to stir action even amongst non-Communist unions.

The most vigorous and immediate reaction sprang from Joe Curran, leader of the National Maritime Union (NMU). He acted swiftly on an international as well as national front. After examining the Saillant letter and document of instruction sent from Prague on Oct. 29, Curran notified all crews on all ships to be on the alert for Communist action in ports across the world.

Curran also plans to call on his colleagues inside labor throughout the U. S. to funnel information into the NMU headquarters if anything develops on the rails or airports or in any communication and transport centers.

He communicated with the anti-Communist world coalition known as the International Transportworkers' Federation in London urging it, in turn, to alert its many affiliates.

"We have to fight as hard for our side," said Joe Curran, "as they are fighting for theirs. This is the kind of thing we should have been doing to them on the Cuban run and to the ships which carry supplies to the North Vietnamese ports.

"Let's make certain that Defense Secretary McNamara knows what the other side is up to. Now perhaps he will put more American freighters on the high seas and stop chartering foreign flag ships, whose crews keep deserting just when we need to rush equipment into key Viet Nam ports."

What especially aroused Curran in the long document which Saillant rushed to thousands of unions on all continents was the following Communist call for sabotage:

"The Congress (of the WFTU) appeals to the workers and trade union organizations of all countries, and especially to the transport workers and trade unions, those in other branches in connection with the production, transport and supply of war material for the United States' war of aggression in Viet Nam, to make all efforts and adopt suitable forms and methods of struggle in order to boycott and prevent production and transport or supply for the American imperialists in their war of aggression in Viet Nam."

This mass movement on the labor front has been skillfully built for two years now. It began with the convening in Hanoi of the Conferences of the International Trade Union Committee for Solidarity with the Workers and People of Viet Nam against the American Imperialist Aggressors in Oct. 1963. Another such meeting was held early last June. There the action program was planned. Final touches were added in Warsaw last month.

Finally the Soviet - controlled global labor apparatus set Dec. 20 as its own labor action day.

Soon we'll know if this "apparat" is a paper tiger or whether they can chew up some of our supply lines.

COOPERATES WITH DAD

BENTON, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Jack Horton noticed his young daughter pinching children and shooting paper wads at youngsters while he was preaching at a revival. After the service, he scolded her for her actions. She replied:

"You preach to 'em. I'll keep 'em awake."

The Modern Christian

Does Jesus Chirst teach that some people will go to Hell?

The word Hell is mostly used to signify the place of the damned, corresponding to the biblical terms of Gehenna and Tartarus.

In the New Testament the place of all the dead, whether good or wicked, is called Hades. (Matthew 11.23; Luke 10.15; etc.) However, the place of punishment for wicked is generally called Gehenna.

"And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul; rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body in hell." (Matthew 10.28) There are many such New Testament passages where Christ directly refers to hell. (Matthew 5, 13, 18, 23; Luke 12; Mark 9)

In Luke hell is viewed as a place of torture where sinners go immediately after death. However, it is more often viewed in future aspect, where wicked men are cast with the fallen angels at the end of the world. (Matthew 25.41; Revelation 19.20; 20.10; 21.18)

In the book of Revelation, the present abode of Satan is described as a prison. Here hell is called an abyss in the darkness of the earth in which its inmates are held till the last judgment, when they will be cast into a pool of everlasting fire.

From scriptural passages, the characteristics of hell are fire, gnashing of teeth, darkness, and the ever-gnawing worm. I would doubt that these traits would have to be taken as literal fact. Rather, they are used to communicate to man that hell is the last place any sane person would want to live his eternal destiny.

Hell is simply the eternal loss or absence of God. In closing I do not think that we should place hell as specifically out in the beyond. Hell is the lack of one's presence and love, and not an enclosure.

Debbie Has Plush Room

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It all started with that long walk that Debbie Reynolds took in the rain. It has ended with a splendiferous dressing- room trailer that threatens to cause major discontent among her fellow stars.

Between scenes of "The Singing Nun," Miss Reynolds repairs to the most elegant trailer for a star since Marion Davies dwelt in a colonial mansion on wheels. It is lush, plush and glittering, and the former cheerleader from Burbank (Calif.) High School enjoys it unashamedly.

"And why shouldn't I?" she argues. "I spend almost as much time in this dressing room as I do in my own home. If you're going to be a star, you should live like a star."

It was different during her 14 years of servitude at MGM. Then her between-scenes time was spent in a series of shanties. When she was back on the lot for her first film there as a free-lancer, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," she cracked.

"The day that it happened, the rain was coming down like mad," she recalled. "I had to walk four blocks to the bathroom (actors' dressing rooms traditionally have no plumbing), then four blocks back.

"I was out for a week with a cold. That meant $30,000 a day loss to the studio, which seems like a ridiculous thing to have happen because there was no bathroom nearby."

Debbie decided to splurge on a trailer for herself, since the studio wasn't about to do it for her. She ordered a 34-footer and had it especially designed, inside and out. The trailer is divided into three sections: A sitting area with cushiony chairs and couch; the dressing-makeup section, surrounded by full-length mirrors; storage and bath.

"I wanted it done with utter elegance," she explained." "This is what the public expects of movie stars: White mink rugs and champagne."

I noted that the rug was in reality red fox. But the champagne was in the refrigerator.

"When Glenn Ford saw my trailer, he had to have one of his own like it," she said. "He got it, too."

ANN LANDERS Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old boy who works after school and on weekends. Please print this letter and make life a lot easier for all of us who are in this line of work.

A customer comes in and says, "I want an ice cream cone." Then I have to ask him, "What kind of ice cream do you want?" The customer says, "What kind do you have?" I have to rattle off the whole list. Our shop has the biggest selection in town --28 flavors. After I go through the list, the customer looks at me and says, "Haven't you got kumquat or loganberry?" When I say "No," he gets a real sad expression on his face and says, "I'll take vanilla."

I get so mad I want to jump over the counter and hit him in the mouth. Can you think of a snappy answer for these clowns?--TOMMY

Dear Tommy: Customers don't come in for snappy answers. They come in for ice cream.

A shop that features 28 flavors should have a sign listing them. In the meantime, remember that the customer may not always be right, but he is always the customer.

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago our three-year-old son came down with hives all over his body. We called the doctor and he had us bring the boy in for tests.

After the tests were completed the doctor said the boy's hives are caused by an emotional problem. He recommended that we take him to a specialist who deals with disturbed children.

My wife didn't say anything till we got home. Then she really blew her stack. She said, "That doctor is crazy. What can a three-year-old child be disturbed about? He doesn't know about the bomb or Red China. When doctors can't find out what's wrong they always blame an emotional problem."

Now that I think about it, what she said makes sense. We'd like your opinion. -- A AND C

Dear A and C: Very few people get hives because of Red China. What really disturbs people are close-to-home problems -- like a domineering husband, a cold mother, a brutal father, a sneaky brother or a ruthless boss. And there's no age limit. It can happen to anybody, anytime. I hope your wife will take the doctor's advice.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is one of the sweetest people who ever lived -- after 11:00 a.m. But when he gets up in the morning, he is grouchy and sullen.

We've been married five years and it's been like this from the beginning. I make a special effort to see that his breakfast is exactly the way he wants it. The paper is folded according to his instructions, at the left of his plate. Sometimes he can't find his glasses, so I always have an extra pair on the table.

I force myself to be cheerful and pleasant even when I feel rotten. Nothing helps. Maybe if I understood why he's like this I could accept it. For obvious reasons I can't ask my friends if their husbands behave this way. I'd hate for them to know I have the problem. Thanks for your help.--A.M. BLUES

Dear A. M.: Some people don't have the physical machinery to generate energy until noon, so don't be so critical.

Nothing can be more annoying to a morning sourpuss than a chirping mate. So cut it, chickadee.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex--Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THANKSGIVING TRADITIONS

The last Thursday in November has been Thanksgiving Day to most of us, as far back as we can remember. But it wasn't always that way.

After the first Thanksgiving was proclaimed in 1621 by Governor Bradford of the Plymouth Colony, selection of this day for giving thanks was left to the governor in each colony. Later, the President issued proclamations declaring a different date each year.

Finally, in 1863, President Lincoln set the last Thursday in November as the regular date, and each state voluntarily joined to make it a national holiday. It has remained that way ever since, except when President Roosevelt shattered precedent, and proclaimed the third Thursday in November, 1939, as Thanksgiving.

One Thanksgiving tradition which has endured throughout our history is what to serve on that festive day. Turkey with all the trimmings remains the most popular Thanksgiving custom.

And this year should be no different, for there are plentiful supplies of plump young turkeys awaiting your selection at Midwest food stores, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. You'll find a turkey to fit every family and budget size.

Whether you're having a big reunion or a dinner for two, select a turkey to fit your plans, and follow custom on Thanksgiving Day 1965.

If you notice that a buttonhole on certain types of cloth is beginning to get too large and out of shape, remedy it by stitching a heavy piece of cloth on the wrong side of the cloth and reworking the buttonhole.

Mary Dodd Reid Invited To Scout Weekend

Miss Mary Dodd Reid, senior Girl Scout, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Reid, was recently invited by the Greater St. Louis Girl Scout Council to attend a senior Girl Scout weekend which was held at the Girl Scout Camp Cederledge near Pevely. Approximately 400 senior and freshman Cadette Girl Scouts were present for this event.

Program for this event consisted of "Getting to Know You", included was a hootenanny, cookouts, flag ceremonies, campfire, Scouts' Own Highlights consisted of a program given by the ten St. Louis National Roundup Patrols plus two Girl Scouts from Tennessee who had been invited as special guests. These two senior Girl Scouts attended a special back packing trip this past summer and presented a program on this event.

Miss Reid received this special invitation because of acquaintances she made with the St. Louis Scouts this past summer in route to and from the 1965 Nationals Senior Girl Scout roundup held in Idaho, July 13-30.

Sikeston Men Really Bring In The Deer

11,985 Whitetail Killed

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri hunters have killed 11,985 whitetail deer during the first four days of the gun season. The figure is down more than 5,000 from the same period last year.

Conservation Commission agents pointed out the gun season started at the beginning of the work week this season, whereas it started on Friday last year.

The weather has been generally good.

Benton County continued to lead in deer kills with a four-day total of 690. Texas County was a close second with 649 and Ozark County was third with 529.

One deer brought down in Texas County Thursday was shot by Rodley Mickel, Springfield, Ill., with a flint-lock rifle, a replica of a Revolutionary War gun. It was Mickel's second deer killed with the ancient weapon. He is a corporal in the Illinois Highway Patrol.

Big 8 Football

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's Kansas-Missouri time at Lawrence and cellar-escaping time at Stillwater in Big Eight football. Missouri is strongly favored to win and take a 7-2-1 record to the Sugar Bowl while unbeaten Nebraska marks time until its Thanksgiving date with Oklahoma.

Oklahoma State, 0-5 in league play, is favored over Kansas State, 0-6, at Stillwater. The winner likely will escape the cellar.

Big Eight teams will go outside the league Saturday for a pair of attractive games. Iowa State, 5-3-1, plays at New Mexico, 2-6, and Colorado, 5-2-2, is at Air Force, 3-5-1. Colorado already is assured of its best season since 1961.

Jack Mitchell is suffering through his first losing season at Kansas since 1958 and the Jayhawks at 2-7 have their worst record since 1954. But upsets are common in the series, filled with last-minute decisions.

Dan Devine, Missouri coach, is worried that the distractions of planning for New Orleans and the added incentive the bowl selection gives Kansas in the 74th game of the traditional series, the nation's fifth oldest.

But Missouri is loaded with size, talent and experience. Kansas will have its oft-injured quarterback, Bob Skahan, for part-time duty.

Phil Cutchin, OSU coach, is concerned about a letdown after his team's great effort in a 21-17 last-minute loss to Nebraska. A year ago, OSU also gave the Huskers a big fight. The next week, K-State beat OSU.

The two best passers in Iowa State history will be on opposite sides at Albuquerque—Tim Van Galder, current Cyclone quarterback, and Bill Weeks, the the New Mexico coach. A 6-3-1 finish would be Iowa State's best since 1960.

Kansas worked on its kicking and goal-line defense, as befits the underdog, in winding up its preparations for Saturday's annual battle with Missouri.

Both camps were preoccupied with drawing the line between the fit and the feeble.

Russell Washington, Missouri's giant defensive end, was counted out because of a knee injury which has hobbled him for two weeks.

Coach Devine indicated four players who have been in the hospital with the flu will be ready for the Jayhawks — Jim Willsey, Mike Eader and Gary Frieders at guard and Dick Kistner at center.

At Lawrence, Coach Mitchell tabbed Rich Pratt to start at guard and Bob Hudspeth at tackle despite the leg injuries they've been nursing. Fullback Mike Johnson, Steve Heck, a guard on offense, and Ward Coleman, a defensive back, are expected to see some action, but injuries will keep them from starting.

Kansas State will send twenty-one seniors to Stillwater, but three — Willie Jones, Doug Nutter and Jim Perry—are injured and probably will not play.

Oklahoma State and Oklahoma play the final game of the Big Eight season on Dec. 4 at Norman.

The Sooners had only a light workout Thursday, and the coaching staff said they will buckle down today for the Thanksgiving Day game with Nebraska at Lincoln.

The unbeaten Cornhuskers, ranked No. 3 nationally and bound for the Orange Bowl, will see today if their pint-sized fullback, Frank Solich, has a chance of getting well in time for the Oklahoma game. He bruised a knee returning a kick-off last week.

title and Missouri's no. 1 national ranking were on the line. Kansas forfeited that one two weeks later in the Bert Coan case.

Bullets Move To Within 3rd Place Of St. Louis

BALTIMORE AP -- The Baltimore Bullets moved to within two games of the third-place St. Louis Hawks in the Western Division Thursday night by trouncing New York 120-104 in a National Basketball Association game.

The loss was the 10th for the Knicks in their last 15 starts and was the only action in the NBA Thursday night.

An American on a walking tour of Ireland met an old farmer who told him the next town was only five miles away when, in fact, it was 15. When he met the man again, the American complained of the deception.

"I only did it," said the farmer, "to spur you on. Every minute you'd think you were nearly there."

"The English wouldn't fool a man like that," the visitor said.

No More Wet Grounds At Bush Stadium

ST. LOUIS AP -- The announcement "game called because of wet grounds" will never be necessary at the new riverfront stadium in St. Louis.

Through the marvels of electronics, Bush Memorial Stadium will have a playing field that will eliminate snow and mud and suck up cloudbursts in minutes.

An electric soil warming system will be installed, melting snow and keeping the field from freezing in winter.

Agronomists also have come up with a new kind of rootzone material composed of sand, calcined clay, peat and soil which will baby grass on the field. They also have designed a special draining system that will absorb rain water so fast a game need never be called for wet grounds.

Missouri Headed For Sugar Bowl

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Eighth-ranked Missouri is headed for the Sugar Bowl and this is added incentive for down-trodden Kansas, but Missouri remains a strong favorite in the 74th renewal of their rivalry Saturday.

Kansas stands 2-7, its worst record in 11 years, but has enough talent to give the Tigers some problems. Missouri hopes to head for New Orleans with a 7-2-1 record, however, no matter what the Jayhawks throw at them.

A capacity crowd of about 45,000 is expected for the regionally televised battle. It's the nation's fifth oldest college football rivalry and oldest west of the Mississippi.

"If Russia had a football team, maybe I'd rather beat them than Missouri," said Don Fambrough, Kansas assistant. "But they're the only ones. This ball game has something about it that's different from anything else."

The return of Bob Skahan, lefthanded passing quarterback, may help Kansas chances, although he still can't run strongly on his sore legs. Bill Fenton, a smart 150-pound gamecock, will start at quarterback.

Missouri boasts two prime All America candidates, 246-pound tackle Francis Peay on offense and 207-pound back Johnny Roland on defense. Roland also has 20 points and 648 yards on 60 offensive plays.

Gary Lane, a hard, fast runner at quarterback and master of the quarterback option, is only 12 short of 3,000 yards in career total offense. Charlie Brown, a darting halfback, leads the Big Eight with 779 yards rushing.

Missouri leads the series 34-30-9 and their victory last year cost Kansas a share of the Big Eight championship with Nebraska.

The last Kansas victory was in 1960, 23-7, when the league

BY THOMAS J. FLEMING

Back had come Miles Standish and ten others from a September trip to Massachusetts Bay. Their boat was loaded with rich beaver skins, and they talked of nothing but the magnificent harbor they had seen. The news swirled swiftly through the little colony of Plymouth, and soon more than one man man was wondering aloud if they had not made a wrong choice. Already they knew that Plymouth's shallow harbor would never permit them to become a major port. Should they move? Stake out a hurried claim on this northern coast, and dream of a golden future?

They might have made this fatal blunder but for the wisdom of one man. Governor William Bradford was only 31 years old, but he was already one of those rare leaders who perfectly blended realism and vision. No one knew better the terrible sacrifices that had created Plymouth. In a little notebook he had grimly listed, one by one, the deaths of the first dreadful winter. His young wife, Dorothy, had been among them.

By the time the "general sickness" was over, more than 50 of the 101 pioneers who braved the Atlantic on the Mayflower lay in shallow graves, unmarked lest the Indians note their dwindling numbers. It was hardly surprising that people who had suffered so much should hunger for an uncommon reward. But to abandon Plymouth, to undergo the terrific labor of building more houses, the risk of war with strange Indians, when able-bodied men were a mere handful, was madness.

There was, Bradford swiftly decided, only one thing to do. He must somehow make them realize how much there was at Plymouth for which they could justly be grateful.

As the son of English farmers, Bradford had participated in more than one "harvest home" festival in his native village of Austerfield. During his 11 years of exile in Leyden, he had also grown used to celebrating with the Dutch an annual Thanksgiving Day in memory of the city's deliverance from besieging Spaniards in 1574.

It was harvest time in Plymouth. Their fields of golden yellow Indian corn promised a starvation-free winter. Why not combine an old-fashioned English harvest festival with a Dutch thanksgiving for their deliverance from Atlantic storms, hostile Indians and ramparing plague?

The idea was an instant success. Nothing more was heard about moving to Massachusetts Bay. Everyone agreed with Bradford's words: "The Lord, who assignes to all men the bounds of their habitations, had apoynted it for an other use." Looking around them at their ripe fields, the woods thick with game, the rivers and sea teeming with fish, feeling, after a peaceful plenteous summer, the glow of new health in their bodies, the men and women of Plymouth realized that there was indeed much for which to give thanks.

Edward Winslow, Bradford's close friend, tells how the Governor "sent foure men on fowling that so we might after a more speciall manner rejoice together, after we had gathered the fruit of our labours; they foure in one day killed as much fowle, as with little helpe beside served the Company almost a weeke." Among the "fowle," Bradford noted in his history of Plymouth, were "great store of wild Turkies." From the waters they gathered lobsters and clams, cod and bass. The little gardens surrounding each Plymouth house contributed a variety of "sallets" as greens were then known. From the wild fruits of summer they had gathered gooseberries, strawberries, plums and cherries, which they no doubt dried, Indian fashion. They did not bring enough sugar with them on the Mayflower to make jams or jellies. Of pumpkins, grown by the Indians among their corn, no mention is made. It was several years before the white men learned what to do with this formidable vegetable. The same was probably true of cranberries though bogs were plentiful nearby.

They were almost ready for the feast. But Bradford, underscoring his theme of gratitude, paused to invite their Indian neighbors to join them. Without the Indians' knowledge of how to plant and fertilize the precious corn, they would have faced certain starvation. If the great chief Massasoit had chosen to be hostile, he could easily have wiped them out. Instead he had agreed to a treaty of peace and mutual assistance which remains a model even today.

Massassoit gladly accepted Bradford's invitation. Many tribes on the east coast celebrated the harvest with a similar feast. He not only came --he brought along his entire tribe--90 hungry braves.

For a moment it looked like disaster. Ninety braves could devour Plymouth's entire winter larder. But chief Massasoit quickly sent hunters into the forest, who came back with five fat deer. So they sat down, white man and red, side by side, and began the feast. Miles Standish paraded his amateur soldiers, and they fired off muskets and their cannon on "Fort Hill." Indians and Pilgrims joined in foot races, wrestling contests, and the white man's favorite game, "stool ball"--a sort of croquet-on-the-run in which a ball was batted through numerous wickets.

They ate and drank and exercised for no less than three full days. Wine from the wild grapes of the forest, a bit green, but tasty enough, was bolstered by "strong waters" which they had brought from England and Holland in abundance. The Indians were fascinated by its magical effects. They in turn produced a few tricks of their own: They took corn and heated it over the fire in earthen jars. The Pilgrim children squealed with delight as it burst into puffy whiteness. Then came a generous dollop of maple syrup -- and there were popcorn balls!

Backing up this marathon feasting were a mere five Pilgrim women, assisted by a few teen-age girls. Fortunately, however, there was no dishes to wash. The fork had yet to come into general use. A few knives to cut the meat, and some wooden stirring spoons, served the whole company.

At last it was over. Indians and pioneers settled down to face the long winter with a new sense of trust and well-being. Edward Winslow echoed Plymouth's contentment in a letter to England: "And although it be not alwayes so plentifull, as it was at this time with us, yet by the goodnesse of God, we are so farre from want that we often wish you partakers of our plentie."

That which refines character at the same time humbles, exalts, and commands a man, and obedience gives him courage, devotion, and attainment.

Beatification Of Two Popes Asked

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today ordered the start of the beatification process for his two predecessors, John XXIII and Pius XII. His action was a first step toward their possible cannonization as saints.

Pope Paul made his surprise announcement in a discourse at a public ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica for the promulgation of two new decrees of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Speaking of the renewal of Roman Catholicism started by the council, which was first convened by Pope John, Pope Paul said his two predecessors should be piously remembered. He said the church and the world owed much to them.

"We are arranging," he said, "that to this end there be canonically begun the processes of beatification of these holy and eminent supreme pontiffs who are so dear to us."

Beatification declares that someone is worthy of public veneration because of exceptional holiness during his life. It is a step toward canonization, which declares that the beatified may be called a saint.

In his speech, Pope Paul also announced:

—That the long-awaited reform of the Vatican Curia is progressing and that he will soon announce a new statute for the Vatican's Holy Office, the Curia's most powerful unit and its most controversial.

—That the period from the end of the Ecumenical Council, Dec. 8, to Pentecost Sunday, May 29, will be a special jubilee period for the world's Roman Catholics to promote the council's decisions.

—That he hopes to convene his new Synod of Bishops for the first time next year or, if not feasible then, in 1967.

The two decrees of the Ecumenical Council promulgated today were on the apostolate of the laity and on divine revelation.

During the council session, the prelates took a final vote on the two documents. The divine revelation decree was approved by a vote of 2,344-6, the laity decree by 2,305-2.

A BUNDLE OF JOY ARRIVES

Excitement fills the air as these needy Filipinos gather around to see the latest bundle of joy. It is not the proverbial bundle of joy—but it brings life in another way—in the form of life-giving supplies such as food, clothing and medicine. Here, clothing is being distributed by a social worker from Catholic Relief Services, overseas aid agency of American bishops, which operates relief and welfare programs for the needy, regardless of race, creed or color, in more than 70 countries. You, too, can bring joy to those in need by donating your serviceable used clothing, shoes and bed linen to the annual Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign. Bring or send a bundle to the nearest Catholic church during November.

Ask Baptists To Contribute College Cash

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia Baptists have been asked to increase their donations to keep the denomination's six colleges operating as accredited institutions without the help of federal grants.

The state convention's 1,500 delegates unanimously adopted an education commission report which said: "Georgia Baptists are strongly committed to religious liberty and to the principle of separation of church and state."

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —A high school pacifist group has offered to place a manual for conscientious objectors in the guidance libraries of area high schools.

James Havelin, 17, president of Area Students for the Peace and Internationalism Required for Existence — ASPIRE — said his group also will ask that graduate counselors be permitted to give information on conscientious objectors. The manual outlining Selective Service requirements for draft exemption, would be purchased by Citizens against the Viet Nam War, an adult peace group.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The commander of America's training program for Viet Nam helicopter pilots, Maj. Gen. John J. Tolson III, commander of the Army aviation center at Ft. Rucker, told the Tennessee Valley chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army that combat helicopter flying is not as dangerous as it might appear.

He said that from December 1961 through August 1965, helicopters were hit by ground fire only once in every 347 combat flights; they were shot down only once in every 8,129 flights, and were lost and not recovered at the rate of one in every 15,341 flights. He did not list the casualty rate of the crews.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor-elect John V. Lindsay, emphasizing that a New York City transit strike cannot be permitted, has called for a complete overhaul of the city's labor bargaining procedures.

A possible solution, he said, might lie in the city's universities. "Professors with tenure and no ax to grind would be a better form of mediation," he said.

The Transport Workers Union, AFL-CIO, has threatened to call a strike of 33,000 subway and bus workers when its contract expires Dec. 31.

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Marvin Nodland has drawn a $50 fine and a 10-day city jail sentence because of smoking in bed.

City Judge Joseph Christoff imposed the sentence on Nodland, a tavern owner, after firemen were called to his apartment for the third time to put out a blaze that began after he fell asleep while smoking.

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Millions of sea worms rose to the surface off islands in the Fiji group this week. One observer reported they were so thick in some places that they could almost be walked on.

The worms, called balolo by the Fijians, rise once a year — usually when the sun and moon are in certain positions — to breed.

Mrs. Hearnes to Fulton Game

FULTON, Mo. AP -- Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes has accepted an invitation to attend the Fulton High School football banquet Tuesday.

She will substitute for her husband, Missouri's governor. The attractive mother of three daughters wrote the Fulton Boosters Club, that she would not be able to tell the football players much about the game but "maybe I can tell them how to block a pass?"

HARRISONVILLE, Mo. AP--The Missouri Christmas Tree Producers Association announced that Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes are accepting three Christmas trees from the organization to decorate the executive mansion.

Oscar G. Urquhart, the president, said Mrs. Hearnes plans to use a seven-foot Scotch pine in the sitting room, a tree from the plantation near here. He said 11-foot trees had been selected for the Gold Room and the entrance hall, one being selected from the Clements' plantation near Buckner and one from Gwinner's plantation in Warren county.

Clerks Strike Santa Fe

CHICAGO (AP) — The 9,000-member Brotherhood of Railway Clerks today struck the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co. in a dispute involving demands for changes in works rules, pay scale adjustments and fringe benefit adjustments.

C. L. Dennis, union president, in addition to authorizing the strike of the union's members, telegraphed 22 other union heads asking that their organizations honor the clerks' picket lines.

The strike began at 6 a.m. CST. The railroad announced that four hours earlier it had requested the National Mediation Board to assume jurisdiction in the strike which had been threatened.

In a prepared statement, Dennis said the union seeks "a bona fide sick leave, a wage inequity adjustment fund and a broader application of the work rules agreement to cover new modes of transportation."

He listed them as:

—Demand for sick pay regardless whether work is kept up by employes or whether the company finds it nece ry to hire additional help to o the work up to date. Also lved was a request to pay e oyes while they were atten fu-nerals of relatives.

—A 90-cent hourly wage increase.

—A demand, also before 13 other railroads and docketed by the mediation board, for the sole right to handle piggy-back loading and unloading. At the present time this work is done by various groups, such as clerks, carmen, shippers and contractors.

Luci Silent About Diamond

The ring drew new speculation that the President's daughter, 18, is engaged to marry Nugent, 23. But the White House again would make no comment and Luci, herself, couldn't be reached.

Hemispheric Change Noted

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Foreign ministers of the Western Hemisphere set up working groups today following a strong call by Brazil's president for them to update inter-American machinery to combat infiltration and subversion.

"It is urgent that we, the members of the inter-American system, rethink our concepts and preconceptions in the light of the new realities," President Humberto Castello Branco declared in formally opening the special inter-American conference Wednesday night.

The Brazilian chief chided past hemisphere parleys for "academically mulling over principles and provisions that, when a dispute comes up, we do not show any inclination to obey."

Stoutly defending the intervention in the Dominican Republic, Castello Branco said the hemisphere defense system was devised in the early postwar years to protect against direct armed aggression. Now aggression threatens more subtly "through infiltration and subversion" and "it is therefore imperative that we take a new look at the concepts of aggression and intervention," he said.

His keynote rang harmoniously with a theme sounded by President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk after Washington ordered troops into Santo Domingo to save lives and prevent a Communist takeover. Of the five Latin-American nations which sent troops to join the Americans in the peace force formed by the Organization of American States, Brazil sent the biggest number.

Kennett Man Heads Realtors

The use of advertising in the communist press has increased steadily and perceptibly within the last few years. At present, there may be observed not only more advertisements in newspapers, but also posters, billboards, and handbills containing commercial messages. Radio and TV also carry commercials.

How to Prevent Power Blackouts Is Big Order

NEW YORK (AP) — History's worst power failure apparently began in a piece of equipment the size of a household electric meter. But the larger question is what's to prevent it from happening again — accidentally or on purpose?

It is troubling defense planners, government officials, and power company executives, and has caused at least the 30 million persons whose utter dependence on electricity became dramatically clear Nov. 9-10 to wonder about the very nature of a power grid, the distribution system which enabled the failure to zip across the Northeast like a run in a stocking.

Power grids are interlocking networks of utility company lines which now extend to the Rockies and in a few years are expected to link 48 contiguous states in one big party line.

"The theory is good," said electrical engineer Lawrence J. Hollander. "There is nothing wrong with the theory."

Hollander is assistant to the dean of New York University's School of Engineering and Science, and is one of a few academic men in the United States whose scholarly field is power generation, transmission, and distribution. When the lights went out last week Hollander was in the middle of a lecture on the effects of lightning striking transmission lines.

The power grid theory, in broad terms, involves companies with power to spare sending it quickly on interconnecting lines to companies with temporary shortages.

Years ago, each company operated independently. Each had to have what was called spinning reserve — spare generators rotating but not producing electricity, against the possibility of a working generator failing.

It made sense, then, for two companies to agree to keep a single spinning reserve to satisfy both. The more companies making such cooperative agreements, the better. In the Northeastern United States, 42 companies are thus interconnected. Among them are more than 400 generators, all linked together.

Another advantage of such a network is that electricity can be delivered to customers more economically.

Old generators tend to be inefficient, producing electricity at costs as high as 8.5 cents a kilowatt hour. Newer ones can do it for as low as three-tenths of a cent. A kilowatt hour is the amount of electricity it takes to light ten 100-watt bulbs for an hour.

Many times it's cheaper for a company to buy extra electricity for demanding customers from another company, which has efficient generators operating than to produce its own with only tired old machines on hand. Electricity can't be stored; it must be produced the instant demanded.

These networks have been formed throughout the country, and all of them are connected with neighboring networks. But at present the internetwork connections are generally weak. Thus trouble in one network usually doesn't spread to another. They're much like big water systems connected only with garden hoses. The eventual plan is to replace the weak connections with strong ones, thus expanding the company buddy system between networks.

And thus also expanding the area vulnerable to a house-of-cards power failure?

But how vulnerable is a network to — dare anyone mention it — sabotage?

"If I wanted to knock out the entire Northeastern United States, just as happened Nov. 9," said Hollander, "I would pick a Thursday or Friday night just before Christmas. That would be a time of enormous loads-lots of lights, stores open for shoppers, cold weather. That would be the time to do it. And I would simply cause some damage to the backbone line."

The backbone line is the extra high voltage — EHV — wire running from the big plants at Niagara Falls through Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany and Poughkeepsie to New York City. At some points along the route, but not all, there are double lines, providing a backup system.

All the systems in the entire eight-state network are linked eventually to the backbone.

And, most significant, all the generators in the network are in precise synchronization, each turning as though on a single axle. They have to be, Hollander explained, so that the entire system will throb simultaneously at 60 cycles a second.

Should a generator accidentally get out of synchronization it must correct itself quickly — or get off the system. Automatic equipment is supposed to see that it does one or the other.

If a big bird should fly between the high-powered transmission lines, for example, or a tree limb fall and disturb the flow, a device called a relay detects it and causes a circuit breaker to open momentarily — for 1.5 to 3 cycles, the barest fraction of a 60-cycle second — then close again.

If the trouble hasn't passed, the process repeats itself. If after a third time it still hasn't fixed itself automatically, a repairman has to go out in a truck.

"That's what the automatic equipment is supposed to do," Hollander said. "Sometimes the equipment may not perform as expected. Perhaps the answer is more backup systems, more redundancy."

Hollander said when the backbone line is heavily loaded the generators are extremely sensitive, subject to the slighest disturbance.

That was exactly the situation the evening of the big blackout.

Something caused a disturbance -- nobody seems to know what — and the little relay box signaled a circuit breaker to open near the giant plant at Queenston, Ont., four miles north of Niagara Falls.

Instead of isolating the troubled line, the breaker sent its current to other lines, already loaded. They couldn't handle the excess.

The current flowing to New York reversed itself and, like air in a punctured tire, rushed to the point of least resistance, draining the power from the city.

At a different time of day, under a lesser load, generators throughout the system might have met the sudden demand.

But generators, like donkeys, will do only as much as they are capable and no more. When they sensed electronically that they couldn't meet the demand they cut themselves off to protect their own wiring, click, click, click, click, and 80,000 square miles went dark.

Yes, Hollander said, it could happen again. But in his view expanding the grid system would do more to reduce that chance than increase it.

On a billboard in London, England: "75% of the Clergy Take the Times!" And scrawled underneath: "And the other 25% pay for it."

$51,950 Suit Filed After Cars Collide

KENNETT -- Andrew Barnett, 18, of Poplar Bluff, through his next friend, Attorney Ted M. Henson, Jr., also of Poplar Bluff, filed a $51,950 damage suit in the office of Dunklin County Circuit Clerk Brydon Ross against Nina Morriseau of DeSoto.

In the first count, he sued for $50,000 for personal injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred Oct. 10.

He contends that the car, a 1965 Ford, struck the 1963 Buick he was driving on Highway 53 at the intersection of the highway and Route J in Dunklin County.

Barnett claims he suffered head and face injuries, a concussion of the brain, shock and multiple body bruises and abrasions which necessitated time spent in a hospital and the care of a doctor.

On this count he seeks $50,000 for personal injuries and medical costs.

In count two, he asks for $1,950 in payment for his 1963 Buick which, he claims in the suit, was made worthless and useless as a result of the collision.

Services in Malden

MALDEN -- Union Thanksgiving services will be held Wednesday night at the First Methodist Church. The program will be sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance.

PCA Annual Meeting Dec. 4

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The 32nd annual stockholders meeting of the Caruthersville Production Credit Assn. will be held Dec. 4. in the high school gymnasium.

The meeting will begin at 8:30 a.m., according to Earl Bullington, assistant secretary-treasurer. The meeting will consist of reports to stockholders, election of two directors, musical entertainment, and the awarding of numerous door prizes and gifts. Lunch will be served at noon.

This farmer owned credit organization is owned by over 1,000 farmers in Dunklin and Pemiscot counties and is engaged in financing the credit needs of these members. Volume of loans outstanding for the period June, 1964 through June, 1965 totaled almost $13,000,000.

Fabicks See UN In Action

NEW YORK -- Mr. and Mrs. John Fabick of St. Louis, at the invitation of Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, United States ambassador to the United Nations, joined other community leaders for a closeup view of the UN in action at a program sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association Friday.

To Match Funds for Cairo Lab

CAIRO -- The science department of Cairo high school will receive matching funds to supplement the recent $30,000 donation it received from a citizen, the Cairo board of education has learned.

State officials have assured the school district that the $30,000 donation made to the school's science department by Mrs. Berta Smith Bonfanti will be matched by state funds. This makes about $60,000 available to convert the school's science department into one of the most modern in the state.

The board of education instructed City Supt. of Schools Harold Mescher to proceed at once with planning the new science department. The initial step will be to engage a professional consultant to determine the needs of the department and to hire an architect to plan the new science room.

The board Tuesday night by a 4-3 vote agreed to accept Title I funds under the Federal aid to education program. An estimated $250,000 will be available to the Cairo district under this title for expanding present school programs and buying needed equipment for the expansion.

Mescher told the board that 20 per cent of this amount would be available Dec. 1, if the district chose to enter the program.

The board agreed to participate in the program solely on a "pay in advance" basis and on the condition that no control over the school system would be exercised by federal officials.

Board members were apprehensive about accepting the program after recent statements by a state school official indicated some "strings" might be attached.

Wallace Was Naive But Earnest Man

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — "He was a good man." That was the epitaph from President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey when they heard Thursday that Henry A. Wallace had died at 77.

Long ago Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt praised his integrity, too, but she called him an "inept politician." Between those phrases hung the life and story of an earnest, busy, optimistic and naive man.

He was probably never more honest than in admitting how naive he was. He said he was s grossly wrong in misreading Russia's intentions after the war.

In a speech, he had denounced this country's stern post-war policy with the Soviets -- although Russia had grabbed Eastern Europe as a vast satellite. Because of tte denunciation, President Harry S. Truman fired him as secretary of commerce.

Truman didn't look too good in this. Both the New York Times and the Washington Post reported Truman had approved the speech before Wallace delivered it.

Later in his memoirs Truman denied he had ever read the speech. Wallace denied that, saying he had gone over it page by page with Truman. But in this episode Wallace didn't look too good, either.

In the prepared text of his speech he had a number of criticisms of Russia. But when he mentioned the first one and was jeered in New York's Madison Square Garden he omitted all the others.

He explained later he did this to save time because he was on radio. But it was a sensational speech, besides criticizing Truman's foreign policy. In it Wallace called for an end to segregation in all spheres of American life and suggested the world be divided into two spheres of influence, one dominated by Russia, the other by the West.

In New Deal days reporters called him the worst-dressed man in Washington. For many, he was a nightmare to interview for he could be vague and had a habit of suddenly going silent in the middle of a sentence.

He dabbled in astrology, and in middle-age as vice president threw boomerangs and liked to wrestle. But his real field, from which he started and to which he returned, was agriculture. He made important contributions to plant genetics and was among the developers of hybrid strains of corn.

He was President Franklin D. Roosevelt's agriculture secretary from 1933 to 1941 and his vice president from 1941 to 1945. But the politicians had no use for him and in 1944 persuaded Roosevelt not to insist on keeping him for another term. They picked Truman and Wallace became secretary of commerce, but a critic in that job of American foreign policy.

It was no doubt fortunate for the country that Truman, not Wallace, succeeded to the presidency in 1945. From what Wallace admitted later — his failure to understand Russian communism — it's hard to imagine what might have happened if he had become president.

In 1948 he ran for the presidency himself on the left-wing Progressive party ticket, lost badly and quit the party two years later when the leaders of it wouldn't back him in supporting Truman's stand on Korea.

In 1952, he said the Russians had misled him into believing they "really wanted and needed peace." He said he had finally come to look upon Soviet communism as "utterly evil."

He mixed goodness with optimism and as early as 1942 began calling for a new kind of peaceful and prosperous world society after the war. He described this as the century of the common man.

By 1958 some of his optimism must have drained away for then he was saying he had "no illusions about the common man" and believed this "century can be one of cruelty and the most extreme violence and suffering."

He made mistakes, some colossal ones of judgment, but he was expressing his hopes and his conscience and in the course of it he pricked the conscience of America and made some people, if only a few, think. And for any man this is a great achievement and contribution.

Oil Tanks Above Ground Banned

KENNETT -- The Kennett city council Wednesday approved an ordinance prohibiting the construction of tanks above ground for the storage of all oils, gasoline, diesel fuels and other inflammable materials within the city limits.

The new order became effective Wednesday.

In conjunction with the new ordinance, the council voted to revoke a building permit issued Nov. 9 to the DX Sunray Oil Co., of Tulsa, Okla., and refund the company's money it paid for the permit.

The permit reportedly was obtained for the construction of eight storage tanks (four 15,000 gallon tanks and four 13,000 gallon tanks) and a 60x24 feet metal building on the property near the corner of Hudson and George streets in Cook Addition. The tanks would be constructed above ground and would be used for bulk storage.

Residents from Cook Addition appeared before the council and protested the construction of the tanks in the community. Such construction would be prohibited in a residential area under the terms of a proposed new zoning ordinance now under study by the council, but the ordinance has not been passed.

The city council and city planning commission will hold a joint informal meeting Tuesday at the Bank of Kennett community room to study the zoning ordinance. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Hospital Goal of $480,000 Sight Is In

DEXTER -- Workers pushing the Dexter Memorial Hospital fund drive have set a 'hats off' goal for Monday. By that time they will have reached the $480,000 mark in the drive.

Forty workers attended a breakfast Friday to hear a report that the total pledged to date is now $381,000. The report was made by Jim Smyth, general chairman of the fund raising drive. Workers voted to keep hospital headquarters open from 8:00 a.m. until 10:00 p.m. on Thanksgiving day for convenience of those who wish to make last minute pledges.

It isn't hard to spot hospital fund workers, for most of them wear bright plaid hats. International Hat Company, at Dexter, made up twenty-two dozen of the hats to be worn till the goal of $480,000 is reached. At that time, a 'hats off' ceremony will be held.

Homer Morgan, big gifts chairman, in addressing the breakfast meeting said, "When we started out we had five miles to go on the drive, at $100,000 a mile. Now we are on that last mile."

Hospital campaign officials have designated Monday, as "Hats Off -- Gone to Hospital Site Day." Between 10 and 11 a.m. Monday a special ceremony will be conducted on the proposed hospital site which is located between Highways 114 and 60 and near the junction of Highway 60 and One Mile Road. At that time, campaign officials will receive the third transmittal from the campaign headquarters which is expected to release that the minimum goal of $480,000 has been reached. The amount needed thus-far as recorded at the campaign headquarters early Thursday morning was $60,972.

Mayor Melvin Gainer issued a formal request to all merchants, shops, stores and offices to close their doors in Dexter Monday between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. and for everyone to "visit the hospital site" for the announcement of the new figures in the fund campaign.

Mayor Gainer said that he was also inviting the mayors and city officials of neighboring communities to be at the site at that time.

A caravan is being formed in all the communities and they are scheduled to arrive at the site by 9:45 a.m.

Signs will be posted on the cars in the caravan stating "We're Going To The Dexter Memorial Hospital." Ambulances in the county will make their "first official emergency runs" to the hospital and will have their sirens on full blast. The local city police and the highway patrol will handle the traffic and parking problems.

At 11 minutes after ten, the Dexter fire department and civil defense sirens and other sirens in the area will blow announcing the big event.

All in all, Monday promises to be a big day for area citizens, with the remainder of this week being quite busy for everyone as contacts must be made to secure the needed $60,972.

APPLES AND EVE

Throughout man's verbal and written history, apples have been used as a symbol of beauty and of deed.

The Tree of Enlightenment was an apple tree in the Bible. It was located in the paradise of Adam and Eve. The Devil, disguised as a serpent, took an apple from the tree and initiated Eve into the world of knowledge, which was characterized by the apple's sweet, tender taste. Eve then gave the lovely, red apple to Adam, and mankind was given its first taste of wisdom in the form of a sweet apple. This story, in similar form, is related in the Moslem Koran.

Later in Greek mythology, it was told that the Goddess of Discord chose a gold apple as an enticing treat to confuse the feminine guests at the festivities at the marriage of Peleus and Thetis. On the apple, an inscription said: "To the fairest -- guaranteed TO BRING DISCORD AMONG THE LOVELY GUESTS." The legend continues to tell that Paris caught the apple and then awarded it to Aphrodite who had promised him Helen, the wife of Menelaus, King of Sparta. This award by Paris resulted in the ten year Trojan War in which the Greeks won Helen back for Menelaus, costing thousands of lives.

Mentions of apples continue to be recorded in the annals of man. Apples have been cultivated in most temperate areas of the world. There are about 2000 named varities throughout the world, but only 8 are of commercial importance in the United States. These varieties are: Delicious, McIntosh, Golden Delicious, Rome Beauty, Jonathan, Winesap, and York Imperial.

Right now, you'll find apples in plentiful supply, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, for the many apple dishes that go so well during these crisp fall days.

Here's a recipe for APPLE CRISP dessert, sure to please the entire family:

Place 4 cups of sliced apples in a greased casserole. Sprinkle with ¼ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Blend ¼ cup margarine, 1-3 cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup sifted flour and 1-3 cup quick-cooking oats. Spread this topping over the apples. Bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes or until apples are tender. Serve with plain, whipped, or ice cream. Serves 4 to 6.

Burglars Came $1,000 Damage To Get $59 $500

POPLAR BLUFF-- Burglars pried open the records vault Tuesday night at the Ozark Border Electric Cooperative building and took nearly $500 from change funds kept in the vault.

Manager C. B. Danner said damage to the fire-proof vault-door and a night depository box in the lobby would total more than $1,000.

The depository box was torn out of a wall. It contained a check and a small amount of money which the burglars overlooked.

A soft drink machine located in a room adjacent to the vault was damaged and a small amount of change stolen from it. Desks in some of the offices were ransacked, but nothing appeared to be missing, Danner said.

Entrance to the building, located a half-mile south of the city limits on highway 67, was gained by opening a door on the north side of the warehouse.

The loss and the damage to the building is covered by insurance, Danner said.

More than $1,400 in change was obtained last summer in a similar burglary of the vault. Damage in that incident was estimated at $1,100. Danner said the concrete-lined fire door on the vault costs about $900.

The night depository box itself is valued at more than $200, Danner said. It was damaged beyond repair.

The walk-in records vault, located off the lobby of the building, is designed to be fireproof. Records appeared to be in good shape this morning, Danner said.

The burglars apparently entered the premises by climbing an 8-foot steel fence topped with strands of barbed wire.

Clark Urges More Bomb Attacks On North Viet Nam

CHICAGO AP -- Retired Gen. Mark W. Clark has urged bombing attacks on all military targets in North Viet Nam to force the Communists to seek a peace settlement.

Clark, who was commander in chief of U. S. fighting forces during part of the Korean War, also said at a news conference Wednesday that this country "shouldn't fight it out on a manpower basis" against the Reds in Viet Nam.

"They have more men than we have and they don't care how many they lose, while we do," he said.

NEW YORK AP -- Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada said Wednesday night that "we can share blackouts" but Canada has no desire to lose its national identity.

A "friendly cooperation" is essential, he said, but too much is undesirable for both of us."

The Canadian leader spoke at a dinner at which he received the third award of the Society of the Family of Man.

Mrs. MacRae and a number of show business friends were at the bar early Wednesday when she discovered her coat missing. She called police and her husband, Gordon, who was in Chicago.

But in the afternoon she got a telephone call from model Brigitte Ingberg, who said, "I'm so sorry," and went on to explain she had picked up the wrong coat.

Now the police are looking for Miss Ingberg's $15,000 sable coat.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

The truly first Thanksgiving for the Pilgrims in this country was the very moment they landed. We are told that they paused and gave thanks to God in gratitude for having made the long and hazardous voyage and having landed safely in the new world—free from religious persecution.

Thanksgiving Day is not only to commemorate the Pilgrims' Thanksgiving after their first harvest but to remind us that thanksgiving is a constant and continuous process each day of the year. Not only in song and verse, but our giving of thanks can best be expressed of the year. Our giving of thanks can best be expressed not only in song and verse but in actions which are a witness to our power of faith.

"So we thy people and sheep of thy pasture will give thee thanks forever: we will shew forth thy praise to all generations."

Bernie Tax Bills Paid at Discount

BERNIE -- Floy Nichols, city clerk, announced that tax bills on street paving projects in Bernie may be paid Friday and Saturday at a discount.

Nichols said that a 5 per cent discount will be allowed and no interest will be charged if the bills are paid in those two days. After Saturday all tax bills on the paving projects will be at the State Bank of Bernie subject to regular interest rates.

Prayer brings the blessing of God upon the laborers who are sent into the field. St. Paul believed that the humblest of the saints could be the means of anointing his lips with grace and power. How many ministers would preach better if they were being constantly upheld by the prayers of those who sit in the church pews!

It is my sincere conviction that if ministers and church people would cooperate in prayer as it is their privilege to do, every church would become a dynamo of spiritual power.

Our failures would become successes, and our defeats would be changed into thrilling victories. Then, and only then, everyone with an eye to see would be constrained to say of us, "You have, because you pray." Arthur C. Fulbright

#4 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area

Rev. C. D. Butler

Saluting: Murray Lane Baptist Church Sikeston, Mo.

The Murray Lane Baptist Church is an outgrowth of the missionary concern of the First Baptist Church of Sikeston. One of the newest churches in the city, it was long a cherished dream of some leaders in the First Baptist Church. From the beginning of development of Southwest Sikeston these people felt that persons living in this area needed a church near their homes. In 1958 the church purchased three acres of land on Murray Lane for such a mission. A building was built in 1959 and the first services were conducted January 3, 1960.

C. D. Butler is the only pastor the church has ever had. He moved to Sikeston Dec. 1, 1959 for final preparation and opening of the new mission. Early committee members included Dr. E. D. Owen, Rev. Paul Higgins, Mrs. Jewell Allen, Chas. H. Butler, A. J. Day, Mrs. Herschel Deal, Bill Hayden, Gail Harrison, Dolan Rogers, Philip Sadler, Howard McGill and Mrs. Nelson Wheeler. The mission was organized into a separate church on Sept. 16, 1962.

Even while it was a mission Murray Lane Church has been concerned about other missions. Presently it contributes 20% of all undesignated receipts to missions beyond the local church field. For five years the church has operated a kindergarten. Total receipts last year were in excess of $40,000.

Deacons of the church are Flaire Ferrell, Chairman, Leroy Parmenter, Cecil Boyer, Deneen Couch, Gail Harrison, Charles Hileman. Sunday School Supt. is Tom Dollar. Leroy Parmenter serves as Training Union Director. Mrs. Jas. O. Kelley is Womans Missionary Union President. Deneen Couch is Brotherhood President and Song Leader. Mrs. C. D. Butler is Music Director of the Church. Present church membership is 320 and Sunday School enrollment is 478.

France Expels Nationalist Chinese Man

PARIS (AP) — A Nationalist Chinese newsman, Francis Ting, was expelled from France today. Informed sources said the Interior Ministry ordered him to leave because France had established diplomatic relations with Peking.

Ting, a correspondent for the weekly Free China Review, had been in France for 10 years. His newspaper will continue to be represented by his assistant, Shih-Chien Chao.

TOKYO (AP) — The Defense Agency's research institute today postponed the test of a Japanese-made ground-to-ground missile because of opposition from residents near the testing range.

The tests were to have been held Nov. 25-26 at a firing range at the foothills of Mt. Fuji, the same range where local residents last month forced the indefinite postponement of rocket-firing practice by U.S. forces.

An institute official said no new date had been set.

LONDON (AP)—By a 12-vote margin, the House of Commons defeated a Conservative motion Wednesday night to censure Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government for its economic policies.

The vote was 280-268, and the 10 Liberal party members abstained. Wilson officially has a two-seat majority in the 630-seat House.

Freedom To Think Stressed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Inherit The Wind" is a play based on the celebrated clash between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow 40 years ago in the historic Scopes trial. As a television drama Thursday night it was played out in a courtroom but emerged more as a preachment on freedom of thought and of expression.

The 90-minute version of the play by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee on NBC started with a street scene in a small town on the eve of the trial of a young teacher charged with breaking a state law. He had taught his classes something of Charles Darwin's controversial theory of evolution. The angry townsfolk were primarily fundamentalists who believed implicitly in the Bible and considered any theory of man's origin except the one set down in Genesis to be heresy.

The prosecutor in the case was called Matthew Brady, an old man at the end of a career that included running for president unsuccessfully three times. The defense lawyer was called Drummond, another old man who had spent a lifetime defending unpopular causes.

The climax of the play came when Drummond, played by Melvyn Douglas, put his opponent on the witness stand as a Bible expert and proceeded to examine him furiously on his philosphy and beliefs until he contradicted himself.

The point of the play was an uncomplicated restatement of the thesis that in a free society man must be free to think for himself and to express himself and that all ideas must have a chance to be heard.

Ed Begley as the ailing and disappointed orator and office seeker, gave an impressive performance, by turns pompous, ridiculous and pathetic.

The play moved along slowly and heavily, however, and at times was so static and talky that it seemed to be more of a two man argument than a dramatic show. But when a theater-length play is chopped down to fit into television's rigid time schedules, drastic cuts must be made. And because there was no time to establish the backgrounds of the two men, the devastating examination scene failed to come off with the same electricity it had on the stage.

HOW DOES YOUR GARDEN GROW?

Two beatniks met on a street corner. "Like they say, dad, how have things been going?" asked the first beat one.

"Terrible, man, terrible!" was the dejected reply.

"Like what, dad?"

"Sample. I bought an artificial flower the other day. And it died."

Misses Daisy Garden and Anna Randoll were Cape Girardeau visitors Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Carroll, Joe Peacher and the latter's mother visited in Chaffee Sunday.

30 years ago
November 19, 1935

Mr. and Mrs. Ebert Morrow and little daughter moved to Cape Girardeau Saturday of last week, where they expect to be located.

Marion Thrower was killed and Clem Marshall, jr., was injured when a blow out caused Thrower's model A Ford coupe to turn over several times at the foot of the Sikeston ridge, west of town Saturday night.

A daughter was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Ray White of near Sikeston.

With only two minutes to play, the Bulldogs added a fifth victory to their season's record by slipping through the Kennett Indians for a touchdown. The score was 6 to 0.

20 years ago
November 19, 1945

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Leighninger transacted business in Cape Girardeau Tuesday.

New arrivals. Gloria LaVerne is the name given the daughter born to Pvt. and Mrs. Russell Walker at a St. Louis hospital November 9. Pvt. Walker, son of Mrs. J. N. Walker, is stationed with the armed forces at Camp Fannin, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Jeffers of Matthews are parents of a son born at the Sikeston General Hospital November 8.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

To this end we toil and strive, because we have our hope set on the living God, who is the Savoir of all men, especially of those who believe. (I Timothy, 4:10, RSV)

PRAYER: Eternal Father, let us not stay childish in our faith, but help us to grow strong and to stand firm and faithful in Thee. Teach us, Lord, to live so close to Thee, as did Jesus, that we may look at the tests of faith no longer as sufferings but as blessings. Take our lives and make them Thine. In Jesus' name we ask. Amen.

Armed Forces

No Feed Grain Surplus

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri Farmers Association, said today "we no longer have a surplus of feed grains."

"The grain surplus has been solved," he said. "Our problem is to keep it solved."

Heinkel one of the authors of the government's feed grain program, said farmers are harvesting the largest crop of soybeans and corn they have ever grown "and trade channels have evidenced little concern. Cash grain prices in Missouri are higher than the loan in most instances."

"Government take-over of grain has been negligible the past few years," he added. "In Missouri the Commodity Credit Corporation has disposed of approximately 3½ million bushels of grain storage the past 18 months and the remaining government storage is filled to less than 30 per cent of capacity."

Heinkel said credit for solving the grain surplus problem "must be given to the success of the government feed grain program; an increase in exports and the high level of prosperity in this country."

Two Lilbourn Juniors to Take Part in Contest

LILBOURN -- Two Lilbourn high school juniors, Paula Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warner of Lilbourn, and Joanna Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Duncan, also of Lilbourn, were chosen to represent their class. They will enter competition with the school's speech class to determine who will carry the LHS banner in the county's American Legion oratorical contest to be held early in December.

Paula and Joanna won out over more than 60 juniors, all of whom delivered speeches of from five to six minutes on a phase of the constitution.

Paula spoke on "Our Constitution, Bed Rock of Democracy." Joanna's speech was "Our Constitution, Worth Having, Worth Defending."

A man went to his doctor for a checkup and got this advice: "You have to give up wine and women -- you may sing as much as you want to."

Storm Hovers Over Northeast

A storm hovered over the Northeastern United States today, packing strong winds, snow and cold.

The storm struck the Lake Huron area Tuesday before it swung over the coast of Maine Wednesday night.

Rain fell from the Pacific Coast inland to the Rocky Mountains, and bitter cold gripped the Midwest.

But the brunt of the attack today was in the Northeast.

Meadville, in western Pennsylvania, reported 9½ inches of snow on the ground. A 62-year-old woman was killed when her car slid across a slushy highway and hit a tree.

Gale warnings were up along the Atlantic Coast from Maine to Cape Hatteras, N.C. Heavy-snow warnings were in effect in sections of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

In the early-morning hours, 9 inches of snow covered the ground at Newport, Vt. Seven inches of it fell within six hours. Berlin, N.H., reported a 4-inch fall within the six-hour period, and up to 5 inches whitened the shores of Lake Ontario in New York State.

Behind the storm, a vast pool of cold air settled across the nation's midsection and forced its way deep into the South.

Richmond, Va., residents shivered in an overnight low of 29 degrees and it was 31 in Atlanta.

New Bathing Suits Barer Than Ever

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Bathing suits for next year emerge barer than ever in the California designers' preview, so bare, in fact, that they're covered by everything from carpenters' aprons to Tahitian trousers.

There was little left to the imagination in the barely-there bikinis and clinging and cut-out bathing suits displayed at the California fashion creators' showing of resort and spring wear Wednesday.

Catalina showed a denim carpenter's apron over a brief matching bikini. A cable knit overblouse topped a matching swim suit.

But most popular of all were the knee-length, ruffled trousers variously called long jammies and surf britches.

The trousers, sometimes covering bikini trunks, at other times paired only with brief bikini bras, were patterned from the surfer trousers which first became popular in Tahiti, a Catalina spokesman said.

They turned up in the Cole of California collection as well. They date back, a Catalina spokesman said, to the roomy bathing trunks male surfers used for comfort in riding the Pacific Ocean waves.

They come striped, flowered, and polka-dotted.

The results: Windbreaker jackets in everything from waterproof fabric to cotton prints; laced trunks and cotton-knit surfer shirts for both beach and campus wear.

The bare look, spurred by the topless swim suit nearly two years ago, inspired a few daring numbers in last year's swim suit collection. This year, however, a suit which was merely lacking straps, midriff or sides, is sans all three.

Seek Flu Protection Early, Heart Association Advises

When winter comes, can flu be far behind? Not his year, according to the nation's medical forecasters.

The prediction is for a heavy outbreak of influenza this year, based on the two-to-three year cycle typical of the disease. The last major outbreaks in the United States generally were in 1962-63, and, on the West Coast, in 1963-64.

Because people with a heart or circulatory problem are likely to be more seriously affected than others if they develop flu, the Missouri Heart Association recommends that they check with the doctor on the advisability of vaccination. Immunization with flu vaccine has been recommended by public health authorities for a number of high risk groups. These groups include:

Persons of all ages suffering from chronic diseases, such as rheumatic heart disease, other heart and circulatory problems, respiratory ailments such as asthma and emphysema, and diabetes.

Persons in older age groups. Influenza deaths are disproportionately higher among those past 45, and much higher in the over-65 bracket.

Pregnant women.

Patients in nursing homes and chronic disease hospitals.

The vaccine developed for use this season offers protection against five different types of virus, all capable of causing influenza. While it will not ensure complete immunity, vaccination has in past years produced a marked degree of protection for a large majority of those who received it.

Flu vaccine is administered in two doses; the first in the fall, the second about two months later. However, the interval can be reduced if an epidemic threatens. Those vaccinated within the past two years need only one booster dose this fall.

Whether you have a heart problem or not, the Missouri Heart Association suggests:

Ask your doctor about influenza protection for you and your family.

Licorice Good For Cows

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. AP -- An animal nutritionist from Pennsylvania State University says licorice a favorite with kids, is good for cows.

Dr. Theodore A. Long Jr., in a statement released by the university Thursday, said research shows licorice root contains wholesome nourishments when mixed with other cattle feed.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Nov. 19, the 323rd day of 1965. There are 42 days left in the year.

On this date

In 1831, the 20th American president, James Garfield, was born.

In 1874, the Women's Christian Temperance Union was organized in Cleveland.

One year ago — More than 1,000 Roman Catholic bishops petitioned Pope Paul to reverse a decision blocking action on a religious liberty declaration by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The jet stream is a high-speed, westerly wind, which is notable for being concentrated in a narrow current. It occurs in the middle latitudes at altitudes ranging from 20,000 to 40,000 feet. Winds at the center of the stream can exceed 200 m.p.h. Airplanes often take advantage of jet stream to increase their speed.

Wallace

into foreign policy led to a clash with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. Truman backed Byrnes and fired Wallace.

Later Wallace changed his mind about Soviet communism and warned of the danger of Red China to both the United States and the Soviet Union.

In the 1948 election Wallace ran for president as the Progressive party candidate in hopes of assuring the defeat of Truman by the Republican nominee, Thomas E. Dewey. He got 1,156,103 votes but Truman was elected.

Afterwards, Wallace retired to Farvue, a 115-acre hilltop farm at South Salem, N.Y., where he worked to improve the egg-yield of chickens, to grow better strawberries and develop gladiola with a stronger resistance to cold.

Wallace, born Oct. 7, 1888, on a farm in Adair County, Iowa, had made his first mark as a plant expert and the developer of hybrid corn. His father had been secretary of agriculture in the Harding and Coolidge administrations and it was in this post that the son joined the Cabinet of President Roosevelt in 1933. He later changed his registration from Republican to Democrat.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church at Ridgefield, Conn., Cremation will be at Mountain Grove Cemetery, Bridgeport, Conn., and the ashes will be interred Monday at Woodland Cemetery in Des Moines, Iowa.

Try To Spot Bold Burglar

Scott county authorities have taken Patrolman Isiah Dunn to Farmington in an attempt to identify a man suspected of robbing the Progressive Loan Company Wednesday night of $2,250.

As Dunn checked doors the night of the burglary, he saw a man come out of the loan company office.

He asked him what he was doing there and the man told him that he was an employe of the firm.

Authorities are investigating on the assumption that the man was the burglar.

Retires From Factory Job

She joined the company's fitting department on Feb. 10, 1930, and has worked in the skive shoe department.

Miss Walker is a native of Hardin county, Ky., and since moving to Sikeston has been active in the Church of the Nazarene.

Her immediate plans were to rest for awhile after which she will visit a brother in Oregon.

Storm Swirls Over Coast

Winds up to 60 miles per hour lashed Cape Blanco on the southwestern Oregon coast as one-half inch of rain fell in a six-hour period.

The storm sent showers and strong winds to the north and central Pacific Coast. Snows extended inland to the northern Rockies.

The heavy rains which have swamped Southern California for five days tapered off.

Los Angeles has recorded 5.25 inches of rain, and up to 15 inches has fallen in the mountains since Saturday night. Thousands of homes have been flooded, isolated or threatened by mud slides. Many roads remained closed.

More than 3,000 miles away in the Northeastern United States, residents took a breather after a day of battering winds and snow.

Mrs. Kennedy Guest Of Royalty

NEW YORK AP -- Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband received Mrs. John F. Kennedy as their first guest Thursday night after arriving here on the last leg of a whirlwind U. S. tour to sightsee "in the most vibrant city there is."

"This is not the end of a glorious visit," said the princess, "but the beginning." Her six-day itinerary includes a ball, dinner parties, country outings, shopping and enough tourist hopping to stagger a hiker.

Freights Roll On Santa Fe

CHICAGO (AP) — Freight trains are rolling again over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co.'s 13,000-mile system after a short-livd strke.

Less than six hours after the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks called the walkout Thursday, union officials ordered the 9,000 members back to work.

The president of the clerk's union, C.L. Dennis, said the strike was temporarily suspended after the National (Railway) Mediation Board in Washington asked both parties to postpone action pending settlement efforts by a federal mediator.

Bertrand News

By Mrs. Florence Fenimore

Maude Rushing visited her son-A. J. Rushing and family in Kirkwood Mo., over weekend.

I've breakfasted ready to attend church of my choice Bertrand M E church.

Bobby Zook brot paper Sun. Post dispatch. He's such a nice looking black eyed boy. He's freshman at Charleston high school. Said he work at Billy McCubbins Grocery store. Billy McCubbins married Coleen Cunningham a pretty red head. She was the daughter of Maggie and John Cunningham sold coal and had a barber shop in Bertrand, Mo.

I remember his father the late Bill McCubbins he drove a black team of mules thro Bertrand in a spring wagon. He and his wife and Billy Cunningham and wife Agnes is operating cafe where the beauty parlor was. Emma Burke was out here Sat. night with a broken ankle to see her father. She teaches Charleston years ago when our Bertrand public school. It went to 12th grade now to 8th grade.

Emma Burke and Mr. J. L. Young taught in our public school system. I see we are out of debt. Have they found out who tore up Bill Laugh house Cecil Bethunes' house shot a hole thro Albert Peters car who tore up Bert Rowe's farm house.

Everything remains a mistery. Must write to Doc Handy Smith.

I went to school with Lillian Applegate in Lexington, Mo. Handy said he dident hurt him so badly to pull a tooth as it did to ask old man Applegate for pretty black eyed Lillian Applegate's hand in marriage. I remember my late husband Geo. Fenimore said he corner my father the late Judge J. R. Bush for my hand in marriage. I say yes.

I attended WSCS Wed at Bertrand M E. Church Parlors. Those seated around banquet table Bob Burke, Cordia Farmer, Blanche Miller, Pres. Bertha Collier, Ruth and Clara Patrick, Helen Bagby, Alma Schwab, Clara Peters, Lacy Young and Florence Fenimore. After a sumptious meal Elva Gaty took such a delicious pie of Blackberry and boison berry.

We had business meeting. Alma Schwab, leader, paid our dues.

We sent $15.00 to Kingdom house St. Louis. I've been there to view it. They care for mothers children while she works. What about the mysterious magician has been visiting in South East Mo.

He has a stick can detect nature of earth he found oil in Big Oak Park. He has dug up Indian moument sent it on to museum. Thats our Indian mound north Charleston. I have played on that mound when I was a child I attended home Ec.

I had lunch two big platers fried chicken. I was at Betty Wagners home west of Diehlstadt Mo. Those present, Betty Wagner, hostess, Maude Shauley, Francis Welch, Mrs. Wagner's black eyed daughter and Betty Granson, Florence Fenimore and Mattie Hutcherson. A business meeting was had dues paid we said club collect pledged allegiance to flag. Willie Elkins treasurer was there.

Nancy Tasuey had to take her daughter to Cairo, Ill., to entrain for Florida. He is on the Air base down there. We arrive home in time for supper. Belle Greens good looking daughter took her riding Sat. afternoon. Bruce Lewis Sikeston was here Sat. afternoon. Aunt Kate Gullions daughters were here Fri. night.

I didn't get to go to funeral and Mrs. Geo. Roberts had no way.

Mrs. Simmons has lots fine looking folks come to see her often. She's a bed patient. We are rejoicing over Cowboy Smith. He went to hospital, Columbia, Mo., got two good legs now he's walking good.

LABOR FAMILIES DEMAND HOMES WITH MORE BATHROOMS

Every seven seconds -- in hospitals, ambulances, taxis, automobiles and private homes throughout the country -- a new baby comes into the world.

Since families today are getting larger, those that plan ahead for adequate bathroom facilities will be the happiest, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. Friction over use of the bathroom is one of the most common problems in one-bathroom families, the Bureau says, and more and more families are demanding at least a bath-and-a-half when shopping for a new home.

1. Almost three out of every four new homes built in 1963 (the last year for which statistics are available) had more than one bathroom.

2. More two-bath homes were built in that year than 1-bath.

3. About one in every 25 homes had three bathrooms or more.

For families of three or four, a minimum of two bathrooms is considered essential, although 2 1/2 is the ideal. Families with four members or more should have at least three bathrooms.

One - bath homes already are getting harder to sell at attractive prices. Thus the young couple who plans for enough bathrooms to provide for a growing family will eliminate the "rush hour" waiting line as children grow up. And they'll also find that additional bathrooms will enhance the resale value of their homes, should they ever decide to put it on the housing market.

AN OPEN LETTER To The Residents Of Sikeston

YOUR HELP IS URGENTLY NEEDED!

The 1965 goal of the United Fund of Sikeston is $38,900.00. This will go to help the Eight United Fund organizations that serve our area: Boy Scouts, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Girl Scouts, Red Cross, Salvation Army, City Welfare, USO & Civil Air Patrol.

Only one of the many services the Red Cross provides in our area is the verification of requests for emergency leave from our many servicemen. In the past years, the local Red Cross Chapter handled almost 400 of these requests. If they do not receive adequate funds for their purposes, this and many others of their fine services will have to be curtailed.

The Salvation Army daily serves a need not met by any other organization in this city. Its work is both spiritual and material. Moreover, the Salvation Army will guarantee that a minimum of twenty percent (20%) of their budget will be spent right here in Sikeston.

In Sikeston there are over 800 boys who are members of Boy Scouts, learning to be better future citizens. Money is needed to expand and improve the Scouting program.

The Girl Scouts have approximately 532 girls currently active in Sikeston. Our contribution to the Girl Scouts through the United Fund plays a vital part in the continuance of their program.

In the five years from 1959 thru 1964, the Missouri Delta Community Hospital has provided over $157,000.00 worth of free hospital care, an average of over $31,500.00 per year for the five year period. The money the hospital receives from the United Fund helps defray the costs of this indigent hospital care.

The City Welfare takes care of our local welfare needs, and in addition, the director acts as executive secretary and co-ordinator of each years United Fund Drive.

The Civil Air Patrol mission activities include: a national program of aerospace education for adults and youth, participation in disaster emergency services-nationally and locally, and in cooperation with and support of Civil Defense and the American Red Cross disaster relief programs.

To reach their total goal, the United Fund has urged each citizen of Sikeston to contribute one day's pay.

To reach their total goal, the United Fund has urged each citizen of Sikeston to contribute one day's pay. Most employers in Sikeston have agreed that they would be willing to accept an employee's contribution through a payroll deduction plan.

If solicited separately, you would give something to the hospital, something to the Red Cross, something to the Salvation Army, something to the Boy Scouts, something to the Girl Scouts, something to City Welfare, and something to the USO and Civil Air Patrol. How much? Think it over and then contribute the total in one gift to United Fund of Sikeston.

THE MORE U GIVE

UNITED FUND OF SIKESTON

The 1965 campaign opened officially October 5 and it is planned to close it, successfully, on December 1. With that same generosity that has typified Sikeston citizens in the past, we can reach our goal easily within the time set. Be generous. We have a community-wide responsibility that we must meet community-wide.
